The birth of a building

By ANA MOLLINEDO

Looking for a parking space can be more of a challenge this year than it was in the Fall of 1983. This year, in the once empty lot on the west side of campus sits the newest addition to Barry University.

The D. Inez Andreas School of Business named after Inez Andreas, a Barry alumnus and chairman of the board of Barry University, is a welcomed addition. Previous to its existence, the School of Business was located in the Weigand Building along with the School of Nursing and the School of Biological and Biomedical Studies. As one might expect, the working conditions of the faculty and staff were crowded and unpleasant.

"The School of Business Building was needed for about seven years. The actual planning began in the winter of 1982," said Sister Jeanne O'Laughlin, president of Barry University.

Indeed, a great deal of planning and effort were involved in the undertaking of such a large project. Two major obstacles had to be overcome before the actual construction could take place. First and foremost, was funding. Through a series of donations and fund raising events approximately ten million dollars was raised. Of this ten million, approximately $2,526,594 went towards the actual building: $161,800 for furniture, and about $100,000 for the architects Howard, Needles, Tanmen and Bergendoff.

The second obstacle was designing the building, this is where Dean Ray House comes into the picture. Before coming to Barry in the Fall of 1982, Dean House worked at Loyola University. On one of his trips to Miami, Dean House was advised of the need for a new building. He then proceeded to develop plans for the new Business school, and submitted them in the Spring of 1982.

"It was pretty surprising that they (the architects) utilized my ideas and concepts as closely as they did," Dean House recalls. "This made me feel good about the new

S.G.A. News

As we slowly bring the fall term to a close, you should be aware of what your Student Government has been working on.

The semester got off to an active start because of S.G.A.'s Student Welfare Committee. This committee submitted revisions to both the dorm visitation and alcohol policies. The revisions were presented to the Student Affairs Council who reviewed them, accepted them, and passed them on to the president's office. At the moment they await Sr. Jeanne's approval. If you should be interested you may pick up copies of either one of the revisions at the Student Activities or S.G.A. offices.

November 3rd & 4th members of Student Government traveled to Melbourne to attend a conference sponsored by the Florida Independent Student Association. As representatives of Barry students, S.G.A. has taken the initiative of joining F.I.S.A. The latter is a statewide organization which represents students attending independent Florida colleges and universities at the local, state, and national level on educational issues and concerns. The second objective is to foster the development of individual student governments and provide the opportunity to promote communication and cooperation between member institutions. Your S.G.A. feels that we have the responsibility to not only represent our students on the campus and local level, but also address our concerns on the state and national level. Attending proved to be a most favorable endeavor for all since we now have the regional representative of the association. Kim Sescoc current S.G.A. president, now holds the position mentioned.

S.G.A. has also recently appointed several students to head an array of committees.*

*These students were chosen at random and they were accepted by the S.G.A. Board on the basis of their meeting the requirements of their specific committees.

A time to think

By VIRI VILLAVERDE

Christmas will soon be here and most of us will get lost in the sometimes fun and sometimes frustrating confusion of the season and the shopping malls. We all get a good feeling when we are able to give something that we know someone we care for will enjoy. We get an even better feeling when we see the faces of our loved ones when the presents are opened on Christmas morning. This is a time we share with those we love and care for.

But what about those we don't know? What about those not as fortunate as most of us this Christmas season? Many times in today's commercialized society, we tend to forget what Christmas is all about. It is the celebration of the birth of Jesus Christ, the one who gave up his life for us. It is at this time, more than ever, that we should share and give what we can to those who aren't as lucky as we are.

While you are writing your Christmas gift list and trying to decide what color sweater to get Uncle Jim, stop and think about the idea behind the season of giving. Sometimes giving our time and our love is worth more than anything we can buy in any store. The sentimental value of what we give and share will be worth much more in the end than the monetary value ever will. If we are able to give to those who are needy, the feelings that

Whether you attend Ivy University or Hicksville College, you must at some time enter the dreaded CAFETERIA ZONE!!!

It is 12 noon, you have a class in 30 minutes. You think to yourself, "just enough time for a leisurely lunch." Wrong! As in the famous song, you've only just begun.

It begins when you line up for 30 minutes like cattle to be carded as if you were a criminal, then you line up again to be treated to your daily installment of haute cuisine, or as some affectionately call it "mystery meat." If however, your tastebuds absolutely rebel at the idea of cooked food, or, having forced the food down, your stomach starts to complain at you for having fed it portions of a size fit for 5-year-olds (certainly not college students), then you can make your way over to the sandwich bar. There you can treat your tastebuds to turkey, salami, ham or tuna sandwiches. The only problem with the tuna is the green objects (commonly known as green pepper. I HATE green pepper) with which it abounds.

Having collected your food and fizzless soda in your designer spotted glasses (soap in the dishwasher is something that has not yet been discovered, although every once in a while someone slips and forgets not to put it in and we get that rare and wonderful phenomenon. . . CLEAN GLASSES). You then make your way to the table.

Oh, but what have we forgotten??? Of course, the Team up with administration

by FRED MORRO

There has been a great deal of talk around campus lately about the ineffectiveness of the administration in dealing with disciplinary problems. On the surface this might appear to be true, but dealing with these problems can get very complicated. Contributing to these complications is apathy and the "I don't want to get involved" syndrome among the majority of the resident hall population.

Barry University judicial system was set up in a democratic fashion to protect the innocent and to insure that justice has been done. The system is such that the law breaker can abuse the protection of his or her rights. This inefficiency has been deemed acceptable by society in order to insure the protection of the good citizen or resident's rights. The administration cannot administer disciplinary action on the basis of hearsay. They must have concrete information and testimony provided to them.

As good residents we can assist the administration by coming forth and reporting incidences of vandalism, alcohol and drug abuse. Become involved in the newly reformed Resident Hall Association. Express your and your fellow residents' ideas, grievances, and praises which will be presented to the administration. Cooperate with your resident advisor by keeping a watchful eye around your hall and reporting incidences as described above.

