Evaluations Finally Are Considered

The faculty evaluation committee is presently planning an extension of last semester's pilot study in which a number of students, chosen at random, filed questionnaires on the faculty members.

Individual methods of teaching were examined by the students in the initial evaluation. Almost 90% of those questionnaires sent out, were returned and only four out of 106 instructors were not evaluated by at least one student, explained Mrs. Thelma Medoff, chairman of the committee.

In the majority of cases, students who rated an instructor highly, did not include any written comments about the instructor, course, or testing instrument, said Mrs. Medoff.

The suggestions of the students were responsible and constructive, especially concerning the improvement of the questionnaire to faculty and academic personnel in two main areas. The first area would be a self-appraisal by faculty members, while the second would concern an original testing instrument for faculty evaluation of administration, according to Mrs. Medoff.

Total Campus Involvement

Mrs. Medoff commented that the committee hopes to project the program to total campus involvement with these two extensions of the prospectus.

The initial reason for the study was to give the instructors an opportunity to study his confidential report and to profit from the student evaluation, explained Mrs. Medoff.

Since this pilot study was begun so late in the semester last year, many of the instructors did not see the evaluations until this year. For this reason, the follow-up student evaluation was postponed until next semester, said Mrs. Medoff.

The next decision for the committee is more how to best continue the program rather than what to do next, explained Mrs. Medoff.

It is hoped that the study can be speeded-up by the use of computers, but this is an expensive process, said Mrs. Medoff.

The program was initiated last year in a discussion at a faculty meeting. A vote was taken and the majority of faculty members were in favor of a student evaluation, Mrs. Medoff explained.

Graduate Division Adds New Fields

The graduate department has added three new degree programs to its curriculum.

The education specialist degree was introduced at the beginning of the summer session. The program extends 30 semester hours beyond the master's degree and is planned to meet students' professional needs in an area of concentration. It is not limited to a single curriculum area. At the present time areas of student personnel work and reading are available. Each area of concentration has special requirements. The purpose of the new education specialist program is to develop creative leadership, excellence in teaching, effective professional roles in major areas, according to the graduate department. It leads to a 1A certification in Florida.

Another new program, that of the degree master of science in secondary teaching of spanish, commencing this semester, is designed for students with proficiency in spanish. The student takes half of the 30 hours in education courses including the three basics, education 601, 625 and 626. A choice of offerings is given in both areas to complete the 30 credit hours.

The master of arts in religious studies program began June 8, 1969. It is specifically designed to prepare priests, religious and lay people professionally and in depth in religious studies. The program requires a total of 30 semester hours which may be completed in four summers with seminar sessions during intervening academic years. It is a unique community who live at St. John Vianney Seminary, where classes are held and the liturgy is explored, according to the graduate department office.

Coronation

Margaret Lowery, 1969-70 campus queen will receive her crown at the Coronation Ball, Nov. 1.

The Ball will be held in the Fontaine Room of the Fontainebleau Hotel.

Mr. Ralph D. Kresge, a member of the lay advisory board, will present the crown to Miss Lowery. Mr. Kresge is retired from S.S. Kresge Company where he served as director and member of the executive committee and vice president of store management and operations. He is past president of Miami Shores Community Church.

The queen's court is composed of a princess from the senior class, Frances Bacon, from Potomac, Md., Lynn Zeltner junior class princess, from Alexandria, Va., and sophomore princess, Sharon Murphy, from Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Miss Lowery is a resident of Miami, Springs, Fla.

The court will wear red velvet A-line gowns with a false panel in the front. Accessories to the gowns are white wrist length gloves, and light pink shoes.

Miss Lowery will wear a white satin gown with a beaded high neckline, with a long bow effect in the back.

Bids for the Ball go on sale today. Price is $1 per person.

Who's Who

Sixteen seniors were named to the Who's Who in American College and Universities.

The award is given to students who demonstrate above average potential scholarship, service and leadership in their college or university.

Catherine Alberte, Frances Bacon, Sue Campe, Alice Canal,

Theresa Canton, Anna Marie Chiocca, and Pat Dolan were given this honor.

