

O'Connor, Bevilacqua, Riopel To Fill '61-'62 Major Offices

By PAT FOX

Miss Margo O'Connor, chosen on the first ballot for campus elections, has assumed the tremendous responsibility and honor of Student Body President for 1961-1962.

Margo, a Latin major from Chatahoochee, Fla., has maintained a 3.0 average for her college career thus far in addition to being a very active member of her junior class and her college.

Margo has served her class as secretary in her freshman year, vice-president in her sophomore year, and is currently social chairman of the junior class.

Other clubs and interests also consume the new Student Body President's time. She is the vice-president of B.K.K., a member of the Choir, secretary of the Sodality, a member of the Social Board, freshman counselor, and has been a member of Lambda Sigma Honor Society for three years.

In addition, Margo holds a singular outstanding honor, for she is the first student to have received the Mother Mary Gerald Scholarship awarded her in 1958.

With all her duties, Margo can still manage time for swimming, reading, and dating. After graduation Margo plans on going to graduate school with an objective of teaching the humanities in college.

Miss Linda Bevilacqua, President of the Junior Class, has been chosen Prefect of Our Lady's Sodality for the 1961-1962 school year. She also was elected on the first ballot.

Linda, originally from Long Island, is an elementary education major at Barry and has participated in many activities on campus. She was class secretary in her freshman year, has been a member of the choir for three years, served as a freshman counselor, and is a member of the R.A.A.

In addition, Linda, who maintains a 2.5 scholastic average, has been

Angelicus Editorship Goes to Jan Rocchio

Janice Rocchio has recently been named Angelicus editor for the 1961-62 school year, culminating three years on the staff and serving as assistant editor this past year.

An English major minoring in journalism, Janice will also serve as a member of the Queen's Court next year. She is currently secretary-treasurer of Beta Kappa Kappa and Delta Sigma Omega representative to the Student Council.

Attending Barry on a Russell scholarship, she has maintained a 2.4 scholastic average and has been a member of Lambda Sigma Honor Society since her freshman year. She was also class social chairman and member of the Social Board in her freshman and sophomore years, and has served as a freshman counselor. Other activities have included Confraternity of Christian Doctrine. Jan also holds down a part-time job at North Miami Journal.

Junior Kay Conrad will serve as assistant editor next year. Also an English major minoring in journalism, Kay transferred from University of Florida in her freshman year and has since been active on Angelicus staff. She was guest editor of the March issue this year. She lives in Ft. Lauderdale.

Juniors Present Night In Camelot

Barry's 1960-61 social season will bow out to the theme of "A May Night in Camelot" May 6 when the junior class presents the annual Junior-Senior Prom at Miami Springs Villas-Playhouse.

Under the chairmanship of Margo O'Connor, Junior class social chairman, this most extravagant social activity of the year will be dedicated to this year's graduating seniors by the hostess class of 1962.

Don Rose Orchestra, which includes eight pieces, will provide dance music for Barry girls and their escorts. Orchestra intermission time will be filled with special entertainment from the Villas.

Decorations will be co-ordinated with the red brick Medieval decor of the room, complete with knight in shining armour. Table decorations and bids will also follow this motif.

Various committee chairmen include Gwen Best, Maureen Dinnen, Betty Waddell, Jan Rocchio, Judy Otto, Pat Pennock, Gerry Cravaritis.

Barry Joins Miami For Pan Am Day

By JANE MORTIMER

On Fri. Apr. 14, Pan American Day was celebrated as an expression of the good will existing between Latin American countries and the United States. Together with thousands of Miamians, the entire student body of Barry college attended the Pontifical Mass which Bishop Carroll celebrated at 10 a.m. in Bayfront Park. The girls were dressed in academic attire, and Cor Jesu choir under the direction of Sister Maura sang the Mass while another group of Barry students formed an honor guard for the procession.

Usually observed by ceremonies at Barry, this year's Pan American Day had grown so from last year that it was necessary for the City of Miami to donate their facilities and to provide police cooperation. For years, Monsignor William Barry has been chairman of the program, which was originated to promote good will and understanding, as well as an exchange of culture between South Floridians and their neighbors to the south.

