Christy Minstrels To Highlight '68 Culture Series

Appearances of the New Christy Minstrels, the National Players, and Hal Holbrook are only a few of the highlights of next year's culture series.

On October 14, 1967, the series will begin with a program by the New Christy Minstrels, a popular folk-singing group.

The Abbey Singers will be at Barry on October 22. The soloists have a repertory ranging from music of the Renaissance and the great masters, through modern ballads, folk songs, and carols.

Edward Vito, a solo harpist, has been with the N.B.C. Symphony and Arturo Toscanini. He has given recitals at Town Hall in New York and solo appearances with leading orchestras in America. He will give a recital at Barry on December 3.

The Ballet Concerto will perform at Barry for the first time on January 14, 1968. The Ballet consists of former members of the Academia Cubana de Ballet. Its repertory includes the Nutcracker, Coppelia, Swan Lake, and others.

The National Players will return on February 18. They will appear in Shakespeare's Much Ado About Nothing.

On March 28, Hal Holbrook will portray Mark Twain, a performance for which he won a Perry Award last year.

Lecture series next year will include talks on counseling and guidance by Father Charles Curran. A professor of psychology in the Graduate School of Loyola University, Father Curran will speak at Barry, February 18-23.

Lambda Sigma Commends Angelicus Editor, Artist

Adrienne Moore, junior English major and editor of the ANGELICUS was named today as one of the recipients of Lambda Sigma awards.

Named with her were Rita Dominguez, senior art major, and Mary Elizabeth Barnard, French major.

Adrienne Moore

Under Adrienne's editorship this year, ANGELICUS was published every other week, a step up in production that resulted in seven more editions in multiple pages for the campus — more than ever previously published. Readership in the newspaper increased almost 100 per cent by greater news coverage, more features, critic columns and fiery editorials which spurred student opinion and reaction.

Letters were received from ANGELICUS readers throughout the United States, commenting on special installments on the cut system, the Webster College series, "College Talk" and guest lecture reporting.

Rita Dominguez

Rita Dominguez, a Panamanian senior art major, is commended by Lambda Sigma for her art contributions and significant awards this year. In addition to her high scholarship recognized by her membership in Delta Epsilon Sigma, Rita has conducted art classes for the culturally deprived students at Booker T. Washington school in Miami. She has actively participated in Legion of Mary, and is a member of the Tara Singers and the Cor Jesu Choir.

A specialist in graphic arts, Rita has prepared several Barry college brochures for national distribution, and is presently commissioned to design a batik (fabric dyeing Javanese art) for a church in Michigan.

She has also engaged in art work for the ANGELICUS this year and designed the new name plate which appeared on the April 7 issue. She also designed and constructed the traveling display piece for the graduate school of Social Work.

Rita has applied for admission to the Pratt School of Design in New York.

Mary Elizabeth Barnard

A recipient of seven offers for graduate teaching assistantships, Woodrow Wilson fellow Mary Elizabeth Barnard, senior French major, is commended by Lambda Sigma for outstanding scholarship. Mary Elizabeth has been on the Deans List since her freshman year, is a mem-

Thanks to "Action Line," a Barry student will spend the summer working in Switzerland. Michele Hartmus, a sophomore home economics major, mailed over 15 letters to places in the United States and Europe seeking employment, without success. Finally, she decided to contact The Miami Herald's "Action Line"

Mrs. Seaton, a local resident with friends in Brienz, Switzerland, read Michele's letter and notified her through Barry. After writing Mrs. Seaton's friends, Michele secured a position as a waitress and hostess in the gardens and terrace of their Park-hotel Giesbach.

Even though German is spoken there, Michele does not feel handicapped, since she has had two years of the language here at Barry.

She will leave for Europe May 28 and return September 16.

139 Graduates To Hear Moral Theology Editor

The Very Reverend W. Urban Voll, O.P., S.T.D., will address 139 graduates on "Life is Celebration" at the commencement exercises on Sunday evening, May 28, at 8 p.m. in the Barry College auditorium.

Father Voll is a staff editor for the moral theology section of a new 30-million-word Catholic Theological Encyclopedia, scheduled for publication in 1973.

