Vol. 48 No. 8

April 14, 1989

Your last edition of Barry Buccaneer ?

This is the eighth edition in the 48 volume of the Barry school newspaper - it may also be the last.

"It's been a long year, hard but productive," said Kendra-Ann Khelawan, editor of the Barry Buccaneer. "The paper has seen a turn-around. We've grown from a sporadic newsletter to a monthly publication with a circulation of about two thousand.

Influential Medium

"I think we have shown that the paper can be an influential medium in all aspects of life at Barry. .. It's been great, lots of fun, lots of hard work, but I'm not doing it all by myself," said Khelawan.

Three of the five member team of the Buccaneer will either be graduating or leaving Barry this semester. Presently there is only one replacement for the team and student participation has not been increasing. "If I do not get more help from faculty and students I will discontinue my service as editor," said Khelawan. Should such action be taken there will no longer be a Barry Buccaneer or Student newspaper.

Crucial Element

"It is a shame to see all the work that I've put into the paper just tossed aside," Khelawan continued.

Khelawan is presently working with the faculty and administration to obtain more professional help and increase the budget for the paper, but the active implementation of her plans requires one crucial element that faculty and administration cannot give her - students.

Forum

The Buc is a school newspaper, especially geared towards the students. It is a forum through which grievances may be aired, problems may be rectified, people may be recognized, experience may be gathered, information may be exchanged, Khelawan explained.

"But the Buc is not my newspaper," Khelawan said, "it belongs to the entire Barry community and only your contributions can make the difference."

Opportunities

"The newspaper can become a force to reckon with, it can bring about changes and improvements, that has already been proven this semester. But it needs the students support to continue, without that there can't be a student newspaper," said Stephanie Saraco, layout artist for the paper.

The opportunities that working on a school newspaper offer are very diverse. Not only can one get writing experience, improve communication skills, learn to be responsible, management, advertising, improve english skills, amass knowledge, do public relations, attend seminars and conferences, network, learn how to use publishing systems, most of all you can get to know people and have lots of fun. Newspaper experience or any printed article, in whatever your field may be, will always be an asset to your resume and portfolio respectively.

Make a Difference

"I'm not into begging. I have improved the standard and the voice of the Barry Buccaneer but increased participation from the students is what will make the difference now. The apathetic nature that most students seem to take these days will not get them far in the real world. Stop complaining and start acting," said Khelawan. "You can make this the last edition of the Buc. Or the first of a very influential medium at Barry."

Barry student one of Florida's Top Ten

by Michelle Fulton

A competitive university environment is a challenge for any student who wishes to succeed and excel during his or her four years of study. For many students, simply maintaining a decent GPA is hard enough.

There are a few students, however, who rise to the top in the college arena - those who desire more than just an education and a degree. These students are involved in campus activities, are pursuing a future profession and are the rousing force of a change on college campuses.

Adam Holzman is one of these exceptional students.

Holzman, a junior elementary education major was recently recognized in Tallahassee as one of Florida's outstanding college students of the year.

Confident

"I was really impressed with Adam, he is very confident .. really one of the best students in the state," said Butch Oxendine, publisher of Florida Leader, host of the contest.

The Florida Leader Magazine, distributed to college and university campuses all over Florida sponsors a yearly "Student of the Year" Contest. Adam Holzman was one of the seven finalist for this prestigious honor.

During his three years at Barry, Adam has distinguished himself as the first male vice-president of Barry's Education Association, as a founder of the Honors Students Association and as a Resident Advisor on campus. Adam is also a member of the Florida Student Leaders Association of Teachers Educators and has recently been chosen as editor for the National Honors Report.

Honor

"Very few people achieve such a high honor," said Shellye Grant, a junior accounting major and Holzman's co-worker. "Working with Adam as a resident advisor, I know he's worked very hard to accomplish his goals."

In his free time, Adam dedicates himself to community service projects and opportunities within his future field. Adam's desire to become a teacher permeates his involvement in the community as a student teacher, a camp counselor and a tutor in the Barry Cares tutoring program.