Daneen Galazka, Agnes Kettles, Joan Lenihan, Karla McGinnis, Judith Meerbott, Christine Reilly, Donna Roper, Martha Slater, and Barbara Souza were also awarded the honor.

Halloween Not Always Ghosts and Goblins

by Mary Kollmeyer

If your roommate told you it was just a matter of days until "Nutcrack Night," don't panic—semester exams haven't been moved ahead two months. "Nutcrack Night" is just another name for halloween in northern England.

The date October 31 was actually New Year's Eve and time for the fire festival in some ancient lands. On this occasion, souls of the dead supposedly revisited their homes and the people rekindled a fire to burn for the next year.

Since November was the darkest, most barren time of year, the festival acquired wicked significance and the idea of ghosts, witches, hobgoblins, and demons developed. The devil was invoked for divination about marriage, luck, and death. The gods were petitioned to protect crops and animals of the people by masquerade and funerary practices.

The "trick or treat" practice, now common in the United States, developed in the 19th century among Irish immigrants.

And if you should go out "Nutcrack Night," watch out for those games like dunking for apples, some of them have sacred significance.

Music Festival

Six universities will host the regional competitions that lead to the Intercollegiate Music Festival's national championships for collegiate pop and folk performers.

The Budweiser-sponsored event will hold regional contests at Villanova University, the University of South Florida, Southern Illinois University, the University of Texas, the University of Colorado and UCLA.

In the South, regional action gets under way Feb. 27-28 at the University of South Florida in Tampa.

Regional champions will be flown to the Intercollegiate Music Festival finals, held August 6-8, to battle for national championships.

The festival is open to vocalists, vocal groups and instrumental groups from U.S. colleges and universities.

Taped performances are judged; finalists then compete in regional events.

The winners of the 1970 Intercollegiate Music Festival will compete against Canadian national champions in Toronto, for the North American College Music Championships.

More than 5,000 news media cover the Festival events. A worldwide radio audience of more than 150,000,000 people enjoyed the 1969 competition.

Students may secure entry forms by writing: IMF, P.O. Box 1275, Leesburg, Fla. 32748.

Young Republicans Plan Year's Activities

by Anne Reich

There are many projects and plans underway for the Barry Young Republicans. Recently, Barb Sousa, president, attended a seminar in Tampa. The subject of the seminar Sept. 27, was "Student Unrest on the Campuses." Present at the seminar were a psychiatrist, a law officer, a college president, an attorney and a state senator. Sponsored by the Florida College Republicans, delegates from Young Republican clubs throughout the state attended.

Presently, some of the members are putting in extra time on weekends doing some local campaigning. Their object is to drum up support for Pat Daoud, who is running for city council. The election will be held Nov. 4.

The last Wednesday in October is the date scheduled for two speakers to give their opposing views on a unicameral legislature. Sandy D'Alenberte, Democratic State representative for Dade County, will speak in favor of it, while Joe Pereira, a Republican will take the opposite side. This event, co-sponsored by the Young Republicans and Young Democrats, will be in the AV room at 7:30 p.m.

Next on the agenda is a "Clean Halloween" campaign, that will run the last two weeks of Oct. This will be done jointly with other district members at the University of Miami, Dade South, Dade North, and Broward Junior College. They plan to sell Halloween insurance to raise funds for the gubernatorial race and other cabinet positions, scheduled for Nov. 3 from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. each day in Thompson Hall.

Tables will be set up to provide information on the candidates a week prior to the primary. The purpose of this event is to inform the student, to get them interested in politics, and to decipher where their support lies as far as the candidates are concerned.

news. Miss Aleff will become the station's first female news reporter.

Miss Aleff was previously employed as a reporter for the Chicago Tribune. Prior to that she worked for the Associated Press in New York City as a writer for the national broadcast wire.

Psychologist Reveals Proper Study Habits

Marianne McManus an assistant professor and psychologist in the counseling service at Iowa State, has developed a method to teach students how to take examinations.

Miss McManus believes that examination taking is an art, according to the Associated Collegiate Press.

"A good exam-taker has real know-how," said Miss McManus, "he has a knack or ability for writing examinations. Some only lack knowledge of good techniques, but the overwhelming tension in others keeps them from performing at their best."

