

Patricia Heldman, Margaret Conlon, and Isabelle Williams suggest that haunting the library is part of the technique for making Who's Who.

Faculty Names Three To Collegiate Who's Who

Honored by inclusion in the 1951-52 edition of Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges are three seniors: Margaret Conlon, Patricia Heldman, and Isabelle Williams.

The faculty nominated these students on the basis of outstanding leadership, scholarship, participation in extra-curricular activities, citizenship, service, and promise of future usefulness.

All three are Florida residents who have retained scholarships for their four years of attendance at Barry and have been on the Dean's list every semester.

Isabelle Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Williams, 3503 Santiago street, Tampa, is the president of the student body.

A music major, Isabelle was an instructor in the music classes for children conducted by the Music Department last summer.

Isabelle has held office as secretary of the freshman class 1948-49; president of the sophomore class 1949-50; president of the junior class 1950-51; treasurer of the Spanish club 1949-50; and sub-prioress of the Tertiaries 1950-51.

Patricia Heldman, president of the senior class, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. Heldman, 725 N. E. 130th street, North Miami.

A music major, Patricia has served

Opening Night Of Moliere Play In Ring Nov. 29

"The Doctor In Spite Of Himself," Moliere's great comedy, will be dramatized by the Playhouse in the Social Hall November 29, 30, and December 1.

Featuring Bachelor Owens, prominent University of Miami actor, as the Doctor, the play includes Marie McCormick and understudy, Mary Emma Grady, as Martine; Caroline Childs in the role of Jacqueline, the nurse, with Frances Miller, her understudy; and Shirley Hodge portraying Lucinde with Jane Ann Cerre, stand-in.

Fred Fisher, speech teacher at Miami Jackson high school, will act as Lucinde's father, while Douglas Kinder, Jerry Haley, and Arn Carriero furnish servants' parts in the supporting cast.

The writer of "The Doctor In Spite of Himself," Moliere, born Jean Baptiste Poquelin, is recognized as one of the greatest comic geniuses of all times, and was a well-known dramatist in 17th century Paris theaters.

This farce, known world-over as Moliere's greatest satire, will be unfolded ring-theater style for three performances.

as treasurer of her class 1949-50, and as vice president, 1950-51.

Margaret Conlon is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Conlon, 3743 Park street, Jacksonville.

Margaret is prefect of the sodality and literary editor of the Torch and Shield. Previously she has served as social chairman of the junior class 1950-51, and as secretary of the Athletic Association 1950-51. She is an English major.

All three students are members of the campus society, Lambda Sigma.

Majority of '51 Graduates Choose Teaching as Career

"I wonder what's become of Sally?" Well, stop wondering, for the "Barry Bureau of Missing Persons" busied itself to find out what has happened to the class of '51. Teaching, as a career, has attracted most of last year's graduates.

Rolande Gonthier, who entered the Sisters of St. Dominic at Adrian, Michigan, in June, will receive the habit in January '52. Rolande is teaching for the first semester in an elementary school in Chicago.

Fulfilling a lifelong ambition, Patricia O'Hara is teaching a class for exceptional children at the Burbank school in Chicago.

The Bureau found Rosemarie Windbiel in Peoria, Illinois, teaching student nurses nutrition and diet therapy at St. Anthony's hospital.

Loma Rafferty enjoys her work as a nursery school teacher in North Miami.

Katie Ledwell is busy these days teaching the three R's to the third graders at the Miami Shores Elementary school.

With "29 pupils and a newly painted classroom," Mary Alice Droze is teaching too. She has the fourth grade at the Mattie V. Rutherford school in Jacksonville.

Down South American way—in Puerto Rico to be exact—the Bureau located another teacher, Patricia Patterson.

Teaching the sixth grade in Sarasota, Florida, is Betty Kerby, while Frances Guzman is a science teacher with a tenth grade home room at St. Mary's school in Little River.

The physical education teacher at St. Patrick's, Miami Beach is Marilyn Byrnes. By the way, Marilyn will be walking up the aisle November 24, in St. Patrick's church, Miami Beach.

Trinalee Depperman is teaching in Fernandina, Florida.

In Berea, Ohio, Virginia Mitchell is teaching the fifth grade.

At the Shadowlawn school some third graders are very lucky young-

Archduke To Discuss Danger Zones

His Imperial Highness, the Archduke Otto of Austria-Hungary, will lecture here on November 18. His topic will be "World Danger Zones."

The Archduke is a recognized authority on this subject since he has devoted much time to the study of the evolution, revolutionary tactics, and doctrines of the Communist movement. Recently the Russian press denounced him editorially as one of the most dangerous and active pro-American personalities in the Danube Basin.

A great grand nephew of Emperor Francis-Joseph, Archduke Otto is the son of Charles, Emperor of Austria and King of Hungary and the Empress Zita. He was born on November 20, 1912 in Reichenau, Austria-Hungary.

