BARRY COLLEGE

Plan Focuses On Academics

By DIANE JOHNSON

"The Three Year Plan covers the entire college operations from student services, academic programs, business affairs, to planning and development," said Sr. Trinita Flood, President of Barry College.

"It focuses on general institutional goals, then departmental and divisional goals as they are tied to institutional goals. It determines the future thrust for academic programs within departments and divisions within schools," added Sr. Trinita.

The main area of concentration was academics because, as Sr. Trinita puts it, "That's what we're in existence for." The other areas, student services, business affairs, college and community relations, and religious affairs are support services.

"We had to determine what was best for the institution as a whole. It's difficult to do when there's limited finances and a period of three years that must be covered."

"At the Board of Trustees meeting in February, they commended everyone who had worked on the Three-Year Plan for its positive thrust. They understood what we're trying to do in relation to planning but with the current economic state, the budget was approved

Seniors To Be Busy

Activities Fill Schedule

By DIANE JOHNSON

Commencement activities begin Saturday, May 10 with the President's Reception for graduates, their families, and the College's faculty and administration. It will be held in the Thompson Hall Lobby from 4:00-5:00 p.m.

That evening, the Rose and Candle Ceremony will begin at 8:15 in the Auditorium. This ceremony is a tradition which "attempts to symbolize the bonds of friendship which have been formed by seniors and underclassmen," according to Sr. Linda Bevilacqua, Dean of Students. "Seniors pass a candle, symbol of wisdom and knowledge, to underclassmen, and in return, receive a red rose, symbol of love and friendship."

The Senior Drama Recital will follow the Rose and Candle Ceremony.

Sunday's activities begin with the Baccalaureate Mass in the Cor Jesu Chapel. It will be preceded by awarding the academic hoods to graduates.

Graduates and their families are invited to convene again in the Thompson Hall Lobby for Danish and coffee immediately following the Mass.

The Commencement exercises will begin at 2:00 p.m. in

Students Get Discount

The Executive Committee of the Administration has announced authorization of a 25 per cent per credit hour discount to be given for the 1975 Summer Session. This means a reduction of the undergraduate tuition from $63 per hour to $47.25 per hour. In order to qualify you must meet the following criteria:

1. Any balance due for the academic year 1974-75 must be paid in full to Barry College by May 2-3, 1975.
2. You must be registered as a full-time student during this semester (Spring, 1975).
3. You must register as a full-time student for Fall semester, 1975, and pay your $100 deposit at the time of registration, May 2-3, 1975.
4. Students graduating this summer will be permitted to take advantage of this discount.

Pre-registration is being held until May 23 for the Summer Session. Students are urged to pre-register to guarantee admission to the classes of their choice. The Summer Session will run from June 23 to August 1.

The regular registration dates are June 17 (9-12 a.m. and 1-4 p.m.) and June 18 (1-5 p.m. and 6-8 p.m.). Late registration and schedule adjustments will be held on June 23 and 24.

Fr. McDermott

only for next year, not for the next three years. They liked the idea of looking ahead but cautioned us to be very careful of expenditures," said Sr. Trinita. In other words, the Board is looking to lessen the budget deficit

Specifically, the Plan calls for improved student services in the form of reorganization. Sr. Linda Bevilacqua, currently Dean of Students, will become Director of Student Activities. There will also be a full-time person in placement. This person will begin working early with the students in determining career and professional goals and the areas of studies most beneficial to them, rather than the current procedure of waiting until graduation.

Sr. Trinita added, "This restructuring will broaden the concept of working with students early in their academic planning. I buy that concept."

Another concept that went in effect almost immediately was an invitation to Fr. McDermott to join the Executive Committee. This will make a more direct and specific relationship between the religious affairs of the College and the other areas.

The Three Year Plan Includes:

- reorganization of student services
- a full-time placement director
- Fr. McDermott as a member of the Executive Committee
- higher construction standards
- increased scholarship funds
- increased general funds

before school ever started, every area in the college, whether it was by division or department, wrote a Guide to Planning. In that guide, they established their own priorities.

"Some departments even brought in students," said Sr. Trinita. "They were to look at the program they offered — evaluating their strengths and weaknesses. They were to look for ways to maintain their strengths and alleviate their weaknesses. They were to take a new look at their department. They were to examine the faculty and the lines of communications between themselves and other departments.

"They were to assess their needs for the next three years and what they would need to accomplish the goals they were setting. For example, do we have the faculty, is the space allocation sufficient, and do we need any new things," said Sr. Trinita.

They wrote a plan book for that particular area. All plan books were then sent to the next level of administration and so on, until the members of the Executive Committee had books from all the areas under their jurisdiction.