This is your home away from home; let's work together to protect it and make it the best possible place for us to live. Team up with administration and get involved. Make Barry an even nicer place to live.

Dear Students,

The year is quickly passing and it is my fond wish that as the holiday season approaches, you will find renewed strength and energy to continue your personal goals.

I hope you will enjoy the semester break. I trust you will come back energized to successfully complete this academic year.

Please know that you are a source of great pride to me and I am grateful for your goodness. The world is better because of your presence—and so is Barry.

It is my prayer that the holy days bring their special blessing to you and yours. May God grant that 1985 be good to you.

Happy holidays.

Sincerely,

Sister Jeanne O'Laughlin, O.P.

'Who Says It Is'

by KIMBERLY SESCOE
SGA President

Some say that I am wasting my time in writing about the infamous newsletter As It Is. But I have never been the one to keep my mouth shut. The authors of As It Is appear to be one of our many angry and frustrated students who are fed up with the administration at Barry. As It Is is part fact, part fiction, part opinion, and part speculation. Frankly, with this combination, our hybrid worms were not impressed. However, I am not here to criticize the authors. I'm sure they have heard enough of that echoed throughout Thompson Hall. My interest is with those students who are not voicing their concerns and opinions about life at Barry. You have the right and responsibility to express your views on campus issues in a productive manner. A medium of exchange for all students does exist. SGA is the lobbying body created for students by the students through which they can have a voice in campus policies, and should be utilized respectively. We have become an influential and respected force at Barry. In order to maintain this level of progress we must have student response and support. Without these we are helpless. Let's not revert to our apathetic ways of the past, but guide our future.

After completing this form drop it by the Student Activities Office.

Just Ask Frenchie...

Dear Frenchie,

He loves me (he says) and I'm very attracted to him. Yet, what he says goes contrary to what he does. What should I rely on, his words or his actions? Please advise.

Dear Perplexed,

I am one that strongly believes that actions speak louder than words. This is not to imply that you should not listen to what he's saying. Do both, observe and listen. As you get to know him better you'll be more capable of judging for yourself how sincere he is. Be patient.

Be A Star at Night

by DARLINE MARIE DORCE

The Barry University Telecommunications Graduate Program started two years ago with one staff member and six students. Since then it has grown to seven staff members and 21 students. Why do we have such a large Telecommunications program at such a small university? In a recent interview with Sister Marie Carol Hurley, hostess of Barry's own "Florida Arts" program, she told us why.

"Sister Jean, the President of Barry, is a futurist," Sister Hurley said. "She feels that the telecommunications area is becoming very important and that there is a large job market today for telecommunication graduates."

Barry's Telecommunications Department has been producing programs for cable television since March of last year. This year, they are producing three programs a week. One of the programs is

"Quality Time." Another program is "Who Cares." This program is put on mainly by nursing students. Finally, the last program, "Florida Arts," the TV magazine show of the lively arts, provides creative programming which entertains as well as educates.

The Department of Telecommunications at Barry offers students classes in such areas as cable television, electronic advertising, media management, satellite communications, and telecommunications-computer applications. Additional areas of study include regulatory issues, communication laws, and future directions of the industry. However, BE WARNED!! Graduate level courses in telecommunications program are offered only at night. So go ahead, Don't be left out. BE A STAR AT NIGHT!

Barry Vice

by INCOG NITO

Morning hits the B.U. campus and another tough, busy, stressful day begins for the Barry Vice crew. On a very rare occasion, the office is filled with the bothersome hustle and bustle of changing shifts, distribution of assignments, and other menial tasks. The ever so reliable night crew is replaced by the strong, muscular day crew.... Oh what a dream come true for all!!!

However, today is not one of those few occasions. Today is your normal, average, unexciting day. Headquarters stands tranquil. As we sneak in to take a peak, we find the director, otherwise known as the psychological leader of the security robots, leisurely seated in his 1984 replica of Captain Kirk's chair. Captain Sluggo slowly sips on his nutritious and effervescent glass of carrot juice and Schnapps while at the same time devours a succulent Dunkin Doughnut raisin bran muffin. (Did anyone see that muffin?) It's o.k. though, let him enjoy himself!!! After all, not much happens in a continuously growing, popularly acclaimed university, right? Many might confuse this "relaxation" session as lethargy and laziness which is totally erroneous! Barry Vice is only enforcing Barry Vice policy: "Take time to smell everything-- even the dirty laundry."

Aikido Talent Show; Big Jam Boom

by Timothy Stout
Student Activities Editor

A well-mannered crowd of more than 200 people filled Weber Lounge to witness the First Annual Talent Extravaganza sponsored by the Aikido Club on Friday night November 30. Orchestrated by Sal Blandino, the show's success was attributed to the fine performances given by Barry students competing for a total cash prize of $225.

A big round of applause for the following people who worked so hard on their acts: Johanne Ostine and her soulful version of 'Rockit'-the 'Bimbos,' jamming 'Ol'Chicago' with Troy Ferguson, Francios St. Andre, Luke Basso, Sal Blandino, Len Massa, and Paul Smith (second place)-Mary Magrath and Denise Terranova doin' the funky break- Patti Zambrano, Nayda Perez, and Kim Sescoco with their slapstick, 'Bubble gum'-'The Ethnics' who play 'Open Arms' and 'Never gonna Give you Up,' starring Dina, Tim, and Ron Benjamin- Fay Russel's dynamic dance from 'Madonna'-who will ever forget Charles Kropke's impression?-'Endless Love,' performed by Bumi Agifarin and accompanied by Ron on piano- first place went to the rockin' 'Double Trouble,' with breakers Mike Fagan and Peter Sandy groovin' to 'Pleasure of Love,' -Tim Dodges piano swung him into third place- Luke Basso can only play it one way on his trumpet and flugelhorn (kool)-

Lavonne Whitaker and her romantic presentation of 'Up Where We Belong;-psychedelic 'Joint Venture,' with Pat Picard, Len Massa, Dave Moscato and Bob Puccuci reviving 'Hey Joe'- and finally the 'Phil Piccard Project,' with Len Massa, Dave Moscato, and Pat Picard whaling 'Purple Haze!'