The early years of his childhood were spent in the imperial castles of Vienna and Budapest but after the revolution of 1919 the family went to Switzerland and later the Island of Madeira, where his father died in 1922.

Otto of Austria-Hungary studied in Switzerland, Spain and France. Constitutional law, public finance, farming, economy, and geo-politics were his major interests. At the age of 21 he was graduated as a doctor of political science from Louvain university, Belgium.

Supported by the Monarchist movement, Otto of Austria-Hungary has been very active in the inner politics of his country as an enemy of totalitarianism in any form. Because of this and because he, along with his brother Felix, helped organize an Austrian underground, the first fighting against Hitler in an occupied country, Archduke Otto was placed high on Hitler's purge list.

The Archduke has traveled extensively in all the critical areas of Europe and is well acquainted with the workings of Communism. He has also made a research trip through North Africa, the Near East, India and China.

Working with other leaders of Central Europe in the cause of the United Nations, Otto of Austria-Hungary has visited every state in the United States giving informative lectures.

His wife, princess of the house of Saxe-Mennigen has accompanied him on this trip for her first visit to the United States.

The Sodality is conducting a clothing drive during the month of November. All students are urgently requested to contribute.

Barry Host To NCEA Meet December 7

The Southern Regional meeting of the National Catholic Educational Association will take place on Barry college campus on December 7.

This meeting always follows the annual convention of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools which will meet this year in St. Petersburg, December 2-6.

In charge of arrangements is the Rev. Francis R. Shea, principal of the Father Ryan high school in Nashville. Father Shea is chairman of the Secondary School Department and is responsible for the planning of the program for that division.

Assisting him with the program for the college department is the Rev. Cuthbert Allen, O.S.B., dean of Belmont Abbey college, Belmont, N. C. The chairman of the Elementary School Department is Sister Francis Joseph, S.S.J., diocesan supervisor of the Sisters of St. Joseph, St. Augustine, Florida.

A committee at Barry College will be in charge of the housing of delegates.

Program Honors Barry Founders

Amid the splendor of the annual Founder's Day ceremonies November 15, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. William Barry will be present to celebrate the High Mass in honor of St. Albert the Great.

The processional before mass will be the "Founder's Day Hymn," which was written by Sister M. Denise, O.P., in memory of the late Most Rev. Bishop Patrick Barry. Music for the mass itself will be the Mass of the Good Shepherd, also composed by Sister M. Denise, O.P.

The programme following mass will give due honor to all four founders of the college. Barbara Braun will discuss Bishop Barry's life and achievements. The wide range of Monsignor Barry's interests as a priest will be the subject of a talk by Marguerite Lapham. Dorothy Hoff will discuss the contributions of Mother M. Gerald, O.P., as the far-sighted Mother General of the Adrian Dominicans. Patricia Genter will talk on the accomplishments of Mr. John Thompson. Margaret Conlon will be mistress of ceremonies.

A musical touch will be added to the programme by the Tara Singers' choral interpretation of two numbers from "The Firefly" by Friml: "Giannina Mia" and "Donkey Serenade," and "Let There Be Music" by Williams.

Roast turkey will highlight the brunch menu, with, of course, the complete trimmings of dressing, whipped potatoes, giblet gravy, carrots and peas, hot rolls, and brownies a la mode.

Queen Crowned In Formal Ceremony

Dr. Ralph Boggs, director of the Hispanic Institute of the University of Miami, crowned this year's campus Queen, Raquel Gaztambide, at the Coronation Ball, November 3.

The queen, who will preside officially over all the social functions on campus, was attended by Patricia Heldman, Isabelle Williams, Margaret Conlon and Barbara Ann Braun.

Jaime Santiago, University of Miami law student, was Raquel's escort.

Deo Gratias!

What is Thanksgiving?

Any schoolboy can give us a summary of the historical background. Everyone knows that the schools and offices will be closed, and we will all take pleasure in looking in store windows decorated with wax reproductions of turkey and other sumptuous morsels of the Thanksgiving menu.

Daily radio programs which award a turkey to the housewife who answers a difficult question, or to the boy or girl who can identify a song contribute to the spirit of the day, which is one of true generosity and Americanism. No one is forgotten.

Societies give Thanksgiving baskets to needy families; prisons and state hospitals permit their inmates the occasion. Thanksgiving is a holiday peculiar to our nation and it is in this fact that the purpose of Thanksgiving is made manifest.

If other countries imitate our holiday with something similar, might we not say that theirs and ours have the same components? Might we not ask, also, whether our day is truly ours, not an imitation or parallel of some Roman feast? In every other country, days are put aside for one sort of banquet or another. But there is an essential difference.

Thanksgiving is a holiday real only in our land, the offspring of our history. It is the embodiment of all the good traditions that we own.