A smaller comprehensive plan evolved out of all the plan books. This was the Three Year Plan that was presented to the Board of Trustees.

Dr. Henry served simultaneously as the coordinator of the Planning Committee and in his regular position as Vice-President.

The other areas included in the Executive Committee are academic (represented by Dr. M. Daniel Henry), Student Services (Sr. Linda), Business Affairs (Mr. Tim Czerniec), College and Community Relations (Mrs. Mary Ella Whipple), and now Religious Affairs (Fr. Neil McDermott). Of course, Sr. Trinita is also a member of the Executive Committee.

Other proposals were to bring the construction of the older buildings up to present standards, build up the scholarship endowment fund, and build up the general endowment for the college in order to alleviate the present financial stress.

Everyone's involved in determining the Three-Year Plan. Beginning last summer,

Honorary Degree To Be Awarded

By DIANE JOHNSON

An Honorary Doctor of Laws degree will be presented to Mr. Shepard Broad at the afternoon Commencement Ceremony on May 11. Mr. Broad is the Chairman of the Board of Trustees at Barry.

"We could place no figure on the value of his service to us (the College) in time, counseling, the sharing of his wisdom and experience, and legal know-how," said Sr. M. Trinita Flood, President of the College.

"As a person, he is a valuable resource that we certainly couldn't afford to hire. His concern is always expressed in terms of the people of the College — students first," concluded Sr. Trinita.

The last honorary degree was presented in 1967. Sr. Trinita commented, "We try to be very selective in giving honorary degrees. We give them only because of merit. We feel this is a fitting tribute to Mr. Broad's service to Florida and to Barry College."

The Honorable Mr. Broad built the Broad Causeway and gave it to the city, developed Bay Harbor Islands, and is a member of many boards including those of American Savings and Loan Association of Florida, St. Francis Hospital, Mount Sinai Hospital, and the Villa Marie, Home of the Aged. Mr. Broad is also an attorney.

Mr. Shepard Broad, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, will receive his Honorary Doctor of Laws degree at the ceremony.

Admission to the exercises is by ticket only.

BICYCLE THEFT: What To Do

Dear Editor:

Would you please print my letter to my fellow student on behalf of myself and the Security Department? It contains some helpful what-to-do's in cases of and to prevent bicycle theft.

DEAR FELLOW STUDENTS:

As some people may not be aware, there has been a serious rash of bicycle thefts in Miami and Miami Shores for quite some time. Barry College students, faculty and staff should consider themselves lucky that they have not been hit as hard as some areas. This is NOT due, however, to the excessive precautions Barry bicycle riders take in securing their bicycles. On a tour taken of the campus the other day, the writer noticed that only four of all the bicycles on Barry Campus, had any type of lock or chain at all!

Bicycle theft is a VERY SERIOUS problem and can run into excessive losses for the owners, especially people who depend on bicycles as their only form of transportation.

The best form of security for your bicycle is a heavy, coated link chain with a sturdy lock. Other types of chains are very easy to clip with a bolt cutter, but they are better than nothing at all.

Finally, what do you do if your bicycle is stolen and what are your chances of recovery? If your bicycle is taken from Barry Campus, report it to the Security Department immediately. Often the thief will place the bicycle on another part of the campus while waiting for a way to smuggle it off. An immediate search of the campus will often turn up the missing bicycle. The Security Department has recovered several bicycles in this manner.

Always the theft should be reported to the local police. However, if your bicycle is not registered with the police, their chances of recovering your bicycle are very slim and proof of ownership is nearly impossible. Bicycles can be registered at the Miami Shores Fire Department at no cost and little inconvenience as the Fire Department is located only a few blocks from Barry on Second Avenue.

It's your money you're throwing away. So remember — lock your bicycle and register it at the Fire Station.

THE WELL

Deep within the well I went,
How deep I went, I do not know.
But as I went, I went with cautions
That I had learned since days before
These things enslave me now no more.

When David on his lyre did sing
And from the sayings he did bring
I find the depth of being entwined.
I understand the psalm much better too,
"Out of the depths, I cry to you."

And now the sword of peace does pierce
My heart so hard, my tears so terse.
But tears they are at purging fears,
Forgiven in this pool of love
And he I see no more above.

Rather than looking far and wide
Now I see deeply of the love inside.
The shapes and sizes all fade away,
No longer am I held in check,
And so these boundaries I do reject.

As odd as man might think I am
I care little nor give a damn,
When all things now have passed away.
And this is the day the Lord has made
I rejoice and am glad, for this man is not afraid.

