February 24, 1969

'Oklahoma'
Mar. 8-9

Brother Antoninus, the celebrated San Francisco poet, reads his verse and meditates on man's visionary world Friday, Feb. 28, at 8:15 p.m. in the A-V room of the Monsignor Barry Library. Admission is $2.

Tom Nugent To Speak At Olympics Day Dinner

Tom Nugent, sports announcer for channel 10 TV, will be the guest speaker for the March 13 Olympics Day dinner.

Bruce Davis, gymnastics instructor, will present the opening speech of the day.

Judges for the parade are: Coach Davis, Miss Gloria Klee and Miss Ruth Wine, physical education instructors, and Mr. Ivan Servais, manager of the Campus Store.

Judging will center on originality and demonstration of theme and the performance of the cheerleaders.

Physical Education majors will referee all events.

The swimming events will be divided into a relay of 75 yards. The three laps will include backstroke, breast-stroke and free style.

The diving competition will require a front and back dive and an optional dive by a representative of each class.

Each class has been asked to make a donation to the support of Olympics Day. The freshmen are asked to supply the individual awards for all participants; sophomores the bulletins; juniors the menus for the dinner and the seniors the trophy.

Tentative plans call for an organized pep rally the night before Olympics Day, according to Pat

Amore, head of the Olympics Day committee.

A come-as-you-are buffet dinner at 5:30 in the cafeteria will complete the day.

Area Colleges Combine In Book Drive for Poor

Five Dade County colleges are joining hands to lend a hand in a city-wide book drive Feb. 24 through March 1 to benefit underprivileged Miami areas.

The Barry College Student Government Association will join the governments of the University of Miami, Biscayne, Florida Memorial, Miami Dade North and South in sponsoring the "University Book Drive for Underprivileged Areas." A goal of 15,000 volumes has been set.

Anne Buehler, SGA representative, explained the purposes and operation of the drive in an interview with The Angelicus.

Students are asked to donate all kinds of reading materials from magazines and comic books to college texts. Anne suggested that the drive would give students and teachers an opportunity to rid their offices and rooms of outdated text-

A delegation of six Barry students will attend the Second Annual University of Miami Invitational Model United Nations to be held Mar. 14, 15, and 16.

Sister Joyce Marie, moderator of the delegation, said that the idea of the program is to "give students the opportunity to simulate the function of the United Nations in solving problems on both a national and international scale."

At the Collegiate Council for the United Nations the delegates will participate in the general assembly representing a country. The countries will be assigned, and Sister does not yet know which country the Barry delegation will represent. It will be either a South or Central American country.

The UN program includes representatives from throughout the state of Florida.

The six delegates are: Barbara Souza, chairman of the delegation,

Mary Alice Pulese, Carol Moppert, Janis Versaggi, Paula Miller, and Donna De Vita.

Activities range from formal debate sessions to informal get-togethers. The outstanding delegations will be awarded trophies and prizes at the conclusion of the session.

Barry College was represented at two model UN sessions last year.

4 Priests To Conduct Recollection

A Day of Recollection will be held this year in place of the annual student retreat.

Father Michael Hickey, Father Gabriel O'Reilly, Father Sean O'Sullivan and Father James Smith will conduct the day of prayer and meditation on Sunday, March 2.

Although the Day of Recollection will be held on campus, attendance will not be mandatory. The Sunday date was voted most convenient by both resident and day students.

Mass and confession will begin the day's activities which will last from 9 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. A series of talks, discussions and private prayer will also be included.

Doctor J. L. Snell

A definite schedule has been set for the History Forum scheduled for Friday, February 28.

Registration at 9 a.m. will begin the activities of which Wendy Billington, president of Xi Kappa Chapter of Phi Alpha Theta, and Mary Thornhill, president of the Barry History Association are student co-chairmen.

In addition to Barry students and faculty, students and professors of social sciences and history from Florida colleges and universities have been invited to participate.

Dr. John L. Snell, professor of history at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill will speak at 9:30 a.m. Dr. Snell has also served as Dean of the Tulane University graduate school.