Taking part in the ceremonies were the diplomatic representatives from 18 Latin American nations as well as some of their native Bishops and priests. This display of friendship and understanding was especially significant at this time when trouble and resentment are more the rule than the exception.

Following the Mass, the Consul representatives and the program officials attended a luncheon at the McAllister Hotel where Bishop Carroll addressed them and commended them for the unity and brotherhood that had been displayed that morning.

Office Limitation Suggested By SC

At its March meeting, the Student Council moved to recommend to the administration the adoption of a policy to restrict the number of offices one girl may hold during one school year. The Student Council members formulated the plan in the hope that more girls on the Barry campus would thereby be able to exercise leadership, rather than confining this opportunity to a few.

The degrees of the various offices are determined by the size of the membership of the organization and the responsibilities of each officer. Classified as first degree offices are: Student Body President, Sodality Prefect, and Campus Queen.

Second degree offices include: Class presidents, Sodality Vice Prefect, House Council President, D.S.O. President, and Angelicus Editor.

Third degree offices consist of: R.A.A. President, Nursing Students' Association President, Class Vice Presidents, Class Social Chairmen, Student Council Representatives of classes, D.S.O. offices with Student Council membership, House Council offices with Student Council membership, and Playhouse President.

Offices of the fourth degree are: B.K.K. President, Sociology Club President, Spanish Club President, Home Ec. Club President, Secretarial Science Club President, Mission Council President, Class treasurers, Class secretaries, and Sodality Committee chairmen.

The fifth degree offices include:

One of the annual events for which Barry college waits each year is the Spring Concert, given by the Tara Singers, under the direction of Sister Maura. This year it will be held on May 7 at 8 p.m. Dr. Harry Wilson, distinguished musician, will be guest conductor for the seventh consecutive year.

Head of the music department at Teachers' College, Columbia University, Dr. Wilson is a nationally known music educator and choral clinician. His talents extend to the fields of composition and arranging; two of his new arrangements will be presented in this concert—Psalm 150 (Franck) and Ouvre Ton Coeur (Bizet), the latter of which was specially arranged for the Tara Singers for this concert. Dr. Wilson is also a noted author; the latest of his books Artistic Choral Conducting, which is an authoritative source used by choral teachers throughout the United States.

An interesting variety of songs will be heard this year, ranging from the early works of Bach to contemporary musical medleys. Among the songs is Brahms' lovely "Sapphic Ode," and representative of the folk songs is the charming Swedish "When I Was Seventeen." As is customary, there will be an interlude in the program, during which classical ballet, Wallace's "Maritana," will be presented by Judy Reece, assisted by Ted Kivitt.

In the midst of numerous rehearsals for the concert, the Tara Singers are preparing to perform at the Roney Plaza on Apr. 27, for the Florida Association of Colleges and Universities.

the vice-presidents, secretaries, treasurers, or social chairmen of B.K.K., Sociology Club, Spanish Club, Home Economics Club, Secretarial Science Club, and the Mission Council; secretaries, treasurers, or social chairmen of N.S.A., R.A.A., and Playhouse; and Secretaries of the Sodality committees.

Taken on a point system, the first degree offices would total five points, the second degree—four points, the third degree—three points, the fourth degree—two points, and the fifth degree—one point.

No one student could hold more than two offices at any one time; nor, could one student hold any two offices the total points of which exceeded five.

Barry Students clad in academic attire joined more than 10,000 Miamians and high school students in celebration of Pan American Day at Bayfront Park April 14.

Peace Corps Merits Praise

For the last few weeks, President Kennedy has emphasized the need for a Peace Corps to familiarize people overseas with the United States. We have these comments to make.