The Aikido Club wishes to thank all those who made it a possible success: Peggy Streck, Sr. Marcine, and Dr. Wanko (judges); Patricia Minnaugh, Joe Palmer, Mike Cavone, and those equally outlandish MC's- Jay Ahern and Jeff Leval.

Better luck next time to the runners up and some good advice for future contestants: get your act together!

State Attorney Janet Reno Speaks at Barry

by CHRIS BEAVER

Recently re-elected State Attorney, Janet Reno, spoke before a group of concerned citizens and members of the Barry Community on Wednesday November 14 about problems facing Dade County.

After praising Barry for being an integral part of the community, Ms. Reno stated that the first project on her agenda was the water supply. She would like to see immediate action taken to clean up the pollution plaguing the purity of our water.

Ms. Reno went on to say that the next challenge she wants to take on is preparing the citizens of Dade County in the event their should be a hurricane. She stated with concern, "Most people don't realize the importance of safety." There are plans to circulate more information on safety around the county.

Also high on her list of concerns, continued Ms. Reno, is crime. Even though incidents of crime have decreased, homicide down 49 percent, rape down 28 percent, and robbery down 29 percent, more needs to be done. Her suggestions for helping the decreases, which she stated, in crime to continue included the suggestion that Barry University and University of Miami form a group focusing on the prevention of crime.

The next topic Ms. Reno addressed was the welfare system. She stated that there were many young women defrauding the system trying to make ends meet. Ms. Reno said a possible answer was, "To motivate people to work." Along with motivation, job placement programs could make this program more efficient she went on to say.

Ms. Reno concluded her presentation expressing her sincere concern for the elderly of Dade County. She questioned, "who will care for them, who will be responsible for them?" She agreed there are no simple solutions, but that we should be concerned, we should care for the elderly.

Like to Party?

by Timothy Stout
Student Activities Editor

Student activities came to a climax this semester with various Christmas parties and dances. The spirit of the holiday season is upon us as we prepare to end a fine semester and welcome a New Year abound with entertaining liveliness.

On December 7, the Nursing Students Association held their festive Christmas dance in the Weber Social Hall.

The Mimic Theatre Company, under the direction of Marilyn Laudadio, presented 'The Mimic Zone' at the Broad Center of the Performing Arts on the 7th and 8th. Also on the 8th, the Jamaican Association of Florida in affiliation with Barry held their Dinner-Dance in the Thompson Hall dining room.

The Biology Department will hold a Christmas Plant sale from the 10th -12th in the Houndstooth. Also on the 12th, a 50 percent deposit is required by those planning to go to the Disney-Epcot trip January 18-20, 1985.

The Rathskeller Committee will hold a Christmas party at the 'Rat' on the 13th. Take note: the fiesta is on Wednesday, not Thursday.

The History Association will hold a bakesale in the Houndstooth on the 14th, and the SGA will hold their annual Christmas party that night in Thompson Hall.

Now, after all that partying, will you be ready for finals on the 17th -20th? We can spell relief with a Social Work Christmas party that afternoon at 4:15 p.m. in the Houndstooth! Above all, don't forget the party at 12 noon on the 22nd when residence Halls Close!!

The New Year and Spring Semesters '85 will include more free PACE concerts, a Rat Mock New Year's Eve party on the 16th of January, Disney-Epcot '85 and another ISO dance on the 25th. Also, the Creative Writing Club is sponsoring a creative writing contest, entry deadline is 12 noon on February 1, 1985. for further information contact: Dr. Lillian Schanfield-English Department, extension 532 or Box 114.

Best Wishes all the seasons of your lives, and we look forward to seeing you in 1985.

Attention BSN Class of 1985:
Why wait to start your nursing career?

AIR FORCE
A great way of life.

The Air force has a special program for 1985 BSN's. If selected, you can enter Air Force active duty soon after graduation—without waiting for the results of your State Boards.

To apply, you must have an overall "B" average and meet other basic officer entry requirements.

As a newly commissioned nurse, you'll attend a five-month internship at a major Air Force medical facility. It's an excellent way to prepare for the wide range of experiences you'll have serving your country as an Air Force nurse professional.

arise within us and those around us, are what Christmas is all about.

There are many things we can do this season for our family, our friends, and sometimes for those we don't know. If you take the time and think hard enough, maybe you can come up with something to do or give to someone special; and as a result I am sure that this Christmas holiday season will be all the more fulfilling.

Merry Christmas to all and Happy New Year. See you in January!

Wake Up! It's Sonny In The Morning!

by CHRIS BEAVER

Sonny Fox
Sonny In
The Morning
6AM - 10AM

It's Monday morning again. Yes, that day which follows Sunday and comes before Tuesday, and you just can't seem to wake up. The radio you think, some music to get your body moving. The indicator flips from station to station and stops at 100.7 on the FM dial. A deep voice states, "It's always Sonny in the morning," and you think you've just heard the end of the weather forecast.

Slowly your mind becomes coherent and you realize your listening to none other than Sonny Fox of Y-100. You and your more than 400,000 other South Floridians have tuned in for a dosage of morning maheim to start your Monday off with some energy.

For four hours each weekday morning, Sonny Fox mixes music and comedy for a blend which has earned the station top ratings, and him the award of Disc Jockey of the Year.

One would be led to believe because of his easy going attitude and ability to laugh at life, and the people in it, that Fox has had it "made in the shade." He will tell you though that it hasn't always been easy.