Thank God we live in a country in which institutions such as Thanksgiving are maintained, our gift to the world.

Sound Off!

Tired of school? Just can't wait another minute for vacation? Start griping! Go ahead and sound off! But please do it in front of your own mirror, in your own room and when no one else is around.

No one quite seems to realize how depressing it is to others when all one hears is constant griping. Sure, there are days when we all feel like bombing B. C. and everyone in it, but that's a different story. Blowing off then is good for the soul.

But, did you ever feel wonderful, full of energy and happy with everything around you? Most of us do feel that way at one time or another. But what happens? Some dear thing starts to point out all the things that she does not like! Everyone starts thinking desperately for something to gripe about. It usually winds up with everyone trying to out-complain everyone else.

You know the story about the one bad apple—it only takes one to set off a chain reaction of gripes.

Barry college has the best. Let's appreciate it and stir up a little rah-rah spirit. Throw away that cloud and keep the silver lining!

An Ode To Melancholy

This year I came, a freshman new,
Inexperienced and jittery, 'tis quite true.
We went upon a library tour,
And the knowledge acquired proved quite poor.

I did not worry; Oh, no, not me!
This library (I thought) I'll never see.
But like all freshmen, I found I was wrong,
And approached the library with a face rather long.

I opened the door and walked down the stairs;
Then came a slam that filled the air.
It was only the door I had just come through;
How did I know it would slam! Did you?

I approached the desk not feeling so bright;
And you know what? That feeling was right.
I waited awhile and looked around,
People stared — but I stood my ground.

You know—I'm only after two books,
Why am I getting those questioning looks?
Finally my gaze turned to the left,
And what do you think? the card file, no less.

Saved at last (I foolishly thought),
And my fast-fleeing confidence I once again caught.
I opened a few of those drawers so neat,
And up to me came a strange pair of feet,
"You can pull these drawers all the way out."
"Thank you," I said, in an echoing shout.

Ah . . . here're the two books I came in for—
I soon disappeared through the stack room door.
To my doom, I unknowingly tread,
"A call slip?" What's that?" I naively said.

Call slip, reserve slips, overnight slips and things,
All this only makes bells start to ring.
Those multi-colored slips are pretty, that's true,
But they also make us freshmen blue.

Periodical rules, stack rules, carrels and dues,
If only I had a mind to lose!
No gum, no ink, no spirals, no talk,
At all this we do not balk.

But one thing we ask, with hearts sincere,
So please stop a moment and lend an ear—
Just a little more patience, and soon we'll be
The best of the users of the LIBRAREEEEE!

Alumnae Association Pushes Ticket Sales

The latest activity of the Alumnae association is the sale of tickets for two November dramatic productions.

The association is renewing their custom of subsidizing a tuition scholarship for a student of the Dean's choice.

To help finance their contribution, the members are selling 100 tickets for "Finian's Rainbow," which will be given in the University of Miami's Ring Theatre on November 21. If all of their tickets are sold, the Alum's will make a profit of $80.00.

Tickets will also be sold for the drama department's presentation of "A Doctor in Spite of Himself." The association will receive 20 per cent of the proceeds resulting from its sale of tickets.

Girls of the month, Sheila Brown, Mary Virginia Diamond, Barbara Ann Braun, and Sondra Sue Hellmich smile prettily for the photographer.

Thimble Theatre

FEW NEW FACES are as well known on the campus as is that of Sondra Sue Hellmich. Sue, a secretarial science major, is from Batesville, Indiana. She is the chairman pro tempore of the freshman class, and the consensus is that she is doing an excellent job.

Sue enjoys swimming and almost every other sport. Knitting is one of her favorite hobbies, and her interest in photography has earned her a position on the staff of the Angelicus.

HOBE SOUND, FLORIDA, a thriving community of five hundred people (during the tourist season), can boast of a favorite daughter at Barry. She is Mary Virginia Diamond, sophomore sociology major. A graduate of Marion County high school, Mary Virginia started Barry as a freshman and has already made the Dean's List.

Besides being treasurer of the Athletic Association and a member of the House Committee, she is kept busy with study, swimming, tennis, boating, and, as her roommate says, "She catches sailfish like mad."

Mary Virginia came to Hobe Sound from her home in New York, but she intends to remain in Florida after finishing school. She says she likes to knit and that her specialty is argyle socks. "Of course," she says, "I only have about six inches of my first sock done, but I've only been working on it for two years." Everyone hopes that Mary Virginia gets through her last years at Barry soon, very soon.

FOR A GIRL who enjoys winter sports as much as junior Shelia Brown does, Florida seems to be an odd place to choose to go to school. After finishing school in Portland, Maine, however, Sheila still wanted to come to school here, away from her snowy home in Gardiner, Maine.