"One must admire Adam for his noble goals, not many young men aspire to be teachers," said Oxendine.

Outstanding Achievement

"I'm helping to shape the kids who are going to be running the country when I'm too old to," said Adam. "As a teacher, I have the ability to touch future generations with knowledge."

Holzman's recognition as one of Florida's top university students is an outstanding achievement and honor for Adam, as well as for Barry University.

Women's Studies - new minor

Barry University is now offering a minor in Women's Studies - an interdisciplinary program that explores the female experience by integrating biological, historical, literary, religious, political, economic, sociological, psychological and cultural perspectives of gender.

The program provides students with the opportunity to take a minor in Women's Studies, to earn a Certificate in Women's Studies, or to take an individual course for personal enrichment.

Gender Issues

Study in this inter-disciplinary field promotes understanding of "women's issues" as "gender issues." These issues are important for both males and females, especially in the challenge to stereotypes of both. Study in this field prepares individuals for concerns arising from their gender in modern society.

The course covers a wide range of topics, including women and literature, women in the workplace, historical perspective of women and an integrative seminar which requires a research paper or integrating experience.

Hunger Clean up '89 was a success

Requirements

The certificate Program requires a minimum of 18 credits. It is open to individuals who may not currently be students but who have at least 30 university credits or to individuals qualified by some other criterion to participate. The certificate program may appeal to individuals who hold Bachelor's degrees and who wish additional specialization.

"Don't be the next victim!" That was the theme of a program recently presented in Thompson Hall by "Citizens Against Crime". The program was sponsored by Barry's Security Committee. Marcia Butland, from the Citizens Against Crime organization, spoke to the students.

The most important tips to keep you safe around your car included:

- keep your keys in hand when walking to your car.
- check under your car before unlocking it, and check in the back seat
- always keep a "Call Police" sign in your glove compartment. Display the sign in your rear window in case of emergency.

Confrontation

Ms. Butland also included a visual presentation on what you should do if confronted. These consisted of:

- scream and yell "fire" instead of help or rape. "Fire" attracts more attention.
- try to put distance between you and the criminal.
- ask the criminal what he wants and, if he wants money or jewelry, give it to him.

Ms. Butland advised not to attempt to hit, kick or bite your attacker unless you can totally incapacitate him. As a last resort, two methods can be used. One involves putting your index fingers above each of his ears and pushing out his eyes with your thumbs. The other could be used as a last resort with a rapist - when he exposes himself, reach down, grab a hold of his testicles and jerk down as hard as possible.

Crucial

Marcia Butland also advocated the use of a dependable tear gas spray. The organization sells these, as well as other safety-oriented items. For more information call Citizens Against Crime at 949-4244.

Keep in mind that the most crucial aspect of crime prevention does not involve a weapon or special skill. It lies in staying alert and aware.

Club honors active members

The International Students Organisation recently hosted its first annual Awards Night. The gala affair, held in the Kostka room, offered a chance for club officials to recognize students who have shown outstanding participation in the club's activities.

There was a hush in the room, where 50 International Students Organisation members and faculty waited patiently for the awards ceremony to begin. Sister Margaret Mary McGill, the club's faculty advisor, opened the program by welcoming all with an invocation.

Scholarships

This was the night I.S.O would pay tribute to outstanding members who had given their time and effort to aid the rejuvenation of the club during the past 1988-89 academic year.

Three bookscholarships were awarded to students who have shown exceptional interest in the club. Recipients were Katherine Marley, Nigel Baptiste and Vanessa Lightbourn. Several other members were given Certificates of Appreciation and honorable mention.

All present had the esthetic pleasure of listening to Dahalia Brotherton sing and remind us of what brotherly love is. As well as being informed about International Studies by guest speaker, Dr. Gilbert Raiford, whose talk was very interesting and entertaining with a serious undertone. Thank you both for helping to make the ceremony the success it was.

1988-89 president Wendy Ebanks, gave her outgoing speech, thanking those who had made the past year a successful one and ushered in the new officers.

Many thanks must also be given to Staci-Ann Patrick, mistress of ceremony and all those who helped prepare the food and Kostka room.