Miss McManus believes that studying this problem for several years, started a pilot project last winter at Iowa State to help students who experience anxiety when test time rolls around.

A small class of students participated in a seven-week program of what might well be called behavior therapy for the test-anxious student. All were volunteers. The class was a cross-section of the student body. These were not poorly motivated nor low-ability students.

"While it is good to be a little nervous or 'charged up' about an approaching exam," she says, "some become overly motivated."

This new counseling project, Miss McManus said, has two objectives: "To help the student to learn other response to an examination situation; how to learn to cue-in relaxation along with his study time. We show them ways of learning to relax in the face of what has been a frightening stimulus."

"We also assist them to diminish the things they do to raise their own anxiety level. Rather than let them persecute themselves with such self-talk as 'I'm going to fail,' we try to get them to deal with their ideas or concepts of examinations and to find an orderly thoughtful approach to the problem."

The psychologist reports that learning to prepare for an oral or written test, and learning to relax in an exam situation takes time, practice and assistance.

Miss McManus knows from working with similar groups of students that this program can produce beneficial results. Such programs have instilled more individual confidence in facing an exam situation.

Freshmen Prove Winners In RAA Tournament

by Leila Davis

To interest less-athletic members of Barry campus in intramural sports, the Recreational Athletics Association is sponsoring a series of tournaments.

The first was in volleyball, held on Sept. 22-25. The opening game was between faculty and students, with the students victorious.

Other games were held between different classes, with the freshmen winning both of their games, the seniors winning one, and the juniors, one.

The next tournament scheduled is a swimming meet, on Oct. 7-10. Anyone is invited to participate in these events. The physical education majors from each class act as promoters for the tournaments.

This idea was initiated last year, and is moderated by Mrs. Neil Miller. Future tournaments will be held as follows: Golf, Oct. 20-24; Archery, Nov. 17-21; and Bowling, Dec. 1-5. More will be scheduled for next semester.

First Discussion Held By SGA Committee

The religious affairs committee of the SGA has introduced a new program to replace the day of recollection, according to Jo Ann Gwynn, chairman of the committee.

The new system involves open discussions on topics ranging from theology classes to more meaningful religious activities, said Jo Ann.

The first discussion was held in Dalton-Dunspaugh lobby Sept. 24. Father MacFaden of Biscayne College led the discussion.

From 15 to 30 students from Biscayne as well as Barry attended some part of the talk with "almost everyone speaking out," said Jo Ann.

Jo Ann commented that the committee hopes to schedule at least one discussion a month for the rest of the semester.

I. D. Photos Taken Today

Retakes of publicity pictures will be taken Tuesday, Oct. 14, 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Thompson Hall.

All undergraduates who did not have their publicity pictures taken before and those who wish retakes should have the pictures taken at this time, according to the publicity office.

FIU President Slated Speaker At Investiture

The traditional ceremony of investing the members of the freshmen class into the Barry College community is scheduled for Sunday, Oct. 26.

Sister M. Arnold, academic dean and Sister Dorothy, president, will cap each of the 185 freshmen, who will be dressed in academic attire for the occasion.

Dr. Fred Schaefer from the special education department will introduce Dr. Charles E.

Perry, guest speaker for the ceremony.

Dr. Perry is the president of Florida International University. In August of 1967, he was appointed special assistant to the Governor of Education, the first person to hold this position in Florida. One year later he became the vice chancellor of the State University system.

SGA will sponsor a reception following the investiture ceremony.

Pomare Dancers Perform At Barry

Eleo Pomare Dance Company Perform Scene From Blue Jungle.

by Daneen Galazka

The Eleo Pomare Dance Group will be presented Oct. 19 at 8:15 p.m. in the college auditorium, as the second presentation of the Barry College Culture Series.

An outstanding exponent of the modern dance, Eleo Pomare, who makes his ideas of protestation felt by his audience, is a dynamic dancer. A critic once called Pomare the only choreographer able to make his dancers express the deep frustrations of the Negro with understandable movement.

An integrated but predominantly Negro dance company, the Eleo Pomare group was organized in New York. After the first session of full-length concerts, the company took as its purpose "the creative utilization of Negro talent and ability in American Modern Dance," in its effort to break away from confining stereotypes of "Negro" or "Primitive" dance.