While majoring in education, Sheila has found time to participate in the Student Council and the House Council, and has been elected vice president of the New England club. She enjoys reading biographies, but has no favorite author.

When Sheila graduates in 1953, she will return to Maine to begin her career in teaching elementary school.

ALTHOUGH MIAMI has been her home for almost eight years, Barbara Ann Braun is originally from Louisville, Kentucky. This is Barbara's last year at Barry, and after graduation she plans to attend school in the North. An English major, Barbara is a future librarian and is one of the student aides in the school library.

She is the Prioress of the Dominican Tertiaries, a sodalist, a member of the Student Council, and co-literary editor of the Torch and Shield.

To the Editor

Dear Editor:

With Thanksgiving coming up soon and with people all around us talking blithely of giving thanks for our democracy, I would like to use this means to take a minute out to offer my thanks to Barry College and its faculty for the way in which democracy is not only being taught but also lived.

All this was brought out forcibly by the recent modification of the now famed "day hops" rule." I think very few students were aware of the strength of the student representatives until the Student Council acted in behalf of the girls to modify this ruling.

Don't you think this is typical? Where else do people have such opportunities to express their views and have them respected? And where else do you find such concrete examples of "living democracy" as right here on our campus?

I intend to offer special prayers not only that we may continue to live in a country as free as ours, but that our schools will continue to teach and live in true democratic spirit.

A grateful one of Barry's Merries.

What This Country Needs..

Rah! Rah! Sis boom bah! How often we hear students bemoaning a lack of school spirit at Barry, citing some co-ed college as a model of student interest. Most of this interest is centered around football, for undoubtedly football is the thing in most collegians' lives. But just what makes it that way?

Certainly it's not the game itself—a comparatively small number of football fans understand the fine points well enough to warrant weekly attendance. "It's the spirit!" the rest all agree. And one key to the spirit is the cheerleaders!

Of course, we don't have a football team but that doesn't mean we can't have spirit! Why not bring some of the features of the pre-game pep rally into our student assemblies? Wouldn't a few cheerleaders of our own brighten intramurals, bus rides, and parties? Not to mention the effect they would have on the opposition on Play Day!

Want to Know Where to Go?

Hungry? Like to eat? Most of us do, so here's a list of some of the spots listed as favorites by fellow students.

For fried shrimp, 'tis said that there's no place like Watson's in Little River. Their prices are just as good, too.

On famous Biscayne boulevard, two restaurants with atmosphere and good food are the Robin Hood at N. E. 36th street and the Red Coach at N. E. 14th street. The Robin Hood's specialty is charcoal broiled steak that just can't be surpassed.

The Red Coach is a bit more expensive, so it's a wonderful place to go when the allowance first comes in. Follow a dinner at the Red Coach with a movie at the Mayfair Theatre for a completely enjoyable evening. The Mayfair features the exceptional in movies.

In downtown Miami at 204 Biscayne boulevard, El Toledo draws a group of lovers of Spanish dishes. The food is good, and the prices reasonable.

The Town Sandwich Shop on N. E. First street is ideal for lunches on shopping days. The service is quick, it's quiet, and of course, the food is all that it should be to please the Barry girls.

A little difficult to reach by bus, but worth the effort is Edith and Fritz's on North Miami avenue at 36th street. Lobster is the feature, with all you can eat for a very reasonable price.

Between Miami and the Beach is Chary's on the 79th street causeway. Atmosphere, excellent food and service make for a relaxing dinner interlude. Their souvenir dinner menus make wonderful collectors' items, too.

The Lighthouse Sea Food Restaurant at Baker's Haulover, is excellent in every way.

The Steak House, 2362 Collins avenue, specializes in you-know-what, and is the place to be seen if you have a healthy appetite.

Pickin' Chicken has always been a favorite. The restaurant on 71st street at the Ocean is so very handy to stop at after a day at the beach.

Opposite the Gulf Stream race track on the Federal highway is the Hofbrau Hous. The Hofbrau is, to use their slogan, "Often copied but never surpassed," in German-American cuisine. Barry's mid-Westerners can often be found enjoying their strudel.

Pickin' Chicken's restaurant drive-in in Miami Shores is a welcome newcomer. It's just the thing for those quick snacks, especially if you are in a rush to get back to school. And who isn't at one time or another? But don't be in a rush if you feel in the mood for a lush sundae. They're huge and delicious, with whipped cream "guaranteed" to be heaped at least two inches high. Ideal for dieting Barryites!

These restaurants are just a few of the many in Miami and on the Beach, but your own initiative (or should we say appetites?) will take you on from here. Happy eating!

The Vacant Chair

No doubt you heard of the recital, The lecture, the play and all, That were arranged for the good of the students And took place in our own social hall.

The hall wasn't exactly crowded; There was room enough and more— Remember the place is located Right over by the campus store.