Recycling drive collects 4000 pounds of paper

The Barry Buccaneer is proud to announce that over 4000 pounds of newspaper was recycled during the newspaper collection drive, from February 15 to April 15, in which all proceeds were donated to the Hunger Clean Up.

Proud

"I am really proud of this community," said Kendra-Ann Khelawan, editor of the Barry Buccaneer. "We've worked hard to raise the consciousness of the student body to the issues of hunger, as well as environmental concerns, such as the depletion of the ozone layer and shortage of trees. I thank everyone for their enthusiastic participation in our drive," Khelawan said.

Students, faculty and staff are asked not to put any more paper where collection boxes used to be.

T&T Day proceeds to benefit the disabled

The inviting aroma of curry, and roti attracted several Barry students during the recent Trinidad and Tobago Day, hosted by the Trinidad and Tobago Club.

The event was the first annual Trinidad and Tobago Day held on campus. "The day was enjoyable," commented one student, "not only was I able to enjoy some roti but I president Kendra-Ann Khelawan.

The day wasn't just soca and roti, posters depicting different aspects of the culture - carnival, soca, calypso - nature, festivals, flora, heroes etc. dotted the walls of the student union. Soca rhythms infected many who passed by and videos of Trinidad and Tobago portrayed some of our natural beauties.

Tickets to Trinidad

"The ambience was Trinidadian, the food was great and the displays were interesting," said Frank Sullivan a senior and communications major. Frank had one lament, "I wish I had won the two tickets to Trinidad."

Tickets for two for Trinidad, courtesy BWIA were won by Frank Ledee. A hamper of local products was won by Mr. John Beaubrun as a second prize.

The other highlight of the day was the steelpan, many awed at the melody from the commonly heralded "garbage pan" and one student refused to leave until club president, Kendra-Ann played for him. Amazed he said, now its not a garbage can, it's a musical instrument."

Proceeds

"I think the day was a good peak at

Teresa Farrell, Debbie Bennett, Kris Mowery, Marc Diamente, Wandalyn Ford all ready to hit the deck.

Trinidad and Tobago, ... We need to make this an annual event," said John Beaubrun faculty advisor for the club. "I commend the efforts of the club it was a job well done."

Proceeds from the days events will benefit one of the homes for the retarded in Trinidad.

Plans for next year's T&T Day include a steelband side, a "made in Trinidad and Tobago" display and a roti sale.

learned alot about Trinidad," said Celene Celand of Belize.

"We wanted to show people and share with them some aspects of our culture.. Our independence - we are not part of Jamiaca and we do not swing from trees," said club

Spanish spoken here

Dear Editor,

I am writing in regard to letter by Stephanie Saraco that appeared in the last Barry Buccaneer. The letter titled "No Habla Espanol Aqui!" was aimed at the Spanish speaking members of our Barry community. After reading this letter, I got the impression that many people here in our community do not understand certain factors.

First of all, Barry University is made up of people from all parts of the world, and that is what makes it unique. Everyday, many languages are heard as our students interact with one another. For that reason, one cannot resent only Spanish. If speaking Spanish around campus must be controlled, then so must Japanese and French because these are other dominant foreign languages we hear.

International Environment

We cannot be against only language, when we are surrounded by many. In addition, many international students here at Barry do not intend to remain in the U.S., but are only here for their degree-after which, they intend to return to their native countries. So why should they not converse with fellow countrymen in their native language? If two U.S. students were studying in Spain, wouldn't they speak with each other in English?

Similar to Barry, the U.S. is a whole mixture of people who come from different countries. Few realize that adapting to a new life is hard and learning the language is a challenge. Some of the people are trying desperately to adapt, and this includes our international students, especially those in PESL. Furthermore, since we are in America, we should be able to have the freedom to express our thoughts anywhere and in any language.

Heritage

Ms. Saraco appears to be opposed to Hispanics communicating with each other in their language, whenever they want to. What's wrong with that? People must understand that minorities are closely bound together by their traditions. We stick to our customs and origins in many ways, and speaking Spanish with our friends is one of them. Our language is symbol of our heritage, which we are proud of.