He is a member of the American Council of Learned Social History scholars and the Southern Historical Association.

A contributor to the Encyclopedia Americana, Dr. Snell has taken special interest in the development of Germany since its unification in 1870.

"Franklin Roosevelt: His Management of Germany During the Second World War" is the topic of his history forum talk.

The film, "Wir Wunderkinder"

(Aren't We Wonderful) will also be presented during the morning session. Naziism, its rise to power and effect on the German people, is the theme of this production which features English subtitles.

"The Image of Lincoln in the South" is the topic of Doctor Michael Davis of the University of Miami's history department. His talk will be given during the afternoon session which concludes at 3:15 p.m.

YRs Initiate Ballot '70

The Florida Young Republicans will be a busy organization until 1970, trying to obtain 170,000 signatures to place voting at 18 on the 1970 ballot in Florida.

The Barry College YRs must obtain 13,000 signatures.

Ballot '70, outlined by Florida College Republican Chairman Don Pletzke in a recent speech at the University of Miami, will make the voters aware of the contributions of the 18 to 20-year-old citizen.

Having received encouragement from President Nixon through the office of Republican National Chairman Ray Bliss, Pletzke has asked the Florida YR clubs to establish quotas of signatures, which must come from the ranks of previously registered voters.

"We can no longer ignore the young people of today . . . If they can carry the responsibility of raising a family, paying taxes, and dying in Vietnam, they certainly can have the right to decide their leaders in government," Pletzke remarked to the UM audience.

"This is not a partisan effort. We encourage all civic minded organizations to join with us."

Among Ourselves

Whose Turn To Speak Out?

By Margie Bettendorf

Those "pressing issues"—vagueness and unpreparedness of instructors, counselors for new transfers and the busy work assigned by instructors—were discussed recently at the President's Dialogue.

Sister Dorothy holds these dialogues too infrequently for the purpose of "being informed and to inform."

If the students were dissatisfied with the topics discussed, it was their own fault. They cluster in the Canteen and do nothing but complain, but given the opportunities to air their grievances they clam up and assume the disguise of hypocrites to pretend life at Barry "couldn't be better."

Life here could be better and we all know it. Sister Dorothy has given us the chance to make it enjoyable here — and if enough students were responsive to her inquiry and concern we would get action around here.

Action will not come from SGA or from any other administration official—action comes from Sister Dorothy, so let's admit that too.

Why is the GRE a graduation requirement when our own graduate school doesn't use it as an entrance requirement?

Why does Barry fold at 9:30 p.m. week nights when across the country other colleges have an 11 p.m. week night curfew?

Why must students walk across un-lit parking lots to their cars after an evening class which could have been scheduled during the day?

When the legal age is 21 why shouldn't women be permitted to drink off-campus at a college function without fear of a faculty reprimand?

Why must Barry limit itself to a select offering of majors when every other college is a sign of the times?

These are the "pressing issues" which should have been proposed at the President's Dialogue. The students, this editor included, are at fault for the situation on this campus. This school doesn't exist just to keep the Dominican Order in business—this institution exists for us.

The myth of the great college President in his ivory tower on the top floor doesn't exist anymore. It has been dispelled by avenues of communication — avenues opened by Sister Dorothy. Maybe if more

New Staff Appointments For Second Semester

For those who tiptoed past the Angelicus news room door fearing that the editors had been shot at dawn, this is to inform you that all is well in the journalistic domain. The editors have not been shot or fired.

With the announcement of staff changes recently, rumors of a firing spread fast and furious on Barry and Biscayne campuses. Reasons for the editorial firing ranged from moderator disgust to poor news judgment to unsound editorial decisions.

Barry students learned from their Biscayne counterparts that the editors had been fired because "Oklahoma appeared on the front page instead of the Biscayne panty raid story."

The facts are not nearly as interesting or dramatic as the rumors, but here they are: In order to introduce the underclassmen staff to newspaper production, the former editors have been promoted to the position of editorial board.