But these things are for your enjoyment And add to enlightenment too, So with strains soft and sweet Again I repeat . . . Oh, where, oh, where, were you?

Japanese Music Major Presents Chopin Recital

The music of Frederick Chopin was given an Oriental touch on Thursday evening, November 1, when Cecilia Ezoe presented an all-Chopin piano recital.

Cecilia, from Tokyo, Japan, proved that size is no handicap when she, four feet nine inches in height, gave her brilliant interpretation of Chopin's varied types of music.

For her recital, she wore one of the beautiful silk kimonos and the embroidered obis which she brought with her "to show you Americans our native dress."

The Japanese have become "much more Western in dress, since the war, Cecilia says. The reason she gives for this is, "Many women worked in factories during the war and they found their kimono sleeves always catching in the machinery."

Cecilia's usual dress is typically American. She has made most of her clothes for college, "even the buttonholes," she adds proudly. "In Japan we learn to sew and do home-making early."

Beginning her musical career at the age of seven, Cecilia has been studying ever since with the exception of the last three years and the period during the war.

Working for a teaching degree in music, she is one of Barry's foreign scholarship students. She plays not only the piano but is an organ student as well, and has written several original compositions.

Studying music from a "foreign" teacher is not such a new experience to Cecilia. Of the three piano instructors she had previous to her coming to Barry, only one was Japanese; the others were a Spanish nun and a lady from Russia.

A series of mazurkas, Polish dances, opened the program: Op. 50, No. 2 in A flat major; Op. 33, No. 1, in G sharp minor; Op. 67, No. 2, in G minor; Op. 67, No. 4, in A minor; Op. 7, No. 3, in F minor, and Op. 7, No. 1, in B major.

The artistry of the Chopin waltz was evident in the second part of the recital when Cecilia played three examples: Op. 69, No. 1, in A flat minor; Op. 64, No. 2, in C sharp minor, and Op. 34, No. 2, in A minor.

Concluding the program, Cecilia presented another form of Polish folk dance, the polonaise. The number played was Chopin's Polonaise, Op. 26, No. 1, in C sharp minor.

Concerning her preferences in music, Cecilia says that, being more familiar with the standard classics, she prefers them to her own native Japanese music.

Class of '51

Lucy Reynolds is teaching the third grade at Benjamin Franklin school here in Miami.

Mary Jo Carey has graduated into professional journalism (from editorship of the Angelicus) and is working on a newspaper in her home town, St. Petersburg.

Angela Clark is the Dean's secretary, and is practically indispensable to the business office.

Ruth Marcus has been working for her Dad in Detroit. However, the latest rumor has it that she might go into journalism.

Across the Atlantic and close to the "Iron Curtain" Eileen Costello is working for the U. S. government in Turkey.

The Bureau doffs its several hats collectively to Shirley Jean Wright who is studying medicine at Women's Medical school in Philadelphia.

Delores Fiorentino is doing graduate work in bacteriology at the University of Florida.

Patricia Aulson, after touring South America this summer, is spending her first winter in 13 years in the north.

Some of the class of '51 are learning to be housewives. Busy making their new homes attractive are Mrs. Daniel Stricker (Patricia Karch), Mrs. Clement P. Mitchell (Stephanie Swiniuch), Mrs. Gilbert Renuart (Bernice Gagnon), and Mrs. Marie Dent.

Renovating her home and in her leisure time, selling real estate, keeps Mrs. Wilton Treadwell very busy indeed.

Brides-to-be of December and January include Mary Lou Connelly and Jeanne Pfister. Donna Guilfoyle will marry Jack Ross at 11 a.m. January 19 at St. Patrick's, Miami Beach.

The "Barry Bureau of Missing Persons" would appreciate any information concerning the whereabouts and what-are-they-doing? of Annette Huckans, Joyce Weller, Clare Ann Klein, Helen Hines and Celia Vallejo.

Chaplain Addresses C.C.D. on Communism

The Rev. Cyril W. Burke, O.P., will speak on "The Philosophy of Communism" at the meeting of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, which will be held in the social hall November 11 at 7:45 p.m. Following the speech there will be an open discussion.

Present at the meeting will be men and women students of the University of Miami Newman Club, and representatives of the Catholic Youth Organization.

The C.C.D. plans to hold a meeting once monthly for this type of forum discussion. There will be guest speakers at each meeting.

Cathedral Players Give Medieval Morality Play

Sponsored by the Wesley Foundation of the Methodist church, the University of Miami's Cathedral Players presented the morality play "Everyman" for the faculty and students Wednesday evening, November 7.

The Cathedral Players, whose ideal is to revive religious drama, make their first appearance at Barry with this production of "Everyman."

Freshman Hobbies Reflect Collectors' Craze, Creative Urge

What makes freshmen tick? They are not only very shy, and sometimes very green specimens of humanity but very real beings with talents and hobbies. Look at the current class.