In Cooperative Program

Father heads one of three departments forming a new corporation, Corpus Instrumentorum, which has joined with the World Publishing Company of Cleveland and New York in a cooperative program for publication of books of interest to educated readers. The first list of general books will be published in the fall of 1967.

Father Voll received the Doctorate of Sacred Theology from the Pontifical College of the Immaculate Conception in Washington, D. C. He has been on the faculty of Catholic University, St. Mary's of the Spring in Columbus, Ohio, Providence College and Emmanuel College.

He presently resides at the Dominican House of Studies in Washington, D. C.

Bishop Stanley to Preside

The most Reverend Patrick Shanley, D.D. will preside at the graduation ceremony.

Twenty-four candidates will receive the Master of Arts degree; 65 graduates will receive the Bachelor of Arts degree; 31 will receive a Bachelor of Science degree and 18 will receive the Bachelor of Science in Nursing degree.

A baccalaureate Mass will be offered for the graduates earlier that day at 11 a.m. in the Cor Jesu Chapel.

The Reverend Cyril Burke, O.P., chaplain of Barry College, will be the celebrant and speaker. Academic hoods will be con-

Seniors, Juniors Exchange Symbols In Rose Ceremony

In a commencement ceremony whose tradition has grown with the college, seniors will pass the candle of knowledge to the juniors, Saturday, May 27, in the college auditorium.

In a lighted candle procession, seniors will be escorted by their selected juniors who will be carrying a rose. The Rose symbol will be explained by Iris Diaz and the Candle symbol will be explained by Mary Fellman.

Exchange of Offices

Tributes will be exchanged between student council president Carolyn Cardone and her successor, Carol Ritchie, student government president; between senior class president Judy Tkach and her successor, Elizabeth Dowdall; between Campus Queen Linda Wolfe and her successor, Joan Gunther.

Before the ceremony, there will be a punch and cookies party honoring seniors and their parents at the Beau Rivage Hotel where the majority of the out-of-town guests are staying for the weekend. Day students and their guests will also be there.

Senior Song Tradition

Following the Rose and Candle ceremony, there will be a brief get together in the Florida Gardens at which time the sen-

50 Fill Class, Gov't Offices; Betty Dowdall Heads Seniors

Senior President Betty Dowdall

Class elections were on the agenda last week and fifty students were voted by their respective classes to serve in office next year.

Elizabeth Dowdall will lead the senior class for the new academic year. A day student from Miami, Elizabeth is an English major. Helping Elizabeth in the senior executive branch will be Pam McCloskey, vice president; Carmen Pelaez, secretary; Anna Canahuati, treasurer; and Colleen Blick, social chairman. Colleen was also selected senior class princess.

Heading the junior class next year will be Liz Morris, a history major from West Palm Beach. Other class officers will be Jean Vecchione, vice president; Gingie Damianos, secretary; Herbie Meurer, treasurer; and Ginger Calvano, social chairman. Anne Langlois was elected junior class princess.

Sophomore class president is Hazel Calvet, a math major from Fort Lauderdale. Cathy Thomas will serve as vice-president; Sue Rielman, secretary; Karla McGinnis, treasurer; and Martha Young, social chairman. Mary Dorman will be the sophomore class princess.

The new SGA Constitution has created even more class offices, those of senators and representatives.

Elected senators of the senior class are: Noreen Bevilacqua, Peggy Rackstraw, and Missie Graham.

Junior class senators will be: Ellen Cerra, Martha Madigan, and Jane Surma.

The sophomore class has elected Catherine Alberte, Nancy Duac, and Joan Lenihan to serve as senators for their class.

Crowning Closes Sodality Year

Darlene Kali, Sodality Prefect, places the crown on the statue of the Blessed Virgin Mary to honor her as the Queen of May. The traditional May crowning ceremony took place in Cor Jesu Chapel.

In a simple but impressive ceremony, sodality prefect Darlene Kali placed a crown of miniature white roses on the statue of the Blessed Virgin honoring her as Queen of May Wednesday evening in Cor Jesu Chapel.

The climax of sodality functions of the year was well attended in spite of a little rain that fell after dinner.