Karla McGinnis, Joan Lenihan and Margie Bettendorf will make all editorial judgments and handle all material on the editorial page. The editorial board will also investigate in-depth stories on and off campus.

Since the members of the editorial board will graduate in December of 1969, the underclassmen staff has moved into the news and production phases of the paper to gain the necessary experience to produce the paper next year.

Freshman Patricia Wichman is news editor, and sophomore Patricia Pfeiffer is production manager.

To our SGA friends—sorry the rumors were not true, but the editorial board will be around for awhile to "watchdog" the government as usual.

Fewer Each Year . . .

Another prom has come and gone and another junior class has gone through the traumatic experience of planning and worrying for what has become the traditional flop of the social calendar.

Last Saturday night saw only about 70 couples at the La Gorce Country Club for the annual affair. For the last three years each junior class has tried to outdo the previous class and to benefit from their experience and mistakes. Yet attendance has decreased steadily each year.

Each fall the junior class turns their undivided attention, time and money to the prom. Financing, planning and promoting the affair become the twenty four hour-a-day job of many juniors. It must be very discouraging for these students to then know that only 70 couples enjoyed the fruits of their labor.

Why does attendance decrease every year? Some of the oft repeated answers are no date, no money and no interest. Perhaps one of the underlying reasons is the teeny bopper, high school image that the word prom connotes. If any other college in the area holds a prom every spring they keep it a dark secret. Most colleges and universities aim to replace high school attitudes in their students with a more adult outlook.

Formal occasion dances commemorate events such as homecoming or winter carnival. At these affairs there seems to be no compulsion to feed the guests a lavish dinner so tickets are kept in the $5 bracket eliminating the most frequent excuse of lack of funds. There usually is a spirit pervading these dances which make them occasions in themselves. It is not left for one class to desperately sell the idea of a dance to the rest of the student body.

The old adage which aims for quality not quantity is indeed a good one, but the question arises in the minds of many—is the time, expense and anxiety spent by the junior class worth it to entertain approximately 140 people?

After this year's disappointing turnout the junior class is hoping to poll the campus on their attitudes toward the prom in an effort to understand student wishes. If this poll is thorough and honest, maybe future junior classes will be spared this anxiety and pressure.

Spring Elections

SGA State Of Affairs

March 1 is a red letter day for every SGA member. Saturday marks the deadline for eligible students to file their candidacies with the SGA election committee.

We wonder what the morrow will bring.

By constitution stipulation, the four executive officers must have served at least one year on student government. The president and vice-president must have a cumulative average of at least 2.75. The secretary and treasurer must score at least 2.45 in order to run.

Meeting these qualifications, approximately 22 students may seek the executive offices.

There have been similar numbers of eligible members in the past, yet even as recently as two years ago, the offices of president, vice-president and secretary went uncontested. And last year the office of secretary was unchallenged.

Certainly out of 22 eligible candidates, the SGA should be able to find at least eight students willing to seek office.

Willingness to run would be a significant, optimistic sign that students are willing to work and compete to make something out of the potentially powerful SGA.

If students choose not to run, it is only another indication that the students themselves have little faith in their government.

March 1 is another crucial day in the future of SGA. "Who cares what the morrow will bring..."

Merry (?) Minuet

They're rioting in Madison,
There's strife at San Fran,
What college doesn't do for us,
We'll take into our own hands . . .

The Merry Minuet has never had more significance on the college scene. Duke University is rioting, the University of Florida recently weathered a student demonstration, and of all places, the University of Miami is planning a boycott of classes on March 7, an event dubiously titled "Day of Conscience."

An editorial in the University of Miami Hurricane condoned the 16 demands made by the Day of Conscience committee claiming that they are "rational demands." The editorial called for the faculty and administrators to join the students in the boycott and gather at the Students' Rock for discussion.

The editorial forgot to mention, however, that 10 of the 16 "rational demands" call for immediate action to situations which will normally require a long, thoughtful revision process—not a hasty one.