The road to becoming a successful D.J. began 16 years ago for Fox, back in his hometown of Grand Rapids, Michigan. It was here that Fox, (real name: James Warren Rowly III), landed a job at a local radio station after traveling on the road with a band. The band was his first music oriented endeavor, which he joined after dropping out of the tenth grade.

Between the band and the other disc jockey jobs which followed, Fox seemed to never stay in one place very long. He once summed up his constant moving to his mother saying, "Mom, it's like being on tour."

Before the "tour" which Fox landed here in South Florida, there was a marriage from which he has an 18 year old son, James. He is now divorced and jokingly sums up his thoughts about marriage simply as, "It wasn't fun."

Sonny Fox was first introduced to listeners in the Miami-Ft. Lauderdale area when he broadcasted the morning show at WSHE-FM 103.5. Joining WSHE-FM Fox stayed on until early 1983 when he was hired by Y-100 to replace Bill Tanner, who had previously done the morning show.

The transaction went well for Fox and Y-100. The station's ratings rose and its audience grew, which is quite an accomplishment in a market crowded with more than 40 other stations.

Though Sonny Fox is not the only person responsible for the popularity of WHYI-100.7 FM, he certainly is a distinctive force in keeping it number one in South Florida. Fox states candidly, "They (management) let me be myself. I'm not told to speak louder or clearer or to pronounce my words. I laugh and mumble and the listeners like it."

When Fox is put to the question of how long he thinks he will stay doing the morning show at Y-100 he replies, "I don't see myself doing it forever. I'll probably keep it up for a few years longer." Fox continues, "This is a great job, with good pay and good hours. I'm comfortable right now and have no plans for any change."

Missing In Action (PG)

Chuck Norris fans will be disappointed... yes, he's back, this time as an ex-soldier who goes back to Vietnam in search for soldiers believed to be in prison camp. Not one of his better films, there is no karate action, but Norris manages to kill quite a few people. The only suspense that builds up is around the middle of the movie and, maybe in the last few minutes of the flick. Chuck Norris does not speak too much throughout the movie, but when he does, his dialogue is awesome. I rate this movie with ★★

Falling in Love (PG)

This romance film starring Robert DeNiro and Meryl Streep is a typical love story between two ordinary people who met by bumping into each other in a bookstore and soon discover they ride on the same train every day. The love grows except, the plot is so boring that if it weren't for the superb acting of DeNiro and Streep, the movie would be a flop. I rate this movie ★★

Soccer Honors

Barry University's brand-spanking new athletic program has received its first national honors recognition in the selection of women's soccer co-captain Traci Shield as a member of the Second Team-All South Region. This selection was announced by the National Soccer Coaches Association.

The 19-year old Shields started all 14 games on the Lady Buccaneers' first-year schedule which ended with an impressive 7-6-1 record, including victories over Indiana University, George Washington, Florida International and Rollins College.

Shields is a native of Englewood, New Jersey. She graduated from Brick Memorial High School in Bricktown. There, she lettered in track, softball, gymnastics, volleyball and soccer. In her prep years, she was chosen All-County, All-Shore, All-

Conference and MVP her junior and senior years.

Said Coach Mike Covone on learning of the selection, "Traci is a national calibre player and we're pleased to have her with us. Her quickness and ability to anticipate defenses is a finely tuned skill. She is an exceptional athlete and an excellent student."

Shields is a sophomore at Barry and is a pre-law student.

Kaepa Launches Florida Marketing Campaign with Advertising, In-Store Promotions, Press Conference and Media Reception

A revolutionary sports shoe, accidentally invented by an ex-Catholic priest playing tennis, was introduced into the Miami and Ft. Lauderdale marketplace with a major press conference and media reception.

The success story behind Kaepa athletic shoes, which feature a patented, two-lace-split-vamp design, was told by Tom Adams, inventor of Kaepa shoes and president of the company. He detailed how he turned a broken shoelace into a multi-million dollar company.

Kaepa is launching its shoes in Florida with a concentrated marketing campaign that includes radio and print advertising, in-store promotions and the press conference.

Kaepa is working closely with area Athlete's Foot stores, operated by Armel Inc., to make outlets "Kaepa Headquarters Stores" for several weeks. This includes clinics with employees to make them familiar with the advantages of Kaepa's patented, custom fit and with the four different ways to lace each Kaepa shoe to ensure snug fit. The employees also will wear Kaepa T-shirts and the stores will feature prominent displays of Kaepa products.

Adams accidentally discovered the two-lace idea in 1962 when his shoelace snapped in the middle of a tennis match. Instead of tying the lace back together, Adams replaced each part into the shoe and tied them separately. The alteration gave Adams a better fit and more control in his tennis game. Later, Adams further developed the idea by cutting the shoe uppers (creating a split vamp) and lacing them separately.

In 1970, Adams received a patent on his two-lace-split vamp shoe and proceeded to form his own company, Kaepa (pronounced KAY-pa), to manufacture the unique shoes. Kaepa manufactures a full line of athletic footwear for men and women. There are specific shoes for tennis, running, basketball and aerobics, as well as all-turf shoes for football, baseball, softball and other field sports. An indoor-court shoe has been designed for racquetball, volleyball, handball and other sports.

While Kaepa's expansion into Florida is new, the product has previously been launched successfully with similar campaigns in San Antonio, Atlanta, Dallas, Houston, Tulsa, Oklahoma City, Denver, Kansas City, Phoenix, Tucson, San Diego, Los Angeles, Sacramento, San Francisco, and Minneapolis-St. Paul.

"We are slowly and carefully introducing Kaepa into the sun belt and select northern markets, as we expand nationally," said Bill Monroe, Kaepa's executive vice president. "Kaepa's flagship is our tennis shoe which has been the best-selling tennis shoe in Texas for several years. We are pushing into Florida now because we recognize the area's importance in year-round sports fitness."