So let us charge the holy order,
To lead us to the living water
For which so long we have been deprived.
Know then, friends, that which is within you;
For this, the woman of the well forth drew.

Affects Object Items

All Budgets Frozen

By JUDY ANDERSON

Effective April 14 Sr. M. Trinita Flood, O.P., President of Barry College, announced that a freeze would be in effect on all object line items in the 1974-1975 budget. The only exceptions to this freeze are "those things for which money is already encumbered, or those items absolutely necessary for the accomplishment of the mission of the institution," according to Sr.'s memorandum to the college's personnel.

The fiscal year begins on July 1 and ends on June 30th. The College budget is divided into two sections: personnel and objects. The personnel section includes salaries for all full-time and part-time personnel. The object section consists of line items such as supplies, travel, capital outlay, printing, etc.

The budget for fiscal year 1975-1976 allows for salary increases for all personnel and is, therefore, somewhat increased over this year's figures. The object section of the budget will be maintained at the 1974-1975 level. The Board of Trustees approved an increase in tuition for 1975-1976 to assist the College to meet inflated costs and a need to maintain the high educational standards of the institution.

Sr. Trinita said, "it is more important to support our faculty and staff rather than invest in objects that are not as important."

Even with an increase for next year, Barry College's tuition is still one of the lowest in comparison to other private institutions in the State of Florida.

We are now approaching the end of the 1974-1975 fiscal year. We should all try, as we have in the past few months, to do our best to cutback on unnecessary expenditures. Everyone's cooperation in conserving energy has resulted in a lower electric bill. Let us maintain this spirit of watchfulness in order to keep expenditures at a minimum.

Sr. Trinita commented, "A review of our projected cash flow situation indicates, however, that we could be driven to borrow as much as $100,000 to meet final payrolls and other fixed expenses if more stringent measures are not taken."

She added, "This action is not an unusual one in academic institutions today. We were hoping to avoid it at Barry, but it is no longer possible to do so."

Apologies

We apologize...

...to Cee Cee Moore and Dee Dee Busher for the reversal of their names underneath their pictures in story on student drama production... and to anybody else in case we missed you!

Radio Show Takes Learning Outside Of Classroom

How does one go about applying book knowledge to real-life situations? Barry student Diane Johnson is doing it through the radio media. She is a regular interviewer on Sylvia Ash's Talking Business show. The show is aired every Saturday evening from 7:00 - 7:30 p.m. on WLRN-FM (91.3).

"Sylvia's the hostess. She's responsible for getting all the guests. She says her best source for potential guests is the want ads," commented Diane. "All I do is interview the people on the spot. I don't do any preparation before I go to the studio."

"The first show I did was with an attorney who specializes in small businesses. It just so happens that at that time we were studying small businesses and their rights and the laws that protect them in my Economics class."

"I had the same type of thing happen when we had Marshall McDonald, President of FBI, as a guest. Then, in the classroom we discussed monopolies."

"The thing I like best about doing the show is the wide variety of guests Sylvia finds from a man who designs and manufacturers solar water heaters to one who establishes individual retirement accounts under the provisions recently provided under the Pension Reform Act of 1974. We've also interviewed the publicity director of the Coconut Grove Playhouse and the head of the Fusion modern dance company, Wally Lord."

The show is very casual, according to Diane. It resembles a living-room situation. Guests are made to feel comfortable.

The University of Miami uses the show as a teaching aid in their management study areas.

A graduate business student from the University of Miami also serves as a regular interviewer.

If there are any students interested in being an interviewer and gaining valuable learning experiences, contact Diane at Box 524.

Spring Dance Is A Success

By RUTH BRESNAHAN

IT'S NOW MY TURN TO WRITE THE HOURLASS article about SGA. Since my becoming a new member due to a certain turn of events, my good friends on the Board happily volunteered my talents for this particular story. To my readers, it just so happens that this is my first endeavor in the enormous field of newspaper writing. So, please read on, and understand that I'm not a John Chancellor!

I thought I would write this article on one of the big events of the Spring Semester, the formal dance, which took place April 25th. It was a great success due in part to those fifteen members of SGA, who worked so diligently. Many problems arose during the course of planning but I honestly believe that the formal came through it all unscathed. A sincere thanks, should certainly go to those individuals, outside of SGA who put a great deal of their time into the dance.

To those who did not happen to attend, let me tell you what it was like. The Holiday Inn, at Calder, was a sparkling location. The full house seemed to have enjoyed themselves tremendously. Those seniors who attended will, I'm sure, remember and often look back at the wonderful evening they had.

The usual large dinner was cut out this year and a light buffet was served in its place. This seemed to have gone over quite well.