The UM example is typical of the college student anxiety in this decade. Individuals who are admittedly students are demanding to take the positions of professors and administrators who can see a little farther than the "immediate" plight of the oppressed college student.

A recent cartoon in the Miami News cleverly illustrates the results of student takeover. A rather illiterate "arithmatick" major named George wrote home to his parents to report that "things aren't neerly as bad as I thot now that us students have taken over the campis."

Old George's plight reflects the degradation which occurs when a boisterous minority of students (less than 20 per cent at the University of Wisconsin, for example) disrupt an entire campus to blockade administrators, boycott classes and intimidate the 80 per cent of students who wish to attend class.

We are not advocating that students sit passively by and endure situations which rightfully need revision. Open communication with the administration, respect for their position, and a reasonable attitude towards revision will achieve much more than the hasty, disrupting riots now plaguing American campuses.

Students are in a unique situation at Barry College. There is room for revision; radicals may even say this is a prime target for a student takeover and rebellion. But here we have an administration who is willing to listen, a faculty that cares. If revisions do not come, it is our fault for not speaking truthfully, maturely, openly with the "powers that be." When revisions are presented in an orderly manner, when truth and articulate communication are the guides, change will come. Where are our honest spokesmen? The administrators are already there.

Shoes For Spring Spotlight Fashion

By Debbie Wirges

Spring's well-dressed woman will accent her soft-look fashions with a new, brighter, lighter look in accessories. The look conforms with the 40s look of fashions but with a few new twists to perk them up.

Chains are still fashion pluses, but spring's chains are smaller and more delicate. These can be worn as necklaces or belts, and add the finishing touch to almost any outfit.

Hats Popular

Hats show up in wide-brimmed, floppy creations in keeping the feminine theme of the spring fashions. Cowboy style hats with up-turned brims are being shown as well as hats accented with chiffon scarves that tie under the chin.

Straw and felt are the biggest favorites. Turbans are becoming increasingly popular to add comfort and variety to hat styles.

Gloves Out

The glove industry has been scoring almost zero lately because no one seems to be wearing gloves any more and the demand is getting smaller, says Miss Ena Naunton, fashion editor of the Miami Herald. With the introduction of pants as evening wear, gloves are especially inappropriate.

All kinds of belts have hit the market since the belted look is in. Wide belts are especially popular, but chain belts are attention-getters too. New to the scene are mesh, rope, and cord belts, worn loosely knotted around the waist.

Recently, a trend for gypsy fashions, complete with bangles, beads, and bandanas, took hold in Europe. This never caught on in the States, but the chain idea stems from it.

Clanky Look

Miss Naunton says the chains are the basis for the "clanky look," a look actually better described as a sound.

The idea is that the jewelry and belts and sometimes even clothing clank as you walk. There is evidence of noisy coin and chain bracelets, necklaces, earrings, and belts jingling in the fashion circles.

Some swimwear has even been shown with jewelry — a bikini bathing suit was worn with a thin chain belt around the waist.

Heels Higher

Shoes this spring show the 40s influence, as heels get higher, thicker, and the toes are rounded.

Chunkier heels and snappy straps update this spring's spectators.

Cut-out shoes are popular too, and many of them are of two colors.

Spectator shoes are coming back, modified from the 40s styles.

Textured and patterned stockings are on their way out, according to Miss Naunton, and taking their place are solid color hose, keyed to match every outfit.

Large Earrings Out

The new styles are often shown with strings of pearls or chains filling in the deep V-neck. Wild earrings are not as common as they were, but rather the small pierced and pierced-look earrings are getting tinier.

Scarves In

The biggest attraction in the accessory line is scarves. Color them bright and up to six feet long and add them to a dark colored outfit.

Result: the newest of the new looks. Many scarves are initialed for that personal touch.

The key to accessories for spring is color and sound. Jewelry that jingles, colors that vibrate and blend all spell spring's new look.