A great deal of emphasis has been placed on the emergence of our sports program here at Barry. It has been the subject of countless articles, announcements and celebrations. All this enthusiasm could be mistakenly called spirit, that is until you see where it is coming from.

For three years I have been hearing how Barry isn't a real University because it is so boring, there is nothing to do and yes, the ever popular "there aren't ever sports here." Well now, we have sports! However, sporting events go by practically unnoticed. The soccer and cross country teams just ended winning seasons, did anyone notice? While talking to one of the members of our basketball team he mentioned how in their last game (Miami Christian, which they won), there were only 20 people cheering for our team.

I understand that this is the first year the sports program has been in existence, and that all things take time. However, what I do not understand is where are those who complained before? If people would stop complaining and channel all that wasted energy into something productive like attending games, life at Barry would be much more interesting. A little interest could grow to be a great interest and who knows a "Buccaneer Growl" may not be far away.

Tennis anyone?

by Ana Mollinedo

Tennis anyone?! This fall, along with the beginning of track, baseball, and soccer, the Barry tennis team makes its debut as well. Sister Mary Alice, coach of the women's team, sees tennis as an automatic sport to have chosen as part of the athletic program. "Picking tennis was a natural because of the existing courts, the local talent, and the popularity of the sport in Florida."

On the men's side of the court, a new addition to the athletic staff is Andrew Traves, men's tennis coach. Coach Traves has been involved in coaching tennis for twelve years on and off with Dade County Public Schools. On the whole, he's been involved in the sport of tennis for twenty four years. Both Coach Traves and Sister Mary Alice agree on one thing---the students on both the male and female tennis teams demonstrate good team spirit and are willing to put forth the effort needed to build a competitive tennis team.

"The future is really bright for tennis. The administration and athletic department have helped a great deal and the quality of students at Barry is a joy to work with," says Coach Traves. The setting is a tremendous incentive for tennis players and students in general. Academically, Barry is excellent, all these things can foster a good quality tennis program." Among colleges and universities that both male and female teams will be competing against are St. Thomas of Villanova, FAU, FIU, College of Boca Raton, and Eckerd with exhibition matches at Miami-Dade North and Broward Community College.

Both the men's and the women's teams are off to the right start---exercise, practice, good coaches and a love for the game. But, like any other new program, only time will tell how Barry stands up to its competitors.

Barry Baseball is Ready to Make a Hit

by Angie Smith

The latest addition to Barry University's fast growing sports program is a very promising baseball team. Under the direction of former Florida Atlantic coach, Bruce Barclay, the Barry Buccaneer's are ready to make a hit!!!

I'm really looking forward to our first season," said coach Barclay. "The student body will enjoy watching some good baseball."

The Buccaneer's first season looks very promising due to the abundance of talent and enthusiasm. In addition, players such as shortstop-third baseman Bill Golemee, pitcher Dan Wheeler, and first baseman Greg holder, bring with them the experience of playing on the junior college level. Coach Barclay agrees that the junior college experience is one of the strengths on his team. However, there do exist a few weaknesses in the areas of pitching, outfield and in the overall depth of the team. Looking ahead at their schedule, it appears that this team is headed for a hectic season.

"The schedule is tough, but we knew it would be hard to handle when we began," said shortstop Brent Barclay.

"When the season begins, we'll have to work much harder on our school work," adds catcher Lazaro Acosta. "It's going to be tough both mentally and physically, but I'm sure we can handle it." Under the watchful eye of Sister Mary Alice Murnen, the players must maintain a 2.0 GPA and carry 12 credit hours to be eligible to play. With approximately 50 games in 3½ months it would seem a lot to handle. However according to coach Barclay, it is not unique for a team to have a 50 game season.

It is evident that this will be a year of adjustments for both players and coaches. It is also evident that this is the year that the Barry Buccaneers must make a name for themselves in the college circuit. Considering the talent, experience and enthusiasm on this team, the future looks very bright.

Founder's Day

by PATI HENSLEY

What is Founder's Day? Many people found themselves asking this question throughout the second week of November. This question was readily answered that Friday afternoon when Thompson Hall came alive with a birthday celebration for Barry; complete with cake, candles, and punch! Obvious by now, Founder's Day is the day set aside to celebrate the founding of Barry University. Also, it represents the closing of Barry's successful, year-long campaign.

Founder's Day this year began, on Friday (November 16) with an anniversary Mass at noon. At 12:30 p.m. students and faculty came alive with the traditional birthday spirit as they helped polish off the delicious Spanish birthday cake. Succeeding was the meeting of the Barry University Board of Trustees in the New Andreas Building. Later in the evening was the annual Founder's Day Dance sponsored by the students. The festivities continued over into Saturday with a barbecue dinner and country jamboree provided by Frank Hubbell Dixieland Quartet in the courtyard of the Andreas School of Business Building.

This year's Founder's Day represented Barry's 44th birthday. In September of 1940, Barry College, the first college in Florida for Catholic women, opened its doors to 45 students; 40 full-time and 5 part-time, all women, all undergraduates. There were 14 faculty; 11 Dominican priests, and 2 lay persons.

In that inaugural year of Barry, tuition and fees were $250 a year; board and room ranged between $500 and $600 a year, and the entire student body consisted of Catholic women.

How times have changed. This year enrollment at Barry has reached a new high, totalling more than 3,900 students. The undergraduate student body has also reached an all time high of 1,032 students. Even more, Barry College is no longer a college; now it is a full-fledged university with a co-ed student body!

What would the Most Reverend Bishop Patrick

Barry, D.D., of St. Augustine (for whom Barry University was named) say of the school if he were alive today? Although he wanted to have a college for Catholic women in South Florida, his primary goal was to "provide a learning environment which challenges its students to accept intellectual, personal, ethical, spiritual and social responsibilities." The growth of Barry University over the years is testimony that it is fulfilling its goals. I'm sure Bishop Barry would be proud of the achievements Barry University has made.