The Harlem dance suite "Blue For The Jungle," hailed as a work of genius, roughly traces the Negro's development in America and has as a central motif a slave auction. It constantly unfolds until the suite ends in a stormy riot.

Each year has seen the company, consisting of its creator and lead dancer, Eleo Pomare and twelve dancers, grow and develop along with the acquisition of a varied and exciting repertory.

Born in Columbia, South America, Eleo Pomare, recipient of the John Hay Whitney Fellowship Award for Dance, studied dancing at the New York City High School of Performing Arts. He left the United States to continue his studies in Europe where he formed his own European company and remained to perform and teach in Germany, Holland, Denmark, Sweden, and Norway. Since his return from Europe in 1965, Eleo Pomare has been amassing the reputation in this country which he enjoys in European dance circles.

A dance workshop will be conducted the afternoon of the performance at Barry, with lectures and demonstrations of interpretive dance. There is no charge for attending the workshop to be held in the auditorium from one to three p.m. on Sunday, October 19.

Tickets for the performance are on sale at the information desk in Thompson Hall.

Hello Dolly Barry's Musical

Barry's big musical production this semester is the long-running, filled-to capacity Broadway play, Hello Dolly. Sister Marie Carol, drama department chairman, will direct the musical, with Jan Hope acting as the student director. Hello Dolly is scheduled for the weekends of Nov. 7 and 14. Miss Minnaugh, speech and drama instructor, is the technical director. The cast was chosen in Sept.

Define Policies?

Recently, this office was contacted by WKAT radio to participate in a discussion on the policies of this newspaper, however, conflicts with the time of the program forced us to refuse the invitation for the present.

The situation brought the question up for definition and I realized that I would be hard put to explain the policies of the Angelicus.

The Angelicus must strike a delicate balance between our responsibility to the administration, to whom we are financially dependent, and our responsibility to the students to act as a voice for the problems they face on campus.

Even in connection with the students, our duty is split. We have one responsibility to represent the attitudes of the students, without favoring on faction over another when a disagreement arises. However, as an editorial organ, we have the right as well as the responsibility to focus attention on a problem, even though the majority of students may not agree with us.

We have no direct censorship from the administration, yet we cannot act in complete contradiction to our administration sponsor's policies.

The Barry campus is still in the growing stages, with new ideas just beginning to penetrate tradition.

Our primary goal, however, is to voice an objective appraisal of the issues that face the Barry student body as well as interest them in the activities of all phases of the campus.

Pat Pfeiffer, Editor

Dress Code Updated But Not For Library

Dress regulations are still a definite hinderance to resident students.

The present rule is better than last year in that residents are now permitted to wear shorts or slacks to meals on Saturday. However, a student must wear a dress or skirt into the library with no exceptions.

The Angelicus does not believe that the students are making an unreasonable request in asking to wear shorts or slacks on all parts of the campus on week-ends.

Why should a girl, studying in the dormitory on a Saturday, have to change into a dress in order to enter the library, or even to walk on the Academic side of the campus?

Women have been wearing pants in public since Mrs. Amelia Janks Bloomer adopted the practice in the early 1900s.

It is not considered strange for a girl to go out on a date in slacks, but to walk into the campus library (supposedly her home) she must adhere to a standard that went out of style in her mother's generation.

The SGA is presently considering changes in the dress regulations. It is the hope of the Angelicus that any reasonable changes will not be stifled on any other level.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

I would like to make a suggestion to the Security Guard (or whoever it is) who finds it necessary to place "no parking" stickers on the cars illegally parked on Barry's campus.

Granted that the idea is an effective way to curb illegal parking, I do not see why the stickers must be placed on the front windshield of the car, obstructing the driver's view. This is a definite safety hazard.

The nuisance value of the sticker would be just as effective if the sticker were placed on a side window, preferably one in the rear.

Name Change Considered

The "Angelicus" would like to ask the student body to consider a new name for the student newspaper. This will be explained more fully in the next issue.

Reporters Needed

The "Angelicus" needs reporters as well as people with a knowledge of photography and page layout. Anyone interested please drop a note to "Angelicus" Box 36.