As I look back, the force behind the whole evening, was undoubtedly, the music itself. Phyllis Hyman and the PH Factor had just come from a previous engagement at the Love Room of the Eden Roc. SGA members and other students went to see them perform at the Eden Roc and left raving about the group's show. There was no question but to ask them to play at our formal. Ms Hyman gave each of her songs "a touch of class." Included in the show was a variety of songs from the likes of Barbra Striesand's The Way We Were to non other than Stevie Wonder's Living for the City. Phyllis' stature literally tore the place apart, for her total soul enveloped all those who attended.

The PH Factor, Ms. Hyman's back-up band cannot be ignored. Their individual talent was enough to explode Chicago. They were a superb group of musicians.

Well, another formal has passed and another class of seniors will be graduating in a few days. We all hope that the seniors had a wonderful time because the dance was in their honor. I hope it was a night that everyone can look back on and say they had a good time. A personal not on my part, best wishes to the Senior Class of '75.

INTERNATIONAL WOMEN'S YEAR

United Nations Works For Women

Throughout history, women's rights and roles have been rigidly restricted by centuries-old custom, tradition and myth reinforced by the laws of most societies. Recent years, however, have witnessed two important developments: the militant resolve of growing numbers of women that they will no longer be shut out from the political, economic and social life of their times; and the growing awareness of Governments that a healthy, modern society cannot afford the waste of human resources exacted by discrimination on grounds of sex.

On the international level, the United Nations — particularly through its Commission on the Status of Women — seeks to secure for women everywhere those basic rights to which all human beings are entitled. Its studies and procedures for reporting by Governments have helped shed light on long-neglected areas of discrimination against women in marriage and the family, education, employment and a variety of other fields in which women have yet to achieve equality with men. By setting standards in international instruments and numerous recommendations to Governments, the United Nations is pressing for an end to discrimination sanctioned by law, and the translation into practice of rights guaranteed by law. More recently, it has turned its efforts as well to securing the full participation of women in every aspect of national life, including their full contribution to the development effort.

These goals are reflected in the plans for International Women's Year, which the General Assembly proclaimed for observance in 1975. The threefold objectives for the Year are: to promote equality between men and women; to ensure the full integration of women in the total development effort; and to recognize the importance of women's increasing contribution to the development of friendly relations among states and the strengthening of world peace. The theme of the Year is "Equality, development and peace."

The program proposed by the Commission for 1975 is based on a conviction expressed in the General Assembly's landmark 1967 Declaration on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women: "that the full and complete development of a country, the welfare of the world and the cause of peace require the maximum participation of women as well as men in all fields." The activities during the Year are designed "to have a continuing impact in the years ahead. . .". The program is aimed at encouraging moves at the national, regional and international level to promote full equality in such fields as law, economic rights, and rights and responsibilities in the family and home. It seeks to create awareness and recognition "that men and women have equal rights and obligations towards themselves as individuals, towards their children as parents, and toward their societies as citizens."

Activities at the national level will have to be financed by resources from within the countries themselves. At the international level, they will be financed both from resources available to the United Nations and from voluntary contributions by member states, intergovernmental and non-governmental organizations, private foundations and interested individuals.

The commission has stressed that International Women's Year should be viewed as an event in which both men and women will participate.

As part of the 1975 observance, the Commission on the Status of Women has further suggested the holding of an international conference to examine the extent to which the United Nations system has carried out Commission recommendations, and to consider additional plans for integrating women in development.

DECLARATION

The Declaration on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women was adopted by the General Assembly on 7 November 1967. The Declaration sets forth the principles of rights for women on equal terms with men and calls for measures to guarantee their implementation.

The work on the Declaration began in 1963 when the General Assembly noted in a resolution that there still remained considerable discrimination against women, in fact if not in law, and asked the Commission on the Status of Women to prepare a draft Declaration aimed at eliminating such discrimination. The draft text, which the Commission adopted in March 1966, was considered by the Assembly that year and sent back to the Commission for further review in the light of additional proposals and Assembly discussions. The Commission adopted a revised text in March 1967 to which the Assembly gave high priority at its twenty-second session. After accepting the recommendations of its Third Committee for further amendments to the revised text, the Assembly adopted the Declaration.

The Declaration on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women represents a milestone in the work of the United Nations to promote equal rights for men and women in accordance with the provisions of the Charter and the principles set forth in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and the International Covenants on Human Rights. The Commission on the Status of Women may be expected in the future to concentrate its efforts on securing the full implementation of the Declaration through all the means available to it. The Commission recognizes that a first step in this direction is to spread knowledge of the provisions of the Declaration and full understanding of their meaning among men and women throughout the world.