Study: Many college classes cause too much student stress

BATON ROUGE, LA (CPS)—

College classes can give students harmful doses of stress and pressure, according to a new University of Utah study.

In many college classes "there is an overemphasis of grades" and other academic requirements that put "unnecessary" pressure on students, says David Spendlove, one of three Utah medical instructors who conducted the study of professional, graduate and undergraduate students here.

Withholding grades and test scores, publicly posting grades, and not clearly defining what kind of performance is expected of students create needlessly high levels of anxiety among students, the study reports.

"A lot of time it seems like teachers enjoy hiding things from students, trying to make it as difficult as possible for them to learn," Spendlove says.

"This is not teaching. It's just hurting the students," he adds.

"Many students have stress because they feel they have no control over their academic lives," says study co-author Claire Clark.

Stress, she adds, "is a discomforting response of a person in a particular situation."

"Not all stress is negative," Clark says. In fact, "the right amount of stress is positive because it is motivating."

But too much stress can damage students' learning abilities, she adds, causing them to become confused, frustrated and out of touch with their schoolwork.

Frequently, stressed-out students overstudy or study minute details, missing the "big picture" of a class, the study says.

But good instructors, the researchers note, can eliminate much of the excess stress that plagues students.

"For one thing teachers should emphasize excitement about a subject rather than competition," says Spendlove. "Excitement is much more rewarding."

Instructors also should mingle with their students, and get to know them as people, he says.

"By socializing with students," Spendlove explains, "faculty make themselves more approachable, more human."

And instructors should encourage students to socialize with each other, too, by allowing advanced students to tutor beginners, the study suggests.

Students also should know early in the class what is expected of them, the study says.

Clark adds it is vital for instructors to give feedback to students so they have some idea of their performance level.

Abortion Battles Erupt

BATON ROUGE, LA (CPS)—Charging violation of first amendment rights, the Louisiana State University student newspaper, "The Daily Reveille," is suing LSU for banning all abortion and pregnancy-related advertising from school publications.

The charge is the most serious of a number of recent incidents as pro-and anti-abortion forces square off on campuses nationwide.

At Villanova University in Pennsylvania, the Catholic university's administrators ordered the campus newspaper editor to pull an ad offering birth control information.

At California's Oxnard Community College, the "Campus Observer" staff and faculty advisor were bombarded with protests from students and faculty for accepting a pro-life political advertisement in the weeks before the Nov. 6 election.

And Eastern Washington University students were unpleasantly surprised recently when unappetizing anti-abortion flyers appeared on cafeteria tables.

The LSU ban stems from a business officer's question about the suitability of "pregnancy-related" advertisements contracted by an independent ad agency to appear in a student directory.

"The complaint raised the question, 'Do we want to advertise for abortion?'" explains LSU Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs L.L. Pesson.

"We talked to the student health director and determined the ads were not in the best interests of the students," he says. "The director felt it best to send students to the clinic first for advice and help, then if necessary, point them in the right direction for an abortion clinic."

But Reveille editor Dane Strother argues including the newspaper in the campus-wide ban violates the paper's first amendment rights to determine its own advertising policy.

"The editor and ad manager should be responsible for all advertising," he says. "It's not a pro-life or pro-choice issue. The administration is limiting the students' right to information."

"The administration should allow such freedom of expression," agrees Villanova editor Joseph Marusak.

The week following Villanova's ban, Marusak wrote an editorial accusing the administration of censorship and of suppressing "opposing views because it feels it's own may in some fantastical way be damaged."

Villanovan faculty advisor June Lytel countered the accusations in the same edition saying, "I knew the ad was against the teachings of Villanova and the Catholic Church, and I knew the trouble it would cause if it ran."

Villanova students seem unconcerned about the ban, Marusak notes.

The paper received two letters supporting the editor's position, and two supporting the ban.

At Oxnard College, however, too much reaction to a graphic pro-life ad in the "Campus Observer" prompted faculty advisor Gary Morgan's editorial defending the paper's responsibility to uphold the pro-lifers' free speech right.

Students and faculty members labeled the ad "in poor taste" and "factually inaccurate" and questioned the staff's judgment in accepting the it.

Morgan admitted the ad was "definitely graphic" and the paper did not endorse it, but the Campus Observer does "believe in the precepts of the First Amendment and cannot deny access so long as advertisers adhere to its advertising code."

Eastern Washington U. students objected as well when graphic pro-life flyers appeared on cafeteria tables last month.

The flyers advertised an anti-abortion film scheduled for campus showing and sponsored by Kampus Sunshine Ministries.

Dining service manager Liane Smith had not approved the flyers, although she had approved previous ministry leaf-letting.

While the Oxnard and Ewu advertisements stirred little lasting controversy, the LSU and Villanova episodes still fester.

LSU and the Reveille will meet in federal court on December 5th.

And, while editor Strother hopes to settle out of court

Outstanding campus leaders

The 1985 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges will include the names of 19 students from Barry University who have been selected as national outstanding campus leaders.

The Barry honors nominating committee and editors of the annual directory have included the names of these students based on their academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and potential for continued success.

They join an elite group of students selected from more than 1,500 institutions of higher learning in all 50 states, the District of Columbia and several foreign nations.

Outstanding students have been honored in the annual directory since it was first published in 1934.