Darlene was escorted down the aisle of the chapel by her co-officers and cell leaders. They were Mary Elizabeth Barnard, vice prefect; Missie Graham, secretary; Peggy Smith, treasurer; and cell leaders Karla McGinnis, Noreen Bevilacqua, Jane Surma and Donna Grittani.

The glorious mysteries of the rosary and the litany of the Blessed Virgin were led by Noreen Bevilacqua following the crowning ceremony.

The Cor Jesu Choir led the sing of Marian and Benediction hymns.

Chosen from the junior class are: Sheri Dal Pra, Judy Cornille, Alice Jones, Linda Patino, Reggie Robinson, Diane Zlatin, Nancy Minkley, and Catherine Head.

Residents Vote Counselor System Over Kappa Rho

Resident students voted to dissolve Kappa Rho, the resident student organization. This decision was made at separate dorm meetings two weeks ago.

With resident counselors assuming the responsibilities formerly belonging to wing chairmen there will not be the need of the Kappa Rho organization.

The new SGA Constitution has created dormitory duties and responsibilities which members of the SGA will perform, thereby eliminating Kappa Rho functions and importance.

There will be no comparable substitute for Kappa Rho, but in the making is a House Council whose members will be chosen from each wing in the dormitories.

The functions of these students will be "to create a more homey atmosphere in the dorm" said Noreen Bevilacqua, former president of Kappa Rho, and to organize activities identifiable with the separate dorms.

The House Council will be a loosely organized arrangement since the concentration will be on individual dorm achievement rather than collective dorm activity. But as Noreen expressed, "the members of the House Council might wish to elect a president to insure that degree of centralization which permits more coordinated and successful activities."

Junior To Aid Children's Home In Summer Job

by Marcia Kostakos

Mary Agnes Naser will be a caseworker aide this summer at the United Presbyterian Home for Children in her hometown, Mars, Pennsylvania.

Mary Agnes, a junior, is majoring in sociology and special education. She is looking forward to her job, because she said it will give her an opportunity to get to know more about children and their problems.

The home is run by the United Presbyterian Women's Association, although it is not in any sense a religious institution. At present, there are about 60 children in the home, ranging from 3 to 18 years of age. The home cares for both white and Negro children of all religious denominations.

Mary Agnes stressed the fact that none of the children are delinquent. They are dependent or neglected children, or those from broken homes.

Many of the children are placed there through the courts, although sometimes they are brought to the home voluntarily by parents who are unable to care for them properly. The home tries to place them in foster homes or back with their original parents, when possible. However, many remain until they finish high school.

As a caseworker aide, Mary Agnes will assist the home's social worker. She will get experience in all phases of the home's operation, from intake procedures to working with the basic needs of the children.

She got the job through the Allegheny County, Pennsylvania office of Careers in Social Work, an agency set up to assist people in finding job opportunities in that field. She will be working at the home from June 5th through the end of August.

Societies Recognize Members

At an induction ceremony held Wednesday, May 10, in Thompson Hall, 86 Barry students were recognized as elected members or pledges of the three honor societies on campus.

Lambda Sigma strives to interest younger students in qualifying for national honor societies. A scholastic average of 3.0 and the successful direction of some campus activity are the basis for selection.

Seniors Elected

Eleven seniors were elected to life membership in Lambda Sigma. They are: Yvonne Crane, Gail Dalton, Rita Dominguez, Mary Fellman, Darlene Kali, Barbara Hart, Gail Lawson, Kathie McCleskey, Judith Tkach, Paula Vecchione, Marilyn Zynda.

Seniors Re-elected

Re-elected were seniors Barbara Norconk and Selma Levy. Also re-elected was junior Mary Jo Bonick and sophomores Ellen Cerra, Michele Hartmus, Kathy Krym, Winifred Preston, Diane Travnikar, Jeanne Zynda.

Elected were Angela Arroyo, Sheila Dennison, Patricia Donohue, Mary Ann Gentry, Margaret Maulshagen, and Margaret Wich.