1. The United States needs servants of integrity, judgment and a clear concept of public service. The tools to accomplish public service is politics and each person should "take a part of his life to serve his fellow man," as Peace Corps is striving to do.
2. Catholics should be proud that a governmental project was based on a successful Catholic program which has been in operation for almost 20 years.
3. Those travelling to foreign ports this summer should consider themselves "unofficial" Peace Corps members or ambassadors of good will.
4. "We are jointly responsible for the future, so we must jointly play our part," said Mrs. Elizabeth Rudell Smith, United States treasurer, who was recently in Miami.
5. We wish to thank Father Egan for volunteering his services to the recruitment program of the Catholic laymen foreign service.

Black. White. Red All Over

An editorial entitled "Red Runs the Harvard Crimson" was brought to the attention of the editors of this paper recently. Published by the Democratic Revolutionary Front with headquarters in Coral Gables, the editorial comments on an article in Harvard University's student weekly "The Harvard Crimson," written by a freshman at Radcliffe who was given the "RED carpet treatment" in Cuba last Christmas.

The writer, who sang "unconditional hosannas" to Fidel Castro, was Jennifer Simon, who unknowingly presents herself as the unfortunate victim of the deadly disease of indoctrination. But what is more unfortunate is the fact that Jennifer was given the space, ink and paper to paint her distorted and somewhat blurry view of "Castrocommunism."

It is with the hope that TRUTH in black and white can balance crimson, that we reproduce here her observations on Cuba and rebuttal comments by Democratic Revolutionary Front.

Miss Simon: "Undergraduates at the University of Havana are as much a part of the Revolution as the farmers and workers who are its backbone."

DRF: "The backbone of the Cuban Revolution is the Communist Party. All important government posts are held by Communists. The farmers and workers don't have the right to voice their opinions, except at compulsory mass rallies . . . All Cuban universities, including the University of Havana, are governed by Army Majors and Captains who profess communism."

Miss Simon: "Cubans are not against Americans, just against imperialists."

DRF: "But she doesn't specify how you can tell them apart and neither does the Castro propaganda machine."

Miss Simon: quotes Castro as saying "Force has been replaced by reason."

DRF: states the Cuban government has officially called this year "The Year of the Execution Wall."

"It is a shame that Communists should be given the opportunity to use College periodicals to poison student minds. This time the Harvard Crimson has surely Run Red. And in case that old Communist standby of "Freedom of the Press" may be used as an excuse to justify the publishing of subversive and anti-democratic propaganda it would be well to ask: Are we obliged to allow the Reds to undermine and destroy our ideals and system of government without having an opportunity of doing likewise to them?"

Deep Love Story Unfolds On Pages Of Confessions

The Confessions of St. Augustine is not for Saturday night reading. Yet, in a way, it does partake of the character of some of the books I reserve for quiet evenings. It is, first of all, a love story, the account of a man falling head over heels in love with God. And as all great loves, this one was gained and sustained only by pain and sacrifice: "And I marvelled to find that at last I loved You and not some phantom instead of You; yet I did not stably enjoy my God, but was ravished to You by Your beauty, yet soon was torn away from You again by my own weight." Love is a conversion, the turning from self to another. Augustine experienced the divinely shattering experience of conversion that always accompanies the turning of a soul to the love of God. It was a shattering experience in that his soul was shorn of all other considerations that he "might cast (himself) down upon His humanity and rise again in its rising."

Augustine's love of God had none of the mistiness and generalization about it that characterize much of modern thought on the love of God. He went all the way. He rejected all compromise and found as the object of his love God—not a distant and hazy specter—but God as revealed by the inspired teachings of the Church. To love in this manner is to enjoy the greatest fullness of love that man can possess.

In another sense, the Confessions is a mystery story. Augustine, seeking the supreme solution, the "missing piece" as Agatha Christie is wont to say, follows and abandons many ways that lead only to error and its ultimate dead end. Many times he mistakes human love, the accomplice, for Divine Love, the Thief that does not take but gives.

And in a third light, I think that the Confessions is an adventure story. The nature of this adventure is best described by the saint himself: "It is one thing to see the land of peace from a wooded mountaintop, yet not find the way to it and struggle hopelessly far from the way, with hosts of those fugitive deserters from God, under their leader the Lion and the Dragon, besetting us about and ever lying in wait."