Students named this year from Barry University are:

Daniel Scott Bennett, Biological & Bio-Medical Sciences, Biology Major; Andrea Bertolini, School of Business, Marketing; Maria Mercedes Bermudez, School of Business, Economics/Finance; Dora Blanco, School of Business, double major, Accounting, Economics/Finance; Kenneth Blanco, School of Business, Economics/Finance; Michel Bourque, Biological & Bio-Medical Sciences, Biology; Pamela Ellis, School of Education, Exceptional Childhood Education; Aimee Ferrer, Arts & Sciences, Communication; Dulce Maria Garcia, Arts & Sciences, Spanish; Frank Ledee, School of Business, Management; Cathy Terese McNally, School of Nursing, Nursing; Linda T. salad bar, how could we forget our daily vegetables?? (Oh, fate worse than death; though in this case maybe not.) Oh, but look, how sad!! The lettuce died and no one bothered to give it a decent Christian burial. But don't mourn, like the cake, the lettuce will be back to see another day, and another, and another, and another...

Having quickly eaten your meal before it bites you back, you then fight your way back through the line to collect your daily sunshine (technical term for orange juice). However, be warned, don't spill any of that stuff on your nails, especially if you are female, because it will strip the nail polish off your nails more effectively than industrial strength nail polish remover, and it will probably take your nails with it.

So, having finished another session in the barfeteria, oops sorry, slip of tongue, I really meant to say cafeteria. Anyway, to continue, then you carefully go down the stairs to your class for which you are only 20 minutes late; but admit it, don't you feel GOOD!?!?

Employment Opportunities

Offering a number of part-time employment opportunities while continuing to improve its client services, American Savings and Loan Association of Florida is taking a new direction in staffing its branches.

Until recently, American Savings had virtually no part-time employees. Now, however, part-time persons represent 40 percent of the savings and loan's staff.

"Our new employment strategy will assist in having the proper number of employees at each branch during crucial times of the day," said Wayne Blikre, vice president, Human Resources. "We are most interested in college students and housewives seeking challenging ways to generate additional income while gaining experience in a professional setting."

The positions, primarily tellers and savings counselors, are available throughout Dade, Broward and Palm Beach counties. All of the positions pay $6.00 an hour with a maximum of 19 hours per week. Both morning and afternoon shifts are being offered with flexible schedules available.

More than half of the 190 new part-time positions at American Savings have been filled since being offered in early October.

American Savings is the largest state-chartered savings and loan association in Florida with assets exceeding $4.0 billion. It conducts operations through 48 full-service offices in Florida and seven loan production offices in Florida and Georgia. American Savings common and preferred stock are listed for trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The center for Student and Career Development, located in Thompson 208, lists many part-time jobs and full-time career positions, in addition to those described above. Help with interviewing skills and resume writing is also available.

School of Business. Except for a few minor rearrangements of class locations, the new building stands according to Dean House's plans. The building consists of thirty-eight faculty offices, ten classrooms, and two MBA or multi-purpose auditoriums.

"Few schools have as nice administrative quarters as we have," stresses Dean House. He later added, "I would not mind being quoted as saying that Barry University has some of the finest faculty members I've worked with. They genuinely care about the students."

Having been on a tour of the Andreas Building, one can see why Dean House and his staff feel the building is "fantastic" and are proud of the new addition to the campus.

The spacious faculty offices and the large administrative section create a more ample and pleasant working area for the staff; and the classrooms and student lounge create a better study environment for the students.

10 On The Road Again

By SUSAN SKORUPA
DENVER, CO. (CPS)—Snugly ensconced in an elegant downtown Denver hotel room Lisa Birnbach, road-weary and fidgety, devours equal doses of ice-blue throat lozenges and Vantage cigarettes.

Her new perm has failed, and the cold she's fighting is winning. But while this promotional tour for her new book, "The College Book," is taking a toll, Birnbach is resolutely cheerful and outspoken.

Birnbach has been on the road for much of the past four years, first promoting her 1981 best-seller, "The Preppie Handbook," then researching and promoting "The College Book" released this September.

In the last three years, she has run an exhausting gauntlet, exploring nearly 300 campuses in 50 states for the book.

The results are reviews of 186 schools' programs, environments and student populations, interspersed with charts, graphs, quizzes and essays designed to help students weather the storms of higher education.

While college officials from California to Florida are attacking "The College Book" as a "sloppy, inaccurate piece of work" and calling it "frivolous and silly," the author this month started a national tour of schools to promote it.

Even the schools dismissing her work as sloppy and abysmal are inviting her back, anticipating an updated edition in 1985.

Birnbach, for example, last week handily charmed an audience at Indiana University of Pennsylvania, which she'd condemned in her book as home of the ugliest male students in America.

"A lot of schools that aren't happy with what I wrote are assailing my research techniques and condemning the book," Birnbach admits. "But I have not been disinvited, uninvited or condemned to the point where they don't want me back."

"I think the book tiptoes a fine line between being informative and amusing," she contends. "It's a fun book and should be read as a fun book. But there are some serious points."

"Everything in terms of values is so different," she sighs. "Money is the biggest factor in the lives of American college students right now. In the seventies, when I attended college, a great job was to work at PBS in Boston. Now, a great job is simply something that pays $24,000 upon graduation."

But a certain amount of direction is good. Birnbach concedes. "It's better than no direction, which is what a lot of us had in the sixties and seventies."

The idea for the book came to her while on a campus lecture tour for "The Preppie Handbook."

"I wrote an article for 'Rolling Stone' about the mood on campuses in the 1980s" she explains. "It seemed like a natural move for me to write the book since I was going to campuses anyway."

Birnbach applied formally to schools on her list, approaching each through official channels and requesting time to conduct her research.

Only one school, Washington and Jefferson College in Pennsylvania, refused her request.

Birnbach's critics claim she wasn't on any campus long enough to write credible reviews. Others are angered by her pronouncements.

Her claim that the Iowa State campus is "fraught with sameness" and "filled with students who look alike" drew howls of protest from ISU administrators who conclude the book is "probably filled with inaccuracies and possibly slanders."

Florida State University officials claim Birnbach's FSU review listed inaccurate SAT scores, misspelled a residence hall name and named a "famous murderer" as a alum when he had never attended the school.