Cecilia Ezoe's piano ability, Rhetta Dick's torchy voice, Valerie Geisz and "her magic violin" are just a few examples of the talent in the class.

There are many examples of distinctive and individual hobbies. For instance, Sue Turnbull works with aluminum and turns out such things as platters and bowls that are a joy to behold.

Ruth Ogden's hobby fits in with her ambition to be a doctor. She goes around collecting all kinds of weird little bugs, spiders, and samples of marine life to prepare as laboratory specimens.

Artistic talent is certainly not lacking. Nancy Hoar specializes in charcoal sketches and claims to have a room full of them. Joanne Lattavo's talents have been put to work by the Sodality and her picture of

Our Lady is on the bulletin board by the library.

Marlene Loos keeps all her boy friends happy and their feet warm with her hand-knit argyles. Every time she is seen, she is working on a new pair. Either she has a lot of boy friends or they have a lot of feet.

Nan Mullan raises thoroughbred cocker spaniels. At one time she had 23 of them. How does one keep their names straight when there are that many?

Patricia Pellicer must have quite a storage problem. Her hobby is collecting match books and she claims 2,000 books now. Contributions are gratefully accepted.

Judee Kornmeier collects, of all things, sugar cubes and miniature soap bars. Know who to see during a soap shortage?

Carol Stanford has a mania for filling scrapbooks with anything and everything she can lay her hands on. Watch out for those souvenirs, girls.

Winifred Kine is a puppeteer and also an ardent sailing fan.

Long, dangling antique earrings are the special love of Rhetta Dick, the longer and the danglier the better.

Jayne Barden also collects earrings from all over the country and even has a few pairs from Mexico.

Animals are perennial favorites, especially the stuffed ones (they are much easier to care for at college). Frances Miller goes for the soft, furry kind and has her bed covered with them. Joan Zinn prefers the small china ones, especially squirrels and rabbits.

Terry Trivette has several hobbies. She collects old American and foreign money as well as stamps. She also paints plaques.

Unusual medals, especially those from Europe, make up the collection of Patricia Touscany.

The old coin collection of Nan Rainville gets a boost on her birthday every year when she is given something "new" for her already extensive collection.

Food for thought—has anyone ever thought of assembling an exhibit of freshman hobbies?

Carousel

What advantage is there to being a Barry girl? For one thing it's a very good way to obtain sharks. Prove it? All right. Sue Turnbull and Ruth Ogden were asked by Sister Thomas Mary to get a shark for an anatomy class. So, off the duo went, right after lunch on November 1, heading for Pier Five.

They reached the Pier at 1:30 and, after asking a few questions, found they had to wait until the fishing boats came in. So they sat down and waited . . . and waited. At 7:30 that evening, the boats came in, carrying, among other things, one shark. Then and only then, Sue and Ruth were told they needed a permit to remove it. However, it appears that sharks are free to all Barry girls, and the aquatic pet was graciously given and received.

The problem of carrying the odiferous, five foot, fifty pound fish arose, but Ruth proved herself equal to the problem. She merely seized the fish by the tail, slung it over her shoulder and trudged off, with Sue tripping gaily along at her side. As the girls wanted to keep friend shark clean, he was propped up in the back seat of their car. Just think of that ride back to Barry . . . if you have the courage.

Stella Matutina west, second floor, has an erstwhile "Hopalong Cassidy" who dons blue jeans and moccasins before settling down to "riding the textbook range" come 7:30 on study nights. Yes, "pod-nah," we are referring to Carol Julian.

Who ever heard of toboggan rides in Florida? . . . Yes, ma'm, just ask Mimi Scanlon or Emma Grady about this indoor "sport" peculiar to Maris Stella. It seems that the sun deck pads take the place of the toboggan and are placed at the head of the stairs and then wheeee! Say, Emma, don't you think this would save you a little time coming down on Saturday evenings?

And speaking of weather (and aren't we all?), when and if it gets cool, just go and see Emma Grady if you are interested in ear muffs. She has plenty on hand. (Hand?)

The staff wishes to thank the following girls for their help in soliciting advertisements for the Angelicus—Nadine Hackett, Clementine Mulvihill, Jerry Jablonski, Raquel Rivera, Kay Wodtke, Emma Grady, Yolie Roy, Dorothy Stone, Jessie Bessette, and Marie Dudley.

Say, Emma, don't you think this would save you a little time coming down on Saturday evenings?

Who ever heard of toboggan rides in Florida? . . . Yes, ma'm, just ask Mimi Scanlon or Emma Grady about this indoor "sport" peculiar to Maris Stella. It seems that the sun deck pads take the place of the toboggan and are placed at the head of the stairs and then wheeee! Say, Emma, don't you think this would save you a little time coming down on Saturday evenings?