College Talk

By Laura Allen

The "reign of terror" at San Francisco State College is subsiding after weeks of disorder on the campus. Among the demands of the students and several teachers were more courses on Negro subjects, and the reinstatement of a militant Negro instructor and Black Panther leader who was suspended November 1 for urging Negroes to bring guns on campus. Classes are again meeting as negotiations continue between the protestors and the Administration.

The University of Missouri dropped an "iron curtain" against political discussion when Dr. Le Minh Tri, South Vietnamese Minister of Education, visited the campus in December, 1968, to award his country's Education and Culture Medal First Class to Dr. Fred V. Lucas, the University Pathology Department Chairman. Reporters were warned by University officials that any questions concerning South Vietnamese would terminate the press conference.

Nine groups of twenty to thirty selected American College students will form seminars in various European cities this summer to study the language, culture, and civilization of these countries during a nine week stay. Full information can be obtained by writing to:

Scott Paper Co. is now manufacturing disposable graduation caps and gowns in several colors, including black, white, red, and blue. The outfits are growing in popularity in universities across the country as college graduates-to-be anticipate no longer purchasing their own outfits or standing in long lines to return rented caps and gowns.

The University of Alberta Dental Clinic reports a remarkable improvement in the student doctor's grades and powers of concentration since the arrival of maxi-covers for mini-skirted patients. The maxi-covers are robes that extend over the patient's knees.

Original Palm Tree Leaves Barry Mall

The bud-worms form a cocoon and eat into the fronds of the palm tree when they mature, Mr. Stott explained.

The bug itself resembles a beetle. Stott held one which measured one and a half inches, calling it a young one.

The cost of the truck to remove the tree is $25 an hour, plus traveling time. The five men working to dig up the tree worked for almost three hours.

Mr. Stott commented that another tree would be planted in the same spot on the mall. This tree had to be moved to accommodate the construction for the new Weigand building.

Stott also mentioned that this tree should have been root-pruned three months ago. However, Stott was not notified of the necessary move in time.

"It is possible, that the new tree might not live since it has no new roots to absorb moisture," Stott commented.

The spray has now been purchased and the other aged palm trees are out of danger for the present.

After 38 years a Phoenix Canariensis or as it is better known, "Date Palm" tree was removed from the mall area and disposed of in the city dump.

The Canary Island "Date Palm" was one of the first to be planted on the mall.

The tree was infested with a bud-worm, according to Francis Stott, grounds supervisor for over 20 years.

The order for the spray that could have saved the 38 year old tree was delayed in the business office.

Weekly Dialogues To Be Scheduled

college presidents followed her example there wouldn't be "rioting at Madison and strife at San Fran."

The students are to be blamed for the situation on this campus. Most of them are products of a Catholic education which teaches "strive and succeed" and they are all scared to voice their opinions. They feel that good grades are coupled with a closed mouth.

Sister Dorothy mentioned at the close of the President's Dialogue last week that she hoped to hold Dialogues weekly now that her schedule permits.

This opportunity of being heard on campus has fallen into our laps . . . by poor participation and non-attendance at the Dialogues this avenue of communication will slip through our fingers.

The dialogues are the student's opportunity to face the issues — admitting them first to themselves and then to Sister Dorothy.

Profits From SGA Auction Sponsor Conference

SGA's bid for lunchtime fun and profit came in parcel packages for its Celebrity Auction.

In order to raise money for the forthcoming SGA-hosted Women in Business Conference, the auction was held on Feb. 10 and 12. Total profits came to $162.30.

Thirty-five gifts from celebrities and 75 packages from families and friends of Barry came in answer to letters sent out in early November.

Pam Marotta started the bidding

Monday with gifts from big names including Jack Lemmon, Paul Newman and the ever-popular Cindy Embers and "The Blonde Bombshells."

Sponsors of the event were much in evidence. Mary Catherine Miller, co-chairman of the event with Diana Drake, exchanged $3.00 for a gift from Senator Everett Dirksen, a box of White House stationery.

SGA member Pat Lenahan bought a package containing a script from a Smothers Brothers' Show.