A Franklin and Marshall University spokesman says "The factual errors are just appalling, bad enough to call into question the thoroughness of her research and her credibility."

"I wasn't there to trash the school," Birnbach asserts. "It was there to find out what was good about it and what it felt like."

While the University of Hawaii has the best beach, it also offers the worst food.

The U. of Wyoming's "highest campus in elevation" award compliments its top ranking in the "most serious drinkers" and "best party school" categories.

Other notable accolades went to Boston U., most promiscuous; Oral Roberts University, least promiscuous; Ohio State, worst bureaucracy, and Cal Tech, worst hygiene.

Besides visiting each campus, Birnbach waded through 5000 nine-page student questionnaires, some with typed addenda of student's opinions about their schools.

Birnbach hopes her campus lecture tour, which began at her alma mater, Brown University, will help her judge the effects of "The College Book."

But the book won't repeat the runaway bestseller success of "The Preppie handbook." Birnbach believes. "It's not possible. It's a much different audience."

before then, LSU's Pesson says, "the university has no inclination to settle out of court."

"We don't see it as a first amendment question," he adds. "We'd like to determine the constitutionality of the question. We assume the university has the right to accept or reject ads."

At Villanova a scheduled hearing on editor Marusak's refusal to pull the birth control ad has yet to materialize.

Marusak says the administration probably prefers to let the matter slide.

The Villanovan staff probably will encounter the same administrative ban for any future controversial advertisement, Marusak predicts.

"But," he adds, "if that ad came across my desk today, I'd run it."

Puzzle Answer

American Heart Association of Greater Miami, Inc.

Exercise

The Heart Association has funded the building of 19 "Heart Trails" (complete physical fitness trails) that are used extensively throughout Dade and Monroe Counties.

In addition, several of the Heart Association's fund raising special events focused on various forms of exercise. These included the Jump Rope for Heart, Nurses' Heart Classic, Firemen's Run for Heart, and the Heart Cup Tennis Tournament.

Community Education

Tens of thousands of local residents were treated to the "Health is a Family Affair" exhibit, presented by the Heart Association at the Dade County Youth Fair this year. For 10 days, crowds gathered around the hands-on exhibit — proving that "heart-health" was a popular subject.

A three day "Do-It-Yourself" Expo was also presented this year by the Heart Association and Lindsley Stores, Inc. The Coconut Grove Exhibition Center set the scene for several thousand people to witness virtually "everything" that the Heart Association has to offer the community.

The newsletter ("Young At Heart") was created for parents of children with heart disease, to help them understand the problems facing them. A slide-tape presentation was developed by students, for students, on the subject of heart disease in the young.

Stroke

Stroke professionals were kept informed on the latest resources available for stroke victims and their families this year. New materials were also developed for stroke victims of various minority groups.

Eight stroke clubs continue to operate in Dade and Monroe Counties, both in English and Spanish.

MAYBE IT'S NOT JUST YOUR NERVES

Reactions to a large intake of caffeine can produce symptoms of anxiety and in some cases lead to depression or exhaustion. Individual caffeine sensitivity varies. In some people as little as 250 milligrams daily can cause symptoms.

Caffeine Counter
Coffee - (drip or percolator)
100 - 150 mg per cup
Coffee (instant) 60 - 70 mg per cup
Tea 50 mg per cup
Soft Drinks 45 - 65 per can
No Doz or Vivarin 100 - 200 mg per tablet

So beware, if you're using large amounts of over-the-counter caffeine tablets and drinking large amounts of caffeine-containing beverages to stay awake and study. The alertness you're seeking may turn into acute anxiety and restlessness when the time comes for the exam.

BRAIN FOGGERS

A professor of alcohol studies at the University of California School of Medicine believes even social drinking (two or three drinks, four times a week by one estimate), may adversely affect the way we perform, while sober, in a variety of cognitive processes, including memory. One possible reason: Alcohol's effects can cause premature aging of the brain. In one study performed, he found that even young people (ages 21 - 30) suffered some cognitive loss.

Researchers at the University of Iowa Health Center gave college students Valium for three weeks. They measured the student's ability to remember. Valium zapped their memories and they bounced back to pre-Valium memory levels only after they went off the drug.

Smoking also is a memory aggravator because it may impair blood supply to the brain. A Scottish researcher found that chronic smokers are more likely to forget people's names than non-smokers.

HOW BAD IS FAST FOOD OR

DOES JUNK FOOD DESERVE THE RAP?

by Connie Grady R.N.

Contrary to its name, "junk" food does contain nutrients. Fast food is high in protein and rich in iron and calcium. However, a steady diet of fast food results in a poorly nourished body. The main drawbacks are:

Low in fiber and vitamins A & C.

Low in nutritional density. You have to eat more calories to obtain adequate nutrition.

More than 1-2 of the calories come from fat.

High in sodium - a single meal of fast food may provide as much as 3,000 milligrams of sodium -- the recommended maximum daily intake.

High in sugar -- usually include a beverage such as a soda or a milkshake.

BARRY UNIVERSITY WEIGH-DOWN

Join our 7-week program to lose 7 pounds. The official count down period is January 16th through March 6th. Participants will contribute $5.00 and the weight loss "pot" will be split equally among the qualifying "survivors". The program is open to students, staff and faculty. Registration on or before January 16th. Please call the University Health Center for additional information.

FEED A COLD-STARVE A FEVER

This old "wives tale" has haunted us for generations. But now, many nutrition experts are recommending we take Grandma's advice with a grain of salt. Feeding a cold the wrong foods can do more harm than good. And starving a fever during prolonged infections might extend the illness and delay recovery.

It seems the body knows best. When faced with infection, our appetite plunges at the very moment our nutritional stores are being depleted. The body is actually playing a clever game, hiding nutrients from invading organisms, literally starving them into submission. So the best advice may be to let your appetite be your guide -- up to a point.