Supposedly, one approaches college with an open mind ready to confront and learn new things. This also means being able to mix with people, regardless of their nationality. Instead of having little ethnic groups gathered separately in Thomson Hall, we should mix with everyone and be ready to learn and explore new cultures.. this is what makes up a rewarding part of our education. Language does not have to be a barrier, because even sign language can be used as a last resort for communication!

Sincerely,
Cynthia Ramal

Spanish does not belong in the classroom

Dear Editor,

This letter is addressed to the entire Barry University community. It is in reference to the letter I wrote in the last edition of the Barry Buccaneer entitled "No Habla Espanol Aqui!"

The Barry Buccaneer and myself have heard many comments and criticisms of the letter. The purpose of the letter was to ask the question to the Barry community if it is proper to have a professor speak Spanish or any other language in a classroom setting to the students who do not fully understand the English explanation. This is unfair to the English speaking students in the classroom. This is an American university.

Teaching Atmosphere

I am not referring to the PESL students. I admire the courage these students have. Also, I am not saying that it is wrong to speak in your native or first language to your friends of the same ethnic background.

My point is that it is not fair to speak Spanish in the teaching/learning atmosphere.

This is unfair to the English speaking students whose only language is English. The classroom is not the appropriate place to explain a subject to a student who does not understand the explanation due to a language barrier. This can be easily solved by a one on one "help" sessions. This enables the professor to explain to the student where other students will not get offended or where it will not interrupt the English learning atmosphere.

Spanish Friends

I am not against Spanish speaking students. As a matter of fact, many of my friends are from a Spanish speaking countries such as Cuba, Spain, Puerto Rico and Panama just to name a few.

It is very special to be able to converse in two languages. It is a trait that should not be lost but just like anything else, there is a time and a place for speaking Spanish or any other language. It is not in the classroom.

Sincerely,
Stephanie M. Saraco

Caring environment exists

Dear Editor,

I would like to address this letter to the students and staff at Barry University.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone one at Barry for being so nice to me over the past two semesters.

I've never encountered so many nice people in one place before. Anytime anyone ever asks me about Barry I tell them that Barry is a light in a sea of darkness. It's really too bad that all of Miami is not like Barry.

Very, very sincerely,
Will,
Weber Game Room.

From the Editor's Desk:

Surviving the first year

At most universities students "kill" for the honor of being the editor of the school newspaper, at Barry University, being the editor "kills" you.

At the end of the 1988 academic year I was handed the reigns of the Barry Buc, a horse that I knew would give me some very rough rides, lots of ups and downs and very seldom any smooth days.

I've survived that first year and I think the Barry Buccaneer has come a long way too.

Many have commented that I have concentrated on highlighting the bad things at Barry, I beg to differ. I have always maintained that a newspaper should not tell people what to think but rather give them the facts and let them do their own thinking. I know many have really been doing some thinking over the last couple editions of the newspaper and I am pleased that I have invoked some changes here.

Growing pains are part of any advancing institution and Barry University is no exception. There is a need to keep perspectives in range and to keep a tally of the little things that make life at Barry complicated.

I won't promise to subdue my campaign of highlighting the wrongs at Barry. I pay a lot of money to attend this established academic institution and I expect to get my money's worth.

PS: You still have to be a mathematical genius to get across campus, thanks to Barry's sprinkles of blessings.

SGA pres. thinks students are most important

Dear Editor,

I would like to address the following letter to the students, faculty, and administration,

I would like to thank every body for all the support you have given the Student Government Association. I have enjoyed being your president and I hope I have served you well.

Over the course of the year SGA has accomplished many tasks. Our goal was to create an educational and enjoyable atmosphere for everyone. We worked in conjunction with Mike Griffin and Residential Life to successfully host the first annual Barry University Leadership Conference. I know in the future it will continue to be a great opportunity and success.

New Constitution

We have created a new constitution. The SGA senate brought you the Halloween Dance and acted as the student liaison with the administration. The senate initiated policies that were in the best interests of the students and the university.