Mexico City To Be Site Of Conference

The themes of International Women's Year — equality, development and peace — will be the subject of a major United Nations Conference in Mexico City, Mexico, from June 23 to July 4, 1975.

All states will be invited to send delegations to the conference, the first world meeting of its kind on the topic. It will be the highlight of United Nations efforts during International Women's Year 1975.

National Liberation Movements recognized by the Organization of African United and-or the League of Arab States will be invited to participate in the Conference as observers. Specialized Agencies, Inter-governmental and non-governmental organizations will also be invited, and all official meetings will be open to the press and the public.

Parallel activities at the Conference currently under consideration include the convening of a Non-Governmental Conference and an Encounter for Journalists.

The Conference will be held in the Conference Centre of the Mexican Ministry of Foreign Affairs at Tlatelolco, Mexico City.

The major objectives of the Conference are:

- 1) To arouse the consciousness of the world to the vital role women play and to the fact that women's contribution — or potential contribution — to issues of universal concern can no longer be ignored if there is to be real progress and development in the world. Eradication of discrimination on grounds of sex is not only a question of human rights and social justice, but it is also essential to development and peace.

- 2) To launch a dynamic plan of action which will respond to the demands of a rapidly changing world, and be for the benefit of all mankind.

In addition to the International Women's Year Conference, the United Nations and the Specialized Agencies are planning a series of regional and expert meetings focusing on specific ways of achieving the goals of the Year — the achievement of equality between the sexes, the integration of women in development and the enhancement of women's contribution to world peace.

Why A Year For Women?

There are many reasons why International Women's Year is needed. We need it in order to focus on a subject which deserves more attention. The time is overdue for a year concentrating on women. But it must be a year not only for the benefit of women, but ultimately for the benefit of everybody. It should really become a year of men and women.

I think women have been too modest. They have not had confidence in themselves and their own capacity to carry out what they want done. Although it must be remembered that women are political newcomers — until recently they did not have even the right to political participation and decision-making — let alone the confidence to do so.

SECRETARY-GENERAL OF INTERNATIONAL WOMEN'S YEAR — MS. HELVI SIPILA

UNITED NATIONS

Centre For Economic And Social Information

Since the U.N. began in 1945 undoubtedly much progress has been made in improving the situation and status of women in the world. The laws of nations have been, and are being changed, to accord women equal rights with men in political, economic, social and family life. Age old traditions, attitudes and practices are slow to change however, and the gap between law and reality remains very wide.

Moreover, statistics are lacking, or are inadequate to give a complete and accurate picture of women's contribution to society. The work of the subsistence farm worker who toils from morning to night may not even be counted despite the crucial role she plays in food production in many parts of the world. The contribution of the housewife to the national economy is not measured or recognized by the economist and national planner.

There is a growing awareness, however, especially in recent years, that women's contribution is essential to the progress of society and that, without it, such crucial issues of world concern as food production and consumption, population growth, unemployment and mass poverty cannot really be solved.

If their contribution is to be fully productive, however, women must have the necessary training and education to equip them for effective participation as well as the opportunity, encouragement and will to contribute to their full potential.

International Women's Year 1975 is a beginning only. It is a time to set in motion dynamic new action programs "as part of a sustained long-term effort of the international community to improve the condition of women and their contribution to society."

International Women's Year 1975 gives the international community a unique opportunity to promote genuine equality between women and men, not only in law but in everyday life; to ensure the full involvement of women in the development effort, and in the sharing of its benefits; and to greatly increase the contribution of women to the achievement of the fundamental aims and objectives of the United Nations — namely, the maintenance of peace, and the improvement of the conditions of life for all.

We in the United Nations are determined to do all in our power to make International Women's Year of real significance. In this task we ask for and need the active assistance of all citizens. International Women's Year is not an occasion for women alone. It can be and should be an occasion for the united efforts of us all — men and women — to ensure that fundamental human rights and responsibilities are shared by all humanity. This Year should leave an imprint on history, not only the history of women's advancement but also that of people all over the world.

Dorms Make Revisions

By DIANE JOHNSON

An ad hoc committee from the dorm council has made some policy revisions, including establishing a judicial board separate from the dorm council and revised voting procedures for the members elected to the dorm council and judicial board.

"Basically, we have decided to divide the judicial activities from the dorm council and from one dorm judicial board which crosses lines between all the dorms," commented Sr. Linda Bevilacqua, Dean of Students.

The judicial board will be made up of elected representatives elected at-large in each individual dorm. The elections were held April 30.

Totally, there will be nine justices. The break-down is as follows: Farrell - 1, Kelly - 1, Villa - 1, Weber - 2, Dalton - 2, and Dunsbaugh - 2. "The justices will, in turn, elect their each dorm and the chairman of the judicial board.