Junior Pledges

Pledges are juniors Lenore Benn, Noreen Bevilacqua, Diane Boldin, Jean Bucknam, Elizabeth Dowdall, Joan Gunther, Nereida Landa, Devon Larkin, Pamela McCloskey, Adele O'Sullivan, Pamela Pearson, Darlene Plate, Peggy Rackstraw, Sister Consolata Reale, Mary Catherine Ungar and Mary Agnes Conlin.

Soph Pledges

Sophomore pledges are Rosemary Duggan, Elizabeth Morris and Rebecca Scully.

Freshman Pledges

There are 17 freshmen pledges. They are Maria Alamilla, Frances Bacon, Barbara Chicvara, Anne Chiocca, Ann Curran, Linda Edwards, Daneen Galazka, Marilyn Gallagher, Maria Clara Garcia, Agnes Kettyles, Joan Lenihan, Magaly Lorenzo, Karla McGinnis, Christine Reilly, Susan Reilman, Martha Slater and Pat Thomas.

Delta Epsilon Sigma

Delta Epsilon Sigma is a national scholastic honor society. Members must be persons of good character with a record of outstanding academic achievements who have helped to foster intellectual activities and who give promise of becoming leaders within the scope of their activities. The scholastic requirement is 3.3 average.

Elected to Delta Epsilon Sigma are Mary Barnard, Rita Dominguez, Darlene Kali, Kathie McCleskey, and Judith Tkach. Paula Vecchione

Nominated

Newly nominated are Shirley Cooke, Norma Davis, Barbara Hart and Marta Segrera.

Pledged

Pledged to Delta Epsilon Sigma are Selma Levy, Carol Richards, Mary Jo Bonick, Elizabeth Dowdall, Nancy Fraser, Pam Pearson, Carol Ritchie, Josefina Romano, Ellen Cerra, Elizabeth Morris, and Winifred Preston.

Kappa Gamma Pi

Kappa Gamma Pi is a national Catholic honor society. Members are required to have an overall average of 3.6 and active participation in campus life. The three seniors elected to Kappa Gamma Pi are Yvonne Crane, Darlene Kali, and Judith Tkach.

March Audition Creates Drama Job In Summer Stock

By Joan Lenihan

Mary Jo Goggin travelled to Greensboro, North Carolina last March for a one-minute audition. As a result, she will be working in summer stock this year.

The Barter Theatre in Abingdon, Virginia will be Mary Jo's new address from June to October. The Barter Theatre began under the direction of Robert Porterfield 35 years ago. Ernest Borgnine and Gregory

Mary Jo

Peck are two of the famous names who have worked at the Barter Theatre.

Mary Jo, a senior speech and drama major, got her first touch of professional theatre last month. She worked with the Miami Actor's Guild and was given a part in the play, The Lady's Not for Burning. Mary Jo missed her own senior prom because there was a performance of the play that night.

She enjoyed working with the professional actors very much, but admits however, that she was a little nervous at first. The petite senior describes the seven weeks of rehearsal and the two weeks of performances as a real learning experience.

Mary Jo, a native of Providence, Rhode Island, is the only speech and drama major graduating this year who has been in the field for four years. Her final performance on the Barry stage will be given at the drama recital. There she will do excerpts from A Delicate Balance, The Doll's House, Othello and Auntie Mame.

Don't Throw Out Those Old Books, They Can Be Used

Spring is the season for cleaning rooms, attics and garages. The tradition is believed to have started when the cave man cleaned out his cave after a long, winter's hibernation.

In view of this cleaning season, Sister Elizabeth Ann, Sister Agnes Louise, and Sister Mary Joseph have requested paperbacks and magazines which will be discarded into the rubbish.

This reading material will be taken to the jail where these Sisters visit each Saturday. The material can be delivered to any of these Sisters.

Senior Plans For Graduation Include Rest, Travel, Work

The members of the Class of '67 will be moving in many and varied directions after May 28th. Some plan to travel. Maureen Mooney will be spending six weeks touring Europe with friends. Sue Superty is also planning to tour Europe, and Ernie Spezzano will be spending the month of September in France, Italy, Switzerland and Ireland.