Mythological Gardens of Pain

They say we fight for apple pie and a girl we left behind.

But the things we love they know not of.

For we'd love to see that apple grow and feel that warmth of our loved ones eyes.

And this is why we carry this gun and end the lives of apple lovers from the other side.

W. Ruskin

Correction

The staff of the "Angelicus" would like to express our appreciation for the letters received correcting any mistakes made in our previous issue. We hope that in the future it will be easier for us to obtain information before publication.

It is encouraging however, to see how thoroughly our newspaper is read.

Sister Thomas Catherine's name was mistakenly used in place of Sister Ann Thomas in connection with the CORE program at Barry.

The SGA service committee program GIVE was misrepresented as a fund raising program.

Our last issue stated that Sister Ann Bernard Goeddeke received her Bachelor Degree from Catholic University in Puerto Rico. Our intent was to state that Sister Ann Bernard received her Masters Degree from the University of Detroit. Sister taught at Catholic University.

Vietnam Moratorium

A current song called "Is that all there is" could serve as an appropriate sub-title for the attempt of a few students to organize a program in conjunction with the Vietnam Moratorium.

Announcement of the plans to discuss the question of Vietnam in classes on Oct. 15 in connection with the national movement was spoken in hushed tones with nothing more definite explained than that a meeting would be held Wednesday, Oct. 8.

The Angelicus asks how this overnight explosion of concern over the Vietnam issue developed.

What is more amazing is that these students who feel that this would be an appropriate means of dispersing the apathy on campus, did not even contact the student government president concerning the meeting.

This is what causes the apathy on the Barry campus. A few students get an idea and decide that they will run things their way.

The Angelicus does not believe that the issue of Vietnam should be ignored, but it does not have a black or white answer. Most people will agree that we should take our troops out of Vietnam, the question is how.

The subject under discussion here is not do we support the war in Vietnam or don't we, but rather how can a group so willing to support a national movement against Vietnam, not be willing to present their views to the Student Government first.

In the meeting held in the auditorium it was explained that the group does not really support the moratorium movement. However, by the very fact that they are asking the students to demonstrate their views on the day of the Moratorium they are acting in support of it.

We ask that the student body take a positive rather than a negative stand on the Vietnam question.

We ask that another day be dedicated to peace in the world. This would be something that the entire student body could support honestly.

Pray for the day when they gave a war and nobody came.

THE ANGELICUS is published once a month by the students of Barry College. Opinions expressed in THE ANGELICUS are not necessarily those of the administration, faculty or the majority of the students. It is the policy of this newspaper to provide equal space for dissenting views.

The staff reserves the right to edit copy which does not conform to journalistic standards and letters to the editor.

Club Drive: Profusion of Posters

by Pam Kelly

A student who happened to be walking through Thompson Hall the week of Sept. 22, on her way to a leisurely lunch, or just changing classes, may have suddenly found herself lost in a profusion of posters and recruiters. Freshman watched with awe and apprehension. Upperclassmen were less shaken, secure in the knowledge that recruiting is simply another sign of the new semester.

There is a club for everyone from the budding scientist to the politically inclined.

Those interested in language, can join the French, German or Spanish clubs. Playhouse and Alpha Theta are clubs designed for those with an interest in drama.

Almost every major department offers a club which will enable the student to put theory into practice. These include science, english, sociology, philosophy, education, music and home economics.

Recreational Athletics Association offers a wide range of activities and sponsors both individual and team sports. RAA also organizes intramural and intercollegiate teams.

For those interested in a more relaxed sport there is the bridge club.

A small campus like Barry can provide many opportunities for membership and leadership through the variety of club organizations.

The other members of the committee are Sister Francis Regis, latin instructor; Mrs. Neil Miller, head of physical education; Mrs. Corrine Owens, biology instructor, Mr. Carrol Naves of the french department and Dr Francis Lodato, of the education department.

Dr. Lodato replaces Mr. William Barr from the School of social work on the committee. Mr. Barr found his other duties did not leave sufficient time for the work of the committee, explained Mrs. Medoff.