Dorm council members were also elected on April 30.

Previously, they had been elected in the fall after school had been in session for a month. There are twenty representatives in this council. They are divided as follows: Farrell - 2, Kelly - 3, Villa - 2, Weber - 5 (one from each wing), Dalton - 4 (two from each floor), and Dunsbaugh - 4 (two from each floor).

The positions are open to anyone who will be a resident next year. Voting will also be done according to the housing assignments for next year. For example, if you're a resident of Kelly this year but will be living in Dalton next year, you vote for a Dalton representative.

Sr. Linda added, "We are still working on the infractions to be referred to the justice board

Want To Help?

Assist A New Incoming Student

By DIANE JOHNSON

The Student Assistants Program is a part of Barry's orientation sessions to freshmen and transfer students. It is basically a Big Sister-Little Sister type of program, according to Sr. Linda Bevilacqua, Dean of Students.

"The assistants' primary responsibility is two-fold. First, to get in touch and establish some type of communication during the summer and two, to be here for the orientation program."

Sr. Linda elaborated on the list of responsibilities that the student assistants have. They are to meet the new student when she arrives on campus and give her a tour of the campus pointing out the location of all the services the College offers and identifying key administrators, faculty, and upperclassmen. They are also to try and answer any questions the student or her family may have about Barry.

New students are assigned to an upperclassman in the same major field or, at least, in the same school. Approximately, 70 upperclassmen participate in this program which means each one has the responsibility of anywhere from 3-5 new students. Sr. Linda feels a better job could be done with 85-90 assistants.

Those upperclassmen interested can sign up in Sr. Linda's office from now until June. In the second week of July, you can expect a letter from Sr. telling you who your incoming students are plus a short resume including name, address, telephone number, whether they're a transfer student or freshman, and resident or commuter.

Specifically, the assistants' schedule will be as follows:

August 29 — Be here when dorms open if you have a student coming.

August 30 — Meeting with all Assistants and Sr. Linda.

September 1 — Orientation begins at 5 p.m. There will be a dinner that night and all new students and assistants are expected to attend.

September 2-4 — Just be around when the new student may need you to answer questions and show them around.

September 4 — Classes begin.

Sr. Linda commented, "We need students who will make the commitment and stick with it. We also need commuters."

"At the end of the orientation sessions, the freshmen are asked to evaluate their student assistants. And we find the freshmen really appreciate it. It establishes a bond of friendship which lasts," she added.

Sr. Linda Bevilacqua

own member to be chairman on the judicial board," according to Sr. Linda.

These justices will serve one year terms. However, if they move from the dorm in which they were elected, they must resign.

Also, there will be an appeals board. This board will be comprised of the presidents of and we are still writing the by-laws for the dorm council and judicial board. They will be published in the 1975-76 Student Handbook."

Members of the ad hoc committee are Kim Ballard, Ruth Bresnahan, Mary McKendry, Val Stone, Daisy Williams, Mrs. Mary Ellen Hrutka, and Sr. Linda.

French Students Speak In Foreign Tongue

By LAURA IGLESIAS

The first Miami French Contest was held at Barry College on April 12. There were seven private, local high schools participating in this event. The schools were: Christopher Columbus, Gulliver Academy, Immaculata-LaSalle, Lourdes Academy, Notre Dame Academy, and Ransom-Everglades School.

Ten students from each school were given the opportunity to participate in the various categories available including dictation on various levels, extemporaneous speech, recital of poetry, excerpts on literature, oral interpretation and original skits.

Seven professors from different colleges and universities, among them the University of Miami and Florida International University, acted as judges in this contest. That evening, there was a banquet where the winners were announced and prizes were awarded.

Last October, this contest was started by a number of schools in order to advance better communications between French students. As a result, various private schools now have the opportunity to participate in a social as well as competitive relationship. This contest exhibits a great achievement in continuing this goal.

MR. CARROLL NAVES, COUNSELOR of the event, feels that this day was just the beginning of many. He was overwhelmed by the participation and enthusiasm of the students and their courage to stand before their peers and give speeches in a language which is not their native-born.

"The wonderful thing is that these young people, with their interest in other cultures, inspire the study of foreign languages," he said. "They prepared, practiced, and rehearsed for this contest. They gave up their free time. How many people would be willing to do this?"

Miss M. Visits Russia

By NANETTE PAOLILLO
Miss Patricia Minnaugh, a professor in the Speech and Drama Department, had much insight to share with her students and colleagues when she returned from her visit to Russia.