Lack of enthusiasm for the auction's second day prompted a P.A. announcement advertising the sale.

Auctioneering continued until 1:15 p.m., when several parcels were then sold at a rate of two-for-50c.

Srs., Jrs. Top List

One hundred fifty-four students, or 23.1 per cent of the total enrollment of full-time, under-graduate enrollment achieved a Dean's List standing for the first semester. The required average was 3.3 or above.

Fourteen students earned a perfect 4.0 average, including one student who earned a 4.18 average.

The senior class occupies the largest portion of the list, 39.6 per cent. They are followed by the juniors, 28.6 per cent, freshmen, 16.9 per cent, and sophomores, 14.9 per cent.

In relation to the number of students in each class, the seniors again lead with 31.9 per cent of their class earning a place on the Dean's List. The juniors follow with 26.8 per cent, the freshmen, 16.1 per cent, and the sophomores 15.4 per cent.

The English department has thirty-one, the greatest number of students on the Dean's List. However, considering the number of girls on each department on the Dean's List in relation to the total number in the department, the Latin department claims first place. Its two Dean's List members comprise 40 per cent of the department.

Prom Attendance Low At Miami Beach Club

Attendance at the prom, held Feb. 22, at the La Gorce Country Club was far below the expected 150 couples. As of Feb. 12, only 66 bids had been sold or reserved.

"We are not worried about finances," said Hazel Calvet, president of the junior class, "but we would like more people to have gone."

A survey will be taken to discover why attendance was so poor, said Chris Reilly, co-chairman of the prom. "Either the people are not satisfied with the way it is run, or they just do not like that sort of an affair any more," she added.

Music was provided by Ralph Proctor and The Society Orchestra. Singing star Ed Melo, currently the main attraction at the Nolu Lounge in Pompano Beach, made a guest appearance. He was accompanied on the piano by Mr. Oscar Calvet.

Poetry Contest Cites Winners

Five student poets have been selected winners in the Carrie Blaine Yeiser Poetry Contest sponsored by Orbit magazine.

First prize went to Sandra Edelman for her poem entitled, "Accident." Second place winner was Deborah Wirges, and third place went to Kate Homan. Honorable Mentions were given to Hazel Calvet and Kathy Wood.

The contest was originated by Mrs. Vivian Laramore Rader, in honor of her deceased mother, Mrs. Carrie B. Yeiser. Mrs. Rader is Poet Laureate of Florida and a former poetry instructor at Barry. Mr. Wallace Beasley, professor of English at Florida Memorial judged the entries.

You don't fully appreciate the hardships of our pioneer ancestors until you remember that day after day they plodded their way westward into the afternoon sun without sunglasses.

Club Notes

Home Economics Club held a luncheon in honor of new members Feb. 12. Tentative plans are being made for a trip to a local clothing manufacturer to witness the production of clothes.

Peg Smith, Michele Hartmus, Jeanne Vecchione, Cindy Hiegel and Nancy Jones will speak on their student-teaching experiences as home economics interns at various junior high schools. Students are invited to attend their talks which will be held on Feb. 26 from 12 to 1 p.m. in the Practice House, Calaroga Hall.

Several members of Sister Rose Michaelen's class on juvenile delinquency collected clothing for prisoners' families left without sufficient support.

Mother Lucia, from the Marian Center, a diocesan center for mentally retarded children, will speak at 7:30 p.m., Feb. 25 in the A-V room of the library. Her topic will be the approaches to mental retardation.

SGA is in the process of gathering books for the inner-city book drive organized by the University of Miami Bar Association. The drive will be for the benefit of under-privileged children in the community.

SGA held an Officers Seminar Feb. 19 designed to acquaint potential candidates for major offices of their duties and responsibilities and to build up interest for the school-wide elections in March.

A meeting of the English Association will be held on Monday, Feb. 24 at 12:15 p.m. in the rotunda.

Topic of discussion will be Brother Antoninus' "Savagery of Love"—in preparation for his readings on Friday, Feb. 28.