Weddings

Some of the seniors' plans include weddings. Joanne Price will be married in Toronto this summer. Her sister Carol Ann, also a senior, will be a member of the wedding party. Another senior, Joan Piencyoski, will fly up to Canada to be one of Joanne's bridesmaids before seeking employment in Manhattan.

Paula Vecchione has made plans to travel up to Dayton, Ohio, this summer to be the maid-of-honor at the wedding of former Barry student, Mary Johnson, after which Paula will be doing graduate work in classics at Loyola University in Chicago.

Pat Talbert plans to be married in Florida on August 19, and then reside in Tennessee.

Summer Travel

Among those who will be working this summer are, Nancy Worth, Judy Tkach, Mary Jo Goggin, Marilyn Zynda, Bobbi Boyd, Eileen Daley, and Jackie Collins. Nancy will be traveling to Saigon and Germany this summer, after which she will return to be a group leader for girls in Spanish Harlem.

Judy Tkach will work as a nurse in Doctor's Hospital in Coral Gables. Mary Jo will be doing summer theatre in Virginia. Marilyn will be in Los Angeles working for the Navy, and Bobbi will be working in diabetics for the Army. Eileen hopes to be traveling as an airline stewardess. Jackie plans to find employment in the social work field in Atlanta.

Education Plans

Other seniors are making plans to continue their education. Pam Shelly will be doing her graduate work in the field of special education at Trenton State, with the aim of working in the New York State School System as a teacher of the mentally retarded.

Darlene Kali will be at Louisiana State University where she has a year's scholarship in math. Yvonne Cane plans to continue on and get both her master's and doctors degree in English at the University of Dayton, and Maggie Wich will be studying in her former home state, at the University of Michigan.

See And Learn Europe On An Economical Basis

SWITZERLAND — Now it is possible for any student to receive a paying job in Europe of their choice with no strings attached.

The International Travel Est. is offering names of employers to students and the students make all of their own arrangements. Students will receive the same pay as their European co-worker and work and live under the same conditions.

This new "Do-It-Yourself" program has become the most popular way to see and learn Europe on an economical basis. ITE has been considered the most successful organization in offering job opportunities in the

'Seasons' Deserves Top Award

by Elise Henshaw

"A Man for All Seasons" is a motion picture of magnificent scenery, resplendent color and superlative acting. It is also an awesome view of a sturdy conscience and a steadfast heart.

Paul Scofield is brilliant in his disciplined portrayal of Sir Thomas More, a man who refused to swerve from his spiritual and intellectual convictions at the insistence of his King.

Scofield displays wisdom and humor when playfully discoursing with his son-in-law William Roper played by Corin Redgrave. When the King's advocate Thomas Cromwell, whom Leo McKern plays with truly diabolic malevolence, he shows remarkable emotional control and intellectual vigor.

With the English countryside as backdrop, the film captures all the color and excitement of its sixteenth century setting.

As he shapes a frightening portrait of the eccentric, headstrong Henry VIII, Robert Shaw is one moment a robust comrade, the next ominously calm, and another wild with wrath demanding that More give approval to his marriage with Anne Boleyn.

Orson Welles makes a brief appearance as Cardinal Wolsey already in the King's disfavor for failing to arrange the divorce, and desperately seeking More's support. His portrayal is that of a subtle, cunning man with just a hint of evil and surely aware that he is doomed.

The movie traces the course of events that take More from the height of his power and popularity as Lord Chancellor of England to his final showdown before a rigged high court where he is betrayed by a young Judas.

There is a deeply emotional scene when More bids his final farewell to his stalwart wife Alice, played by Wendy Hiller, and the closest to his heart, his daughter Meg played by Susannah York. The scene occurs in More's tower cell and shows the intelligent young Meg matching wits with her father as she desperately attempts to present arguments that will persuade him to veer from his fatal course. In each case she is met with her father's clear logic and unshakable faith in justice.

It is Scofield's delineation of More's strength and character that give the film its dynamic quality.

"A Man for All Seasons" is a thought provoking picture that inspires admiration and courage.

Departments Add New Fall Courses

To add to the list of new courses for the academic year 1967-1968, the home economics department and the education department make available a variety of new studies.