The trip was from March 19 through March 29, and it was sponsored by the American Theatre Association. It featured a series of professional seminars with Russian actors, directors, designers and others involved in the theatre. "Its purpose was to have beneficial dialogues between American and Russian theatre professionals," said Miss Minnaugh.

She spent four days in Moscow and four days in Leningrad. She saw plays at the Moscow Art Theatre, Gorki Theatre, Moly Opera House, Bolshoi Ballet, and other prominent theatres in the two cities.

"I was impressed by the plays," she said. "The sets, costumes, and lighting were fantastic."

A very interesting observation was made when she saw the Russian version of an American play. A Streetcar Named Desire by Tennessee Williams was surprisingly portrayed as anti-American. Miss Minnaugh commented on the way in which the Russians had completely changed the characters in the play.

Miss Minnaugh

"Stanley was portrayed as a thinking and conservative man when he was actually a beast. Blanche, who was supposed to be a 41 year-old woman, was portrayed as a 21 year-old woman." When asked why these changes were made, the Russians replied that in spite of what society did, Blanche was still imagined to be a "pure and innocent" person.

"It was an extremely interesting visit," was her impression as a professional. "I learned a great deal that I can use with my students." The Russian Theatre has many of the same problems as do the Americans. Lack of money and censorship are among many. As expected, the Americans have much more freedom and creativity in the theatre. The Russians expressed the desire to be more experimental and creative. They have little or no flexibility. All their work is state censored and must definitely support the government.

The Russians have a high regard for all artists. Theatre tickets are sold out before the eleven-month season begins. When Miss Minnaugh spoke with some university students and actors, they were especially interested in hearing about Jesus Christ Superstar. They had heard about it through the Voice of America.

When asked what her personal feelings were while in Russia, she responded that it was not an enjoyable experience. "I felt sad in seeing the total and reluctant acceptance of the non-freedom; it made me very depressed. As you walk through the streets and see people; wherever you are, no one ever smiles, not even the children."

Miss Minnaugh continued to say, "A human being is more important to me than a government. There has to be a sharing, an exchange of feelings. When there is none and the government merely rules the other, it is sad."

When she visited Lenin's Tomb, the awe exhibited by the Russian people reminded her of the feeling that many Americans have when they visit President Kennedy's grave. It was even more than that because the Russians were lined up for blocks just to pass by his tomb. It was obvious that Lenin takes root in their lives as a god.

Because she was a tourist, Miss Minnaugh was brought up toward the front of the line. Although she was frisked many times, she could understand the reasoning of the Russians wanting respect and security around their cherished tomb-site. The Russian tourist guides were pleasant and very well informed, but very subtle with communistic propaganda.

She also went to a Jewish Synagogue and a Catholic Church. There are very few churches with only a small congregation made up of older people. "The front doors of the church were not even allowed to be unlocked," she said, "you had to enter from the back." With a chuckle, yet a feeling of serious wonder, Miss Minnaugh said that they were giving out pussy willows in the Catholic Church on Palm Sunday.

"Moscow is like a concrete jungle," she commented. "It is very modern." The weather was cold and clear. "I love Leningrad," she said, "it's a beautiful city of 18th century style architecture." It was very cold and snowing there. Moscow and Leningrad are about an hour's plane flight apart.

The subways in Moscow are marvelous. Another striking thing was there was no litter anywhere. "The Russian people display much pride. I wish the Americans were like that."

Another interesting thing is that in Russia there are the Pioneer Palaces. Children between the ages of five and 15 are able to study art, music, dance, and theatre which are taught by professionals after their regular school session.

"This is a great future for professionals in these fields, but it helps the kids grow in appreciation of the arts, and provides an educated audience as well."

"I found the prices relatively expensive," Miss Minnaugh noted. "I don't know how they manage." Chewing gum is a black market item. "The maids and waiters would not accept money as tips, but would accept gum." The Russian children are forever asking tourists for gum. The Russian government has finally consented to opening up a gum factory because of the "oustling."

There seems to be adequate security in the life of a Russian. Although he is assured of a job, he has no choice but to take what he gets and must go where he is sent.

"I have been in many foreign countries," she said, "but never before have I wanted to get out of one and never return. Russian has become the exception. I'm glad I'm an American."

Miss Minnaugh added as a last word, "I felt the Russian Airlines should take lessons from the Americans. The planes were very uncomfortable and the stewardesses were inefficient and very unfriendly. I'll never complain about an American airline again!"

The faculty Senate held an International Wine and Cheese Tasting Party on April 24. Fr. Madden was the host for France, Sr. Monica Kim for San Francisco, the Villa Community for Germany, Sr. Myra Marck for Italy, and the Perrault House for New York. Pictured are Sr. Myra Jackson and Sr. Claire Beaubien.