Surprise Due Freshmen In Annual Initiation

All freshmen who are anxious to find out about Freshmen Initiation will have to wait until the assembly in Dalton lobby, at noon on Oct. 27. No secrets will be divulged earlier, according to Margie Bostick, of the Initiation committee.

"Surprise City" is the name given this year's Oct. 29 event. "It will be similar to last year," said Cathy Parker, also on the committee. The freshmen will be required to wear certain clothes, and will be assigned to an individual sophomore, Cathy added.

The activities will begin and end on Barry field, and will last all day, including a few planned programs. "No physical harm will come to any of the freshmen," commented Margie.

Education Students To Observe Schools

"Introduction to the School," four sections of education 253, are now beginning a program designed to give the student experience in the classroom as a student-aide, according to the education department.

The student will be expected to spend 14 hours during one semester in an assigned classroom in the capacity of a student-aide.

The students will assist with classroom activities and be given the opportunity to gain interpersonal relationships with students. This experience will generally occur during the student's sophomore year.

Phi Alpha Theta Inducts New Members

History is not only the great events of a civilization, but the everyday and average activities of the individual, also. Dr. Charlton Tebeau, history professor at the University of Miami, pointed out this as well as other thoughts at the Phi Alpha Theta lecture and induction ceremony in the Red Room on October 2.

Dr. Tebeau, with a B.A. from the University of Chatanooga, an M. A. from the University of Iowa and a Ph.D., is considered an expert in Southern Florida and Florida history. He has taught at the University for 31 years and written three books. "Who Can Be a Local Historian?" was his topic at the National History Honor Society gathering.

The induction ceremony suggested a symbolic travel through the ages of man for the new Xi Kappa chapter members, as they were conducted past six tables each representing a different age of man. As they passed the tables, arranged in two inverted triangles with an apex at each end of the room, old members read what was considered a relevant selection for the specific period. A lit candle stood on each table for the prehistoric, ancient, medieval, modern, contemporary, and future eras of man.

About 25 guests were present as Mrs. Doris Eaton, Sister Mary Giles, Deborah Lampert, and Mr. Charles Thompson were inducted. Trudy Massaguer was named an honorary member. Members include both Barry and Biscayne faculty and students.

The society's officers are Barbara Souza, president, Judy Merbott, vice president, and Maureen Guiday, secretary-treasurer. Sister Elizabeth Ann, chairman of the history department, is moderator.

Requirements for the society are 12 hours of history, a 3.1 history average, a 3.0 average in two-thirds of the subjects taken so far and rank in the upper 35% of one's class.

The organization is co-sponsoring a history forum with the History Association and History department in December.

Seniors Hold Class Day

The senior class will celebrate their class day Thursday, Oct. 30. Class day is a unique tradition at Barry. Each class chooses a day on which they wear class colors and sponsor an informal program during the day culminating with dinner and entertainment in the evening.

This year, the seniors choose as their theme, The Autumn of Our Years. This is a change from the traditional halloween theme. The cafeteria will serve as the dining room for the occasion. An added feature this year will be the awarding of volley-ball trophy for in intramural competition by the Recreational Athletic Association. The freshman class was the winner of the competition.

Awards will also be given to all individual team members.

New Machines Installed In Canteen

Did you ever go into the Barry canteen and run up to a candy or beverage machine? "Deposit exactly one dime" it would say. So you'd die of Hunger and thirst that day because you only had quarters to your name and the machine wouldn't give change.

But now we have new candy and beverage machines. Many thanks to Mr. John Saxon for installing them.

SGA Migrant Tutoring

The service committee of the SGA is sponsoring tutoring for the migrant workers and Youth Hall. The tutoring involves teaching English to the migrant workers or tutoring the teenagers that are in Youth Hall, which is the detention home for juveniles.

Time asked of the student tutors is one hour a week, according to Edna Brady, coordinator for the service committee.

Student Gripe Session Held

The second student gripe-in will be held in Weber Lounge Monday Oct. 13 at 6 p.m. and 12 noon in the canteen.

The meeting in the canteen is to give day students a better opportunity to take part in the discussion.

The first SGA sponsored "Gripe-In" was held last semester. That discussion lasted several hours.