As I have said, the Confessions is not Saturday night reading. It is not, also, for the shallow. It is, however, for those who seek more than is the immediately apparent, who seek the good and then abandon it for the Best.

Thimble Theatre

Beauty, brains and talent are a rare combination, but Divine ingenuity has rolled all three into one Junior—Martha Schwandt.

Martha is majoring in biology and minoring in chemistry and math, a feat accomplished by one who maintains a 2.6 scholastic average.

A girl busy about campus activities, Martha is presently entangled in the affairs of the Sodality, the Dominican Tertiaries, the Science Club, Tara Singers, D.S.O. and the secretaryship of R. A. A.

An asset to her community, Martha is a member of two senior C. Y. O.'s, one of St. Mary's Parish and the other of Holy Family Parish, and is secretary of the latter. Last year Martha had the lead in the "Student Prince" a combined effort of all Miami C.Y.O.'s.

Martha

For a year now, when time permits, Martha has been singing with the Eddie "K" Orchestra.

After receiving her B. S. degree next June, Martha faces a promising future in research biology while doing graduate work on the side.

Last summer equipped her with much valuable experience, since she served as a research assistant in the Endocrinology Laboratory at the University of Miami Medical School.

Margie

Some lucky executive associated with one of Detroit's large automobile firms will have in his hire this summer Marjorie Jackson, a Sophomore Secretarial Science major who completes her studies here at Barry in May. Or anyway, that's Marjorie's fondest desire at the moment, and Barry college has complete confidence in her doing just that.

Equipped with her pencil and stenopad, Marjorie is among the Secretarial Science students who will set out to take the business world by typewriter, filing cabinet, ditto machine, and other office equipment this summer. Marjorie feels she is qualified to be a top-notch private secretary after her two years at Barry, supplemented by her summer secretarial jobs.

During her two years at Barry, Marjorie has been a member of Our Lady's Sodality and the House Council.

How does she feel about leaving Barry and her classmates? "Well," she claims, "it's not as though I'll never see Barry or my friends again because I'll be back in 1963 for their graduation." That is, of course, if her boss can get along without her for a few days!

A Freshman majoring in merchandising, minoring in Spanish and education, is pert and pretty Carol Blume.

A native of Jacksonville, Fla., Carol came to Barry because "it is close to home" and "is the only Catholic women's college in Florida."

Carol occupies her spare moments with campus club activities. She is an active member of the Home Economics Club and the Playhouse and she recently appeared in "Career Angel."

With her first year here at Barry drawing to a close, Carol is anxiously looking forward to her sophomore year. She is the proud possessor of a four year scholarship and has maintained a 2.1 scholastic average throughout the year.

Carol recently received the second runner-up award for leadership. Way to score, Carol!

McClain, Frost, Balconis Rate Poetry Honors

Barry's first campus poetry contest closed successfully. The initiator was Mrs. Vivian Laramore Rader, who contributed the prize money and encouraged the writing of poetry through her stimulating and inspiring classes.

The Carrie Blaine Yeiser Poetry Contest was so named for Mrs. Rader's mother and was formed to encourage the creative talents of college students. Mr. John Fandel, judge, is a poet and critic and also the author of The Season's Difference, The World I Wake, and Testament and Other Poems. He is also the winner of the Reynolds Lyric Award of the Poetry Society of America for 1957.

English majors were not the only entrants: girls from every department submitted their works. Each entrant submitted a maximum of four poems of varied lengths and patterns.

First place went to "Lost Solace" by Elizabeth Knight McClain; second, "The Carol of the Three Sisters" by Mary Kate Frost; third, "Titanic" by Diane Balconis. Honorable mention was accorded to Vincent Montoya, Diane Dupuy, Lois C. Rivett and Colleen Murray for their entries. The winning poems will be published in the Spring issue of Orbit.

news a la carte

Freshmen cowboys and Indians converted the campus into a frontier town on Apr. 18, as the Class of '64 celebrated their class day with the usual accompanying festivity.