Senior Drama Students To Show What They Know

The Senior Drama Recital will be held on May 10 at 8:15 in the Auditorium. Five senior drama students are participating in the show. They are Bill Charlow, Emily Fuchs, George Jazlowski, Patty Langerman, and David Schram.

Senior drama students work all year on this production. The main stress is on acting. There's very little set or technical work. The students themselves finance the programs.

They receive one credit for this and it is required for graduation. In fact, it takes the place of the Undergraduate Examinations (URE). The department feels it shows more evidence of the students' progress and knowledge in theatre because it shows practical applications of theatre principles, according to student Patty Langerman.

Included in the production will be chorus numbers, drama, comedy, and even some Shakespeare. The selections will be from such shows as Plaza Suite, The Tempest, Rosencrantz and Guildenstern, Romeo and Juliet, and Marat Sade.

Richard Romagnoli has been assisting the students on the production. Admission is free to the May 10 show.

During World War II, he taught oral and written Japanese at the University of Oklahoma, and in 1946 went back to Tokyo as a civilian advisor to GHQ, SCAP. In 1951, Mr. Van Zandt returned to the States and joined a subsidiary of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation, and was back in Tokyo at the beginning of 1956, in charge of ITT's interests in that part of the world, remaining for nearly 17 years. He was President of the American Chamber of Commerce in Japan in 1959-1960, and served on the Chamber's board of governors for fifteen years — the longest ever for one person.

As a director of eleven Japanese organizations, including one company with annual sales of a billion dollars, he became, to quote Dr. Peter F. Drucker, "The foremost authority on Japanese business today."

Mr. Van Zandt is a popular lecture figure, having appeared on programs in Japan about once a week for a dozen years, and in the United States, too, on his visits. He appeared on nationwide Japanese TV programs twelve times in 1971 and 1972. He is the only Occidental ever to have given a talk in the Diet in Japanese. He took early retirement from ITT in September, 1972, becoming Professor of International Studies and Management and Administrative Science in the Graduate School of a state university.

World Who's Who in Commerce and Industry has carried his biographical sketches for many years.

Judo Tournament

Students Learn And Make Money

By PATRICE DANNELLY

On Saturday April 12th at Miami Beach Senior High School, the intermediate judo class of Barry College sponsored a Judo Tournament. It was open to contestants from ages 8 through 16. The purpose of the tournament was to help teach the students how actual competition functions with actual scoring, refereeing and judging.

There were 131 entrants from Boca Raton to Homestead. They were placed in twenty different divisions based on age and weight. Prizes were given to winners in each division. They ranged from a gold medallion for first place, to a certificate of merit for third place.

The class grossed $370.00 from tournament proceeds. Each girl in the class received $26.00. Part of the money made will be spent on a charter to begin a Judo Club at Barry in September, which will be registered with the United States Judo Association and the Amateur Athletic Union. This will give Barry College representation in all local, state and national government athletic judo competitions.

Rick Fernandez, judo instructor, plans to hold this type of tournament every year with profits going to the students and the Judo Club. He would like to congratulate the following students for doing what he thinks was a "fantastic job"; Mary Brusco, Tournament Director; Patty Russell, Assistant; Mary Rhinehart, Pat Kelly, Debbie Thomson, Sandy Sparks, Ken Delp, Jo DeCicco, Sue Berman, Chris Coughlin, Kim Schroeder, Eve Placentsia, Denise Heron and Gloria York.

A special thank-you is also given to the Physical Education Department for the financing of printing and mailing materials.

Softball Season Ends

By CATHY FLEMING

The Barry College girls softball team recently concluded their 1975 spring season. The girls posted a 2-7 record, over two tournaments, sponsored by Barry, and regular season play.

Mrs. Mary Jane Washa the coach commented "although our record doesn't indicate an extremely successful season, I feel, however, we were a success in that the team got to know each other better. We met many nice people from other teams and has a real good time. Ruthie "Irish" Bresnahan and Janet Gass also learned a lot."

Mrs. Neill L. Miller should be commended for doing an outstanding job with the Barry College sponsored State Junior and Senior College Women's Softball Tournament. Seventeen colleges participated. Mrs. Miller co-ordinated all activities with the help of the team and Physical Education Majors. Over 250 people were fed for two days. The games also ran smoothly and on time.

Barry didn't make an impressive showing this year as many of its players were playing organized softball for the first time. The majority of the team were freshman. And the team was plagued by lack of interest and injuries. Barry can look for a stronger team next year with the return of a few seasoned players.