Worked Hard

The four classes comprise the House of Representatives. They have brought you many social activities throughout the year. The Freshman class officers have done a great job in a short time. The Sophomore Class hosted a cruise and a jazz concert both were enjoyable and successful. The Junior Class has been working hard on fundraising for next year's Spring Formal and I wish them all the luck. I congratulate the Senior Class officers who worked hard to make the 1989 Spring Formal the great success that it was. It was truly excellent.

As I look back on the four years that I have attended Barry University I have seen many changes. It seems like the school has doubled in size in both student population and buildings. Many people have supported me throughout the years and I would like to thank everybody but I can't. There are too many to list. Please accept my thanks.

I would like to thank Chris McCarthy, Jenny Soriano, Chris Hayes, Alfredo Gonzalez, Betty Bordas, Roxana Bandes and John Zoeller - you are the greatest friends a person can ask for. Thank you for all the support you have given to me over the years, and thank you for putting up with my occasional nonsense. You are the best.

Understanding Friend

An important person who has had a large impact on me over the past two years is Wanda Rykhof. Wanda never got officially involved in SGA but she was always there when I needed her advice or help. Thank You Wanda. I love You.

To Sr. Jeanne O'Laughlin, Dr. Wanko, Sr. Peg, Bobby Dick, Kathy Morton-Benyk, Mary Jo Serda, Mary Jo Fenio and Rita Sordellini - a big thank you for your support and guidance. I don't think that I could have done it without you.

Dr. Cvejanovich (Dr. C.) you have been my professor, advisor and an understanding friend. What you have taught me is priceless. Thank You.

Most of all I would like to thank the students. You are what makes Barry University as great as it is. I wish you all the fortune the world has to offer. I was proud to serve you as your president.

Sincerely,
Andrew Tarr,
President, SGA.

Graduation fee rip-off

Dear Editor,

As a graduating senior I can't help but wonder where did our $40 graduation fee go to. Certainly not to the invitations, or sorry "announcements" as they are being called by the bookstore.

The latter are very poorly done. The Barry logo bleeds through the paper and there aren't even lines for one to put their names on in the inside.

You would think that a university of Barry's calibre, who is striving to improve themselves would at least give us a decent looking invitation, sorry I mean "announcement".

In addition to the $40 we have already paid, these trifling announcements, cost .90 cents each and I was also informed that we have to pay to have our name printed on them.

I have often seen highschools do a much better job than this. What is Barry's problem? One rose and candle does not cost $40. Is this the cost of our cap and gown? Where did our money go?

Respectfully,
Sonja Vosin.

Honor Students want Honor Center

Dear Editor,

The Honors Students Association (HSA) is a vital, yet overlooked part of Barry University. In the past, this association has been involved in activities which have enhanced the university's reputation and its image as a quality institution. I believe that it is time that the HSA obtain some long over due recognition - namely a place to call their own, an Honors Center.

The Honors Center will increase the identity of the group. HSA has surpassed the t-shirt and pin stage as a form of unity. We need a place where we can meet, exchange ideas, socially interact, entertain and host guest speakers. An Honors Center would prove beneficial to the university as a whole.

Need

First you must realise that there is a need for such a center.

Barry University lacks rooms for events such as guest lecturers and Honor's seminars. The Kostka room, though beautiful, has an endless waiting list. As part of SGA and Residential Life, I have found, on several occasions, that it is impossible to schedule a guest speaker because of the unavailability of rooms.

Too Small

Secondly, Honor Students presently share their advisor's office with Pre-law and History majors, the History department, as well as Phi Alpha Theta and the Honors Committee. All this is carried out from a tiny office, spilling out into the narrow corridors of Farrell Hall. The Honors Center would serve as an advisory room for Honor students, therefore alleviating the over-crowding in the corridors of Farrell Hall.

Thirdly, an Honors Center in which to conduct academic and social events will help attract, not only possible transfer students, but it will also the future high school graduates that frequent Barry University. The Honors Center would also be a place where the association could have a computer to write their newsletter, "The Beacon," as well as a place where Honor students could retreat to for studying or just socializing.