The girls' cap guns were checked at the door of the Chow Hall as the frontiersmen feasted on roasted steer and sourdough biscuits. Carrying the theme over to an evening show, the freshmen told the story of the Dude-It-Yourself Ranch and the Barry girls' misadventures there.

Freshman Class Day

Freshmen welcomed a guest speaker at their meeting this month. Miss Loie of the Loie Model School of Miami discussed and demonstrated some modeling tricks that can be acquired by any girl for a more graceful and poised appearance. Miss Loie stressed the common, and especially noticeable, problems of standing, sitting, and squeezing into compact cars while wearing slim skirts.

Barry Alumni Treat Students To Tips For Post Graduation Plans

By PATRICIA BOURKE

The Alumnae Association of Barry college presented a series of panels on April 13 covering the fields of education, social work and science. Mrs. Rose Marie Duffield, B.S. '47, president of the Alumnae Association, arranged the evenings discussions.

Sociology majors attended the panel on different phases of social work. Miss Catherine Mykita, B.S. R.N. '57, a visiting nurse, told of her experiences in public health nursing. She emphasized the need for the school of nursing to be an integral part of college life with a balance between general and specialized preparation so as to develop potential nurses personally and professionally. Other speakers on this panel were Mrs. Myree Bay B.A. '59, who coordinated the discussion and who spoke on her own experiences as a visiting teacher in the Dade County public schools; Mrs. Caroline Jenkins, B.A., visiting teacher; Miss Pat Bayzle, B.A. '60, Dade County Welfare Department; and Miss Pat Huml, B.A. '54, guidance counselor, Northern Junior High.

In the field of Science, Miss Barbara Hartley, B.S. '58, a medical technologist at Veteran's Hospital, pointed out the need and demand for medical technologists with a degree and who are registered. She assured those attending that this field is varied and can fill most any interest. Others present on this panel were Miss Mary Barboni, B.S. '58, M.S., who is in biochemistry at Veteran's Hospital; and Miss Nydia Rossy, B.S. '58, a medical technologist working in the clinical laboratories at Veteran's Hospital.

Education students were treated to a film on the necessity of making adjustments as one progresses in teaching so that there won't be a clash between personal and professional growth. Slides emphasized another area of teaching concern—that of the teacher's role in guiding, coordinating and administering the planning of a learning laboratory.

Those participating in this program were Mrs. Mary Hogenmuller, B.S. '43, principal of Biscayne Elementary and president of Dade County Principals of Elementary School Education; Miss Lorraine Miller, B.S. '45, M.S. '59; curriculum assistant at Biscayne Gardens' Elementary School; and Miss Cecile Roussel, B.A. '56, M.S. '60, guidance counsellor at Southwest Miami High School.

Home Ec Students Show "Do's, Don'ts"

The "Do's and Don'ts of Fashion," sponsored by the Home Economics Club, was presented at the Apr. 11 assembly.

This program, the highlight of Home and Family Week, was directed by Cynthia Farina and narrated by Rebecca Holcomb. Accompanist for the show was Carmen Baillo.

Tips concerned color, accessories, and hairdos. Modeling ensembles which were made in the clothing classes were created by Merriellen Tighe, Cynthia Farina, Carol Blume, Judy Damewood, Carlota Rodriguez, Marthanne Engelbert, and Judy Groover.

Another activity of the Home Economics Week was Family Day held on Sunday for the Barry alumnae and their families. The fashion show was again presented to a group of local high school students on Thursday afternoon.

Art Dept. Hosts Conference Meet

On Apr. 13 and 14 the Barry College art department played host to Salve Regina Conference of Catholic Art Educators. The conference held its first national meeting at Barry in conjunction with the National Art Educator's Association convention on Miami Beach. This meeting was held to establish a new name for the organization, to reconsider the constitution, and to elect new officers for a two year term.