"Distinguished Visitors" . . . two mysterious "creatures" have been seen on campus lately. Frances White was a luncheon guest here recently and Harrington Appleton Butterworth III has resumed his winter residence at 201 Maris Stella. This year he brought one of his relatives with him who is staying in 206 Maris Stella with Sister Maura.

Cinderella? . . . and then there

Campus Clubs

Those energetic Barry girls are at it again. This time it was the Impows versus the Deep South Club at basketball "southern style" October 24.

The rebel Impows, however, took the game in "northern style," 9-7.

IMPOWS

The Impows recently elected officers. They are: Pat Mies, president; Kathleen Malone, vice-president, and Janet McGowan, secretary-treasurer.

The club's future plans include a dinner (in true Barry tradition).

DEEP SOUTH

The Deep South club plans to go deep-sea fishing soon with some other club invited to enjoy the ocean, sun and excitement with them.

ILLINOIS

The Illinois club had a dinner October 23 at the Robin Hood. Thus, with revived spirits, they challenged the New England club to a swimming meet. The Illinois club won three out of four. (Must have been the steaks.)

COSMOS

The Cosmos (who got their dinner in early with a box supper on the patio) now are preparing to promote the Red Cross volunteer service on campus.

SPANISH

The Spanish club sponsored the program broadcast on United Nations Day, October 24. Mrs. Marguerite Lapham explained the organization and purpose of the United Nations.

Representing the foreign students, Olvida Soldana concurred in Mrs. Lapham's plea for prayers for peace.

Sodalists Prepare Thanksgiving Baskets For Catholic Charities

Barry Sodalists are taking part in several worthwhile projects this month which include the preparation of Thanksgiving baskets which will be distributed by Catholic charities to poor families, and a clothing drive.

The Catholic Truth committee is endeavoring to spread among the students such Catholic literature as the Catholic Digest, Sacred Heart Messenger, Action Now, Florida Catholic and the Sunday Visitor.

Sodality instruction classes are being conducted on Wednesday evenings at 6:30 p.m. for all freshman Sodalists. New members will be received into the Sodality on December 8.

The second general meeting on November 8 was addressed by the Rev. Cyril W. Burke, O.P. Father's topic was the nomination by President Truman of General Mark Clark as Ambassador to the Vatican.

Other activities included the card party sponsored by the officers of Sodality on October 25.

Future plans include a procession in honor of Mary for the presentation of Our Blessed Mother on November 21.

Intramurals Set Pace for A. A.; Clubs Compete

It's softball month! Softball was the sport chosen to start the Athletic association's new program.

According to this plan, a different sport will be featured each month. Regular practices will be held so that the girls will be at their best in the intramural games.

Basketball, swimming, tennis, and bowling will be among the sports which will give every Barry girl a chance to show off her special athletic ability.

Two events which took place October 24 presented a problem to sports-minded girls. The Illinois club had challenged the New England club to a swim meet, and scheduled for the same time was the Deep South-Impow basketball game.

Illini Beat New England

The Illinois swimming team was made up of Mary Lou Clark, Marcia Daly, Sue Hosier, Joanne Knoch, Barbara O'Connell, Joanne Ollman, Nancy Schmitz, and Patricia Warner. Jessie Bessette, Jean Gannon, Kathleen Killeen, and Janine Provost swam for the New Englanders.

The Illinois Club won three out of four races. The newspaper race was won by Clark and O'Donnell, Illinois; the freestyle by Daly and Hosier, Illinois; and the medley relay by Gannon and Killeen, New England. The sweater race, the most exciting, was a victory for Illinois' Ollman and Schmitz.

Impows Beat Deep South

In basketball, the Impows defeated the Deep South club, 9-7. Katherine Jumper and Marlene Loos starred offensively for their respective teams.

The sophomores placed first while the freshmen came in second in the balloon race. The last event, the underwater button diving contest, was taken by the juniors with the sophomores placing second.

Judges were: Sister Agnes Patrice, O. P., and Sister M. Elaine, O. P. Timer was Pat Mies.

Freshmen Take Swim Meet

The Athletic association held its intramural swimming meet October 31. Twenty girls from the four classes participated. They were: Pat Genter, Pat Heldman, Anita Politano, and Isabell Williams, seniors; Jean Gannon, Barbara O'Donnell, Meg Reiss, and Nancy Schmitz, juniors; Marcia Daly, Mary Virginia Diamond, Marie Dudley, Sue Hosier, Arlene

National Art Week Marked by Exhibit

National Art Week was celebrated November 1-7 with an exhibit of paintings and sculpturing done by students. Visitors to the exhibit were asked to sign the registry and vote for their choice.

For painting, first prize was awarded to Barbara Nicewanger for "Secluded" and Joanne Lattavo won second prize with "Hurricane." The head "Prejudice" won first prize in sculpturing for Barbara O'Donnell, while the second prize was given to Janet McGowan for "Complacence."