Home Economics

The home economics department will offer three new courses in the fall. Household Equipment 369, Personal Management 463, and Family Economics 374 will be open for those students interested in Home and Family Life.

Education Dept.

There will be no new majors opened in the education department this fall, but new graduate and undergraduate courses will be offered. The graduate courses will be Intellectual Disabilities and Socially and Emotionally Maladjusted Reading. Undergraduates will take the Intellectual Disabilities course as well as an Early Childhood course.

The education department plans to experiment in team teaching, video-tapes in Teacher Education and independent study. An internship will be attempted at the graduate level in teaching and guidance.

Off-Campus Activities

All the department's off campus activities will be coordinated with the University of Miami and Biscayne in the hopes of greater participation in public and private schools, institutions and community centers as tutors and aides.

New services in Speech, Reading, and Guidance Clinics will also be offered by the education department.

Angelicus Staff To Expand

ANGELICUS editor and news editor will receive salaries next year amounting to half tuition cost. Minimum pay scales will also be established for the business and circulation manager.

For her second year, Adrienne Moore is the editor of ANGELICUS. A resident of Fort Pierce, Florida, Adrienne hopes to improve the coverage of news around campus and enliven the editorial comments.

Giustina Misuraca accepts the new position of promotion director for ANGELICUS. Gus, a resident of Detroit, Michigan, will interest high school students in journalism at Barry. She will co-ordinate any activities which the paper hopes to sponsor, such as a "News Event of the Year" award to the best reported story on campus. Gus will also continue her column Among Ourselves.

Mary Catherine Ungar, a Fort Lauderdale resident, will return to her position as business manager. Mary plans to expand the advertising coverage to enable Barry students to know their Miami businessmen.

Karla McGinnis, a resident of Sumter, South Carolina, is the news editor for next year. Karla will be in charge of all reporters, copyreaders, and production staff. She hopes that better coverage can be given to campus activities.

Wendy Goodridge, our foreign correspondent will open the new position of feature editor, emphasizing club news, personality sketches and entertainment coverage. Sheri Dal Pra accepts her appointment as circulation manager for another year. Sheri will expand her exchange list with colleges across the nation as well as increase the distribution to Barry alumni.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Upon reading the list of nominees for Who's Who in the May 8 issue of the ANGELICUS, I felt that some names were missing — perhaps due to the limited quota.

Who's Who suggests that campus nominating committees "consider, in making their selections, the student's scholarship; his participation and leadership in academic and extracurricular activities; his citizenship and service to the school; and his promise of future usefulness." At least from an "olde" and active student's point of view, several more deserving persons with these qualities were omitted.

Perhaps a joint committee of faculty and students could yield a more accurate indication of our leadership situation in the future.

Barb Norconk

Dear Editor:

I would like to know how the candidates for the Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges are chosen? Is it through election by all the faculty, by grade average, leadership, or what?

I'm sure that I am not the only one who would like to know, since it concerns every member of this campus in some way. I think many of us would like to know how selection for the Who's Who is done.

Barbara Cataldo

A lay-religious faculty committee selects students for eligibility on WHO'S WHO. This group is concerned about being objective, honest and universal in their choice.

Students are considered on their academic average and service to the college.

The committee does not select the number of students from the college. The editor of WHO'S WHO directory allows each college a certain number, this year the number being eleven.

Presently, the committee is discussing a better way of choosing students, since it is difficult for these faculty members to know each student. A student's own estimate of herself is one solution which has been suggested. — Ed.

Annette Rimkus

Dear Editor:

I was quite surprised to read that after twenty-six years the dorm names are being changed. Maybe I'm old fashioned, but it seems to me that these religious names are part of the Barry tradition, the religious foundation of the college.

I would like to suggest that a poll be taken among the students to learn of their feelings on this matter.

A Traditionalist

The names of the dorms are being changed because of misspelling and mispronunciation by the students and visitors to the college

Mail coming to the college has often been delayed because of a mix-up with the names. For instance, Miss Rosa Mystica and Miss Stella Matutina often receive letters.

Even the students themselves shortened the religious titles.

The new names, honoring benefactors to the college will alleviate many of these problems. However, it must be understood that the religious names will be retained. For example, in each dorm a plaque will read "Kelley Hall under the patronage of Rosa Mystica." — Ed.