At a luncheon held in Calaroga dining room on Apr. 13, Mary Alice welcomed the members of the conference and introduced Mr. Howard McConeghey who spoke on "Art Education and Moral Integrity." Following the luncheon a council meeting was held to elect new officers, and to discuss various phases of art education, Sister Mary Joseph, of Barry College was elected president of the Salve Regina Conference of Catholic Art Educators. Sister Mary Augusta, R.S.M., of Mother Mc Auley High School, Chicago, Illinois, was elected vice president and organizational chairman. The association appointed Sister Mary Leo, C.P.P.S., of Saint Mary's Institute, O'Fallen, Missouri, secretary and Treasurer.

On Apr. 14 the members of the conference were invited to view an exhibit of grade school, high school, and college art work. This work was chosen and prepared for the exhibit by the Barry art department. More than 1200 entries from various parts of the United States were displayed.

In conjunction with the exhibit demonstrations of different fields of art work were held in the art department. Students Roberta Weber, Betty Chou, Mary Watson, and Lena Leug, demonstrated basic hand forming techniques in ceramics and clay, while Mr. Geroniimo Ferrua, a professional potter, worked on the potter's wheel. Kathy Visse, Trudy Miller and Rosemary Castro from Rosati-Kain High School, St. Louis, Missouri, demonstrated graphic processes while Brother Melvin Meyer, S.M., of Saint Mary's University, San Antonio, Texas, gave a water color demonstration in the Florida Gardens.

During the afternoon the guests toured the campus escorted by the Barry students and were served tea in the Florida Lounge.

With this convention as a beginning the Catholic Art Educators hope to approach the objective set by the Salve Regina Conference, of "raising the standard of appreciation and achievement in art on all levels of the Catholic educational system."

Prom Season Sets Pace For New Spring Formal Fashions

By MARIE MARAIA

Dreams of "A May Night in Camelot" will soon be dancing in the minds of many Barryites. We have a few ideas of the styles that may be found in the midst of the night's medieval splendor.

We'll be seeing waves of chiffon—much of it draped over flowered silk or taffeta. Most of the gowns will be ballerina length, and bouffant crinolines will stay at home. Favorite colors will remain in the pastel range.

Aside from the stoles and jackets that will be seen, the long cape may be seen on the shoulders of some stylish damsel. The usual material for these capes is satin, and they have a flowing richness which goes very well with the atmosphere of a formal dance.

Dyed-to-match satin pumps and purses are sure to be the most popular accessories. Beaded evening bags will also be in the limelight.

Rhinestones, pearls, and crystals will be trying to outshine the twinkle in every girl's eyes as she dances the night away.

Sr. Mary Joseph Elected Art Prexy

Sr. Mary Joseph, O.P., head of Barry's art department, was elected president of Salve Regina Art Conference of Catholic Art Educators during sessions held on campus recently.

Sister, who will relinquish her post as regional director of the Conference, will, in her new position, oversee Conference newsletters, the annual research institute, workshops, publications, and the national 1963 convention in Chicago.

On Barry's campus, Sister is admired and appreciated, especially by art majors, for her untiring efforts to raise the level of achievement and appreciation of art. Results of her efforts can be viewed in the art display cases and in the Florida Gardens lounge where her students' works hang. Sister herself created the ceramic sculpture in the garden, and one of her former students designed and executed the crucifixes that hang in

Music Lovers Dub Selves Madrigals

Every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday at 12:30, a small group of girls meets in the press room to sing. They specialize in madrigals—music of the 15th and 16th centuries—and if you listen very closely you will hear a "fa-la-la" every now and then.

The group consists of ten girls, divided into three sections: sopranos: Anna Hubers, Regina Donata, Diane Dupuy; second sopranos: Susan Burke, Norma Nightlinger, Bernadette Blum, Carol Ann DeMarco; altos: Rosann Manguso, Betty Flood, Mary Kate Frost. Mary Kate is the originator of the madrigalists, and it is because of her efforts, the helpful criticism of Sister Maura, and the persistence of the girls that the group has been kept active. Founded in September, the madrigal singers are under no special aegis this first year, and as yet have not sung publicly; but they earnestly hope that next year the music department will take them under its wing, and that in this way they will be able to perform often.