The subject matter of the paintings was still life, landscape and abstractions. The work was done in conte crayon, pastels, and water color.

The statues, done in carved cement, were "Peasant Woman," "Complacence," "Head of a Young Child," and "Prejudice."

Students whose work was on exhibit were Marlene Loos, Janet McGowan, Barbara O'Donnell, Constance Senger, Gloria Gorsuch and Nancy Hoar.

Joanne Lattavo, Kathleen Malone, Isabel Moya, Jo Ann Murphy, Barbara Nicewanger and Patricia Pellicer.

McCormick, and Yolie Roy, sophomores; Mary Cavalaris, Lia Belart, Carol Julian, Kathleen Killeen, Winnie Kine, Jane Kennally, and Andrea Zinane, freshmen.

Winners of the form swimming contest were: side stroke—Meg Reiss, junior; breast stroke—Jane Kennally, freshman; crawl—Jean Gannon, junior; backstroke—Lia Belart, freshman.

The faculty and students extend assurance of their prayers and deepest sympathy to Sister Mary Jane, O.P., on the death of her sister.

Put the Blame On Mame, Girls

There is a classic line which reads "The management does not assume any responsibility . . ." This holds true for some of the meals in the Barry dining room.

The praise (and blame, if any) belongs to the Quantity Cookery class. In other words, if you have any complaints, don't make them to the management.

Imagine, instead of tablespoons or cups as measures, talking in terms of 10 lbs. or more, or 60 eggs.

This class plans all the meals for the semester and cooks lunch every Monday and Wednesday. They study such diverse things as the art of balancing menus and cooking for several hundred people.

The six girls in this class are Patricia Genter, Jane Burman, Nancy Schmitz, Betty Demirgian, Noemi Garcia and Elena Hernandez. These are the ones that practice on the whole student body. Cheer up, girls, the next half of this course is called Experimental Cookery.

Mythology Subject Of Beta Kappa Kappa Discussions for Year

When Helen was abducted by Paris and Hector was killed at the hands of Achilles, Trojans and Greeks clashed. Such remote happenings are of value to Beta Kappa Kappa members, for mythology is the subject of the club's discussions this year.

The calendar committee, headed by Patricia Heldman, has set up a busy programme for the year. Cooperative study of the ancient masters, who are still liberally quoted today, will be included at the club's monthly meetings.

On the agenda for the future is the annual B.K.K. Roman banquet held in the Spring during Latin week and attended by the whole student body.

West Wing Aces Christmas Cards Lose to B.C.'ers Mission Project

It was a big piece the west wing of Maris Stella bit off when they challenged the school in basketball. And they couldn't quite chew it! The "Eight Aces" lost to a team representing the student body, 10-6, November 2.

It was an exciting game, outstanding for the feeling of good-will which existed between the teams even in the most serious plays. The plaid-bloused Aces showed the results of practice hours in their fine team work. The Barryites, captained by Kay Jumper, had never played together as a team but their efforts soon became coordinated. Both teams abounded in spirit and pep.

Ann Monti starred for the Barryites with six points, while the Ace's Marie Dudley did a fine job on defense. The scoring on the west wing side was evenly distributed among the forwards.

Early in the second quarter, Emma Grady, Ace guard, was felled in a close play under the basket. Although Emma received a thump on the head which was felt by the spectators, she was able to cheer her team on for the rest of the game from the sidelines.

Near the end of the game, when Barry had begun to open up, one freshman player commented, "Come on, Barry! Eight sophomores leave Barry College for reasons unknown." The answer came from a rival guard: "O.K., Aces! One freshman found in the incinerator!"

One of the Mission Council projects now in full swing is the sale of Christmas cards, which were designed in the art studio by Sister M. Joannes, O.P.

Their biggest project of the year is a raffle, which takes place early in January. The sale of chances will begin soon, however, for the Council members will receive them at their November meeting.

Through Penny Day, which is held one day each week, contributions are received from the entire student body for the colored missions, to which most of the Council profits are sent. The Council hopes to make the drive 100 per cent—which is $1 per girl—by the end of school next June.

Former Barryites Dora and Norma Martinez welcomed the Mission Council members on their recent trip to the southernmost tip of Florida.

Attending the Key West expedition were Marie Dudley, Mary Reiss, Catherine Wodtke, Marianela Duron, Silvia Nunez, Joan Gennett, Margaret Keith, Arlene McCormick, Amelia Tourino, Esther Lopez, Julianne Podesta, Matilda Ramos, Beatrice Hagner, Joan and Jane Burman, Sister Marie, O.P. and Sister M. Joannes, O.P., accompanied them.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilario Ramos, parents of Matilde Ramos, treated the girls to a fish-fry Friday evening in the Martinez home, which was opened to the visitors during their entire visit.