Dear Editor:

For four years, I have borne the title "Disinterested Day Student."

Non-involved in what? Non-involved in driving at least one hour per day to get to campus? Non-involved in working on week-ends so that I can pay for my incidental expenses? Non-involved in getting home in the evening so that I can fix meals for a family that includes a working mother, who, incidentally, is working so that I can have the opportunity to gain the education that Barry has to offer?

I am a leader who is not contributing her talents to her college. I am a leader who leads a vacuum cleaner around the house. I am a leader who manages to lead a Volkswagen to football practices, CYO dances, and inspection stations.

A day student is a college student, living at home; participating in the activities that evolve around that home, and attending a college that she has chosen, knowing that the benefits that she will derive from that experience will make all the trouble worth while.

The New Congress . . .

There is a certain amount of excitement that goes with new things: a new dress, a new car, first year of college, a distinction of some sort. In no less a degree is the excitement of a new student government with its recently elected officers and congresswomen.

It is an excitement not without challenge, mystery, doubt, or great expectation. We have a de facto government. It is real, but it has yet to live. No one can say right now what these student officials will be facing next year. Perhaps most of them will have a good idea of the work and responsibilities that await them in September. Those who ran for congressional offices must have had the courage of their conviction that this new government can work and will work. Let us hope so. This is the reason why they are voted into office.

The executive branch boasts of dedicated students who have laid the new foundation for SGA and now they can build on it. The congress supporting them lists names that are not surprising to many because in most cases they are names of active participants at most of the college functions.

There is great strength evident in this congress, from the freshman senator right up to the senior senator, and it will be this great strength that will give life to a real, progressive and highly effective government.

Views and Reviews

'Feeling' Develops Love Theme

by Elise Henshaw

"A Special Way of Feeling," presented May 5 and 6 in the Little Theatre, was the happy result of much time, patience and research on the part of student director Phyllis Murzyn.

The production represented several departures from the usual. It was not a play, but a collection of readings, poems and scenes from plays. It dealt with a theme that has seemed to escape the notice of most modern playwrights — love. It treated the audience to an experience in theatre-in-the-round, which was a wise choice by Miss Murzyn.

With no set and few props, the various selections were presented by an excellent, well-rehearsed cast employing simple dance movements and graceful gestures, where appropriate.

In order to provide her cast with a maximum of freedom for their movements, Miss Murzyn chose karate style costumes of a coral color worn over black tights, and the girls were barefooted.

The transition from one selection to another was accomplished by a simple blackout and often a quote from Joan Walsh Anglund's delightful book, Love Is A Special Way of Feeling.

The all-female cast included Sharon Pelkey, a delicate child with blonde Shirley Temple curls, who blended in perfectly with the other performers.

The opening selection was from I Corinthians, Chapter 13 in which we are told that of the three great virtues, faith, hope and love, love is the greatest. Other selections were "The Silver Cord" with Joyce A. Audley and Louisa Smith-Adam presenting a picture of possessive love as a domineering mother meets her new daughter-in-law; "Love Poem No. 1," again with Louisa Smith-Adam, who combines dramatic talent with the grace of an accomplished ballerina; and Carryl Houselander's "Schoolgirls" which portrays vividly a pathetic true-to-life situation.

Actually singling out any selections is difficult as all were well-performed and each added to the whole concept of love from maternal, to friendship, to the love of a man and woman.

Others in the cast were: Arlene Moss, Sharon Vendryes, Jeanne Zynda, Pauline Hawthorne, Rosanne Berry and Carole Ann Bosco.

"A Special Way of Feeling" offered an evening of smiles, pathos and several laughs, and left the audience with this thought from The Prophet, When you love, You should not say, "God is in my heart," but rather, "I am in the heart of God."

Dear "Earthpeople" of the ANGELICUS,

Granted, there are a number of disinterested, frustrated, immature, or whatever you want to tag them, students on Barry's campus, but do not, I repeat do not, single out the day students as being the only "varmint" on campus (I know what I am talking about, as I resided on campus last summer, I have thus seen both sides.) The residents shirk responsibility as much as the day students do.