Madrigal Singers

The group encompasses a wide variety of departments — drama, science, education and English. Incidentally, there are only two music majors, which proves that everybody in the group sings because of their love for music, whether they write poetry or mix chemicals on the side.

So, the next time you pass by the press room and hear faint voices singing different words at the same time, with the aid of a solitary pitchpipe, you'll know it's a group of girls who sing "just because they love it!"

Jrs. Match Card Wits To Benefit Prom Fund

Barry college card players competed among themselves in the Social Hall at the annual Card Party, Apr. 11 at 7:30. The Juniors sponsored the party to raise money for the Junior-Senior Prom.

After cake and coffee were served, the highlight of the evening—the results of the "Queen for a Day" contest—were announced. For the third successive year the class of '62 won the contest as they crowned Patti Pennock reigning monarch.

Dances Highlight Social Season

A series of three dances highlighted the Spring social season, which will climax with the Junior-Senior Prom.

Barry College jumped into the "Spring Rhythm" with D.S.O. dance on Apr. 8 in the Social Hall. Rita Ropel was general chairman.

The Junior Class hosted an informal square dance under the general chairmanship of Margo O'Connor on Apr. 15. Bob Adams was the caller for the dance which was held in the Social Hall.

At the Senior Class dance on Apr. 22 Don Bowers' eleven-piece band played. General chairman for the senior dance was Dolores Ackourey.

Junior Presents Own Production

Little Theatre stagelights shone on one of the most unusual and enjoyable student productions of the semester when Junior Patricia Pennock presented her production of Career Angel April 23.

Gwen Best starred in the role of Angel, who, taking cue from the play title, embarked upon a hilarious career to raise money for her charge Sr. Seraphim, played by Sandy Hovey.

Regina Donata straight-laced her dry humor in an excellent Semper Fidelis version of Sr. Fidelis. Jane Simons as Sr. Mary Gregory and Mimi Reich, equipped with an Alabama drawl for the part of Sr. Ubaldis, played the remaining members of the religious group with skill worthy of hosannas.

The next student production on slate is Angelicae, Inc., which will be produced and directed by Becky Holcomb May 12 and 13. Leading roles will be played by Isabelle Hutchinson, Jackie Blankenheim, Lorraine Ciano and Mickey Moran.

MAJOR OFFICERS

a member of Lambda Sigma Honor Society since her freshman year.

As a Sodalist, Linda has taken an active interest in her spiritual organization. She has been a member of the Sodality for three years and is currently the chairman of Our Lady's Committee. Linda has directed numerous activities in conjunction with this committee such as the Living Rosary ceremony held last semester.

Upon graduation, Linda hopes to teach fourth grade here in Miami.

The third major campus office, Campus Queen, will be filled by Miamian Rita Riopel, social chairman of Delta Sigma Omega.

A French major, Rita is currently a member of the Social Board and holds membership in Beta Kappa Kappa.

She maintains a 2.5 scholastic average and has been a member of Lambda Sigma honorary since her freshman year. She has held her own admirably in both Sr. Thomas Aquin's recent scholastic disputation and Fr. O'Leary's theological circle last semester.

These three freshmen were recently selected as promising young leaders among the Freshman Class. Carol Blume (l-r) was chosen second runner-up, Jean Tarpey, first runner-up, and Rosanne Manguso, Most Promising Young Leader.

Pennock Wears Crown For a Day

Patti Pennock was elected Queen for a Day Tues., April 11. The results of the two day voting were announced at the card party held that evening in the Social Hall. Among those competing were Ann Lewis, senior; Patti Pennock, junior; Alicia Campbell and Nydia Torregrosso, sophomores; Mary Ann Murphy, Carol Isabel, Joy Mansour and Jeanne Burbank, freshmen.

Prizes for the queen included a weekend for two at a Miami Beach Hotel, a gold charm, French perfume, clothes to be washed and ironed, a term paper to be typed, room to be cleaned, breakfast in bed, and tickets to Angelique, Inc.

Alicia Campbell, the second place winner, received a shampoo and set.