Likewise, day students carry out their responsibilities on campus as well as off campus. Many day students hold jobs, work in their churches, or otherwise have off campus responsibilities. On campus day students hold positions of leadership in other than major campus offices.

We "Invaders" are as studious, as you well proved, and as ambitious as the resident students. If this sounds like a generalization, just check the front page of the ANGELICUS, the article on the Barry Who's Who nominees. Three of Barry's best students are mentioned there, and day students at that. One cannot claim they have not been active in campus activities. They are not extreme exceptions to the rule, either. I suggest you re-check your "records."

In the area of campus elections — popularity is the name of the game, though our new campus officers are qualified. Hurray for the medal winners!

JoGi Brennan Takes First In Invitation Tournament

JoGi Brennan, freshman physical education major, won first place in the second, annual Tennis Invitation Tournament on May 9.

Sharing the honors with JoGi were Missie Graham, second place, and Margaret Buchignani, third place.

The contestants for the tennis match included the tennis team and other invited by the physical education department. The first, second and third place winners received trophies.

Other participants in the matches were Mickey Lauth, Sue Sturtevant, Mary Frances Shelton and JoAnn Price.

The tournament was held under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Zoble.

NDEA Awards Grant For French Study

Mr. Carroll E. Naves, assistant professor of French was chosen by the National Defense Education Act to participate in an institute conducted by New York University. From this award he receives free tuition to participate in the institute as well as a stipend from the United States Office of Education.

This is the third time in three years that Mr. Naves has been awarded a grant for advanced study in his major field. In 1965 he won a Fulbright Award for a nine week summer program of advanced study in France.

He participated in an N.D.E.A. Institute last summer at the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis.

After a few days of orientation, briefing and testing at the University Mr. Naves will depart for Boulogne sur Mer with the rest of his group on June 28.

In France, the Institute will be under the general direction of the University of Lille.

Even with exams just around the corner, students still manage to keep their sense of humor. Seen around the dorms were the following:

"I was told to cheer up, things could be worse, so I cheered up! And sure enough, things got worse!"

"Please, Lord, if I can't say something nice today, make me keep my big mouth shut."

Buddy Day Brings Fun, Mud

Games and activities were on the agenda set on Buddy Day May 4, at Greynolds Park.

Students and faculty paired up for a set of relay races that kept both spectators and participants laughing.

The potato race, shown in the lower picture, and the marshmallow relay, shown in the picture at the left, tested contestants balancing ability.

Films and Lectures End '67 Language Dept. Plans

Dr. Frank O. Copley, professor of Classics at the University of Michigan visited Barry from May 1 to 6. He lectured on three occasions to faculty and students of both college and secondary levels.

On Tuesday evening, May 2, he spoke on the intricate structural form of poetry, both ancient and contemporary. He employed representative examples from the poetry of Horace, Propertius, Emily Dickenson, and E. E. Cummings in his analysis.

In his concluding remarks Dr. Copley stated that the choice of diction and the sound structure in poetry are vital components. "A poet achieves aesthetic delight by employing a trite phrase in an unusual manner," he continued.

Dr. Copley's second lecture on May 3 was devoted to Virgil's Aeneid. He described the Aeneid as a poem about an empire — when it came into being, how it grew and flourished.

He pointed out that the Aeneid can be read on two levels while the Homeric epics, The Iliad and Odyssey, can only be read on one level.

At his final talk on May 4, Dr. Copley lectured to the Roman drama and lyric classes. He gave a brief background and analysis of both subjects.

French

French students have been busy this year organizing various activities. After a French meal at Chez Vendome Restaurant in Coral Gables, the group decided to try preparing an entire French meal for themselves. The food was prepared in the home economics kitchen with the help of junior dietetics major, Angela Arroyo.

They later scheduled two other events which appealed to a more diversified group of students. A lecture, by French students was presented on May 11 on the French Impressionist painters and their contribution to world art and literature. The talk included Cezanne, Gauguin, Renoir, and Utrillo.

For those who speak French and especially for those planning to visit Expo 67 in Montreal, a film describing southern Canada was planned.