Deserve

Why does the HSA deserve an Honors Center? HSA has increased the University's visibility, raised the quality of life of the students involved, and most importantly, it has cemented the high academic standard and reputation of Barry University.

Recently, Honors students have once more placed Barry "on the map" when they presented two sessions at the Southern Reginal Honors Council in Birmingham, Alabama. After the presentation, the students were complimented on how well prepared and impressive their presentations were,

by several faculty and students from other universities.

School's Image

It is not the individual student's name which is being recognized but Barry University's. The Honors Center will help accommodate the steadily increasing enrollment in the Honors Program. Every year more students join the association, and contribute more to the school's image.

In brief, the Honors Center is a necessity. Along with building and expanding, Barry University needs to continue to improve its academic quality. As Dr. Jesus Mendez, Honors Program Director, said, "An Honors Center has been a long held dream which I hope will soon materialize."

Thank You,
Juan Carlos Arguello

"HSA has increased the University's visibility."

The most important 10 seconds of your life

What you do and say during the first 10 seconds of an interview may determine whether you are hired, according to Robert Half, president of Robert Half International. "If the first impression an interviewer has a job candidate's attitude, personality, or appearance is negative, that person runs the risk of being eliminated from any further consideration for the position," Half said. "The fact is that interviewers, like the rest of us, are very likely to judge a book by its cover." He advised job seekers to "make that cover as attractive as possible."

Rejection

Some prime examples of initial interview behavior that could result in a candidate's rejection.

- A weak or half-hearted handshake.
- Failure to maintain eye contact, indicating a lack of self confidence.

- Slouching in the chair or looking either uninterested or intimidated.
- Lack of enthusiasm or responsiveness.
- Poor grooming or inappropriate dress.
- Smoking.
- A hostile or abrasive attitude.
- Boastfulness, egotism or being overly aggressive.
- Acting as if the candidate is doing the interviewer a favor by being there.
- Treating the secretary or receptionist in a cavalier, or condescending manner.

First Impression

"Serious job candidates take the job search seriously," stressed Half. "They know that the first impression they make on the interviewer is, almost always, going to be the lasting impression."

SPRING FORMAL

First impressions do count

That could depend on what you are wearing

DOUGLASSVILLE, Penn.- If you want to increase the odds of making a favorable first impression, wear a traditional blue or grey suit.

A contrasting patterned or striped tie is a man's wiser choice than a solid or knit one. Women should avoid noisy distracting jewelry.

And seemingly little things like freshly shined shoes and well-groomed fingernails can make a big difference.

The key to making a favorable first impression is to be sure every aspect of your appearance fits together, according to consultant Donald Kaufman. "If anything sticks out, or calls attention to itself in any way, that can detract from overall impression," he said.

Avoid Extremes

"Actually, making a favorable first impression in business situations is largely a matter of paying attention to detail and avoiding extremes," noted consultant Karen Kaufman. "It's surprising, however, to see how many people have a difficult time in applying the basic principles of executive dress and good grooming when preparing for interviews and or presentations," she added.

The Kaufmans believe appearance strongly influences other people's perceptions of trustworthiness, authority, reliability and professionalism.

Here are some "do's" and "don'ts" of making a good first impression.

Authority

When it comes to men's shirts, white, all cotton, long-sleeved shirts are the most appropriate because they're more powerful and authoritative. Striped or pastel-colored shirts tend to give a more casual appearance. Button-down oxford shirts are very popular, and give a sense of friendliness. But this "preppy" look doesn't project much of an authoritative message.

A white shirt combined with a navy or grey pinstriped suit, accented with a burgundy tie, is the strongest, most authoritative outfit a man can wear. Women, too, can benefit from the similar outfit - minus the tie - because of the authority it communicates. However too many women are wearing oxford shirts with bow ties under their suits, and instead of conveying authority, "the look leaves the impression that you don't know how to dress yourself," Karen Kaufmann said. The outfit also shows a lack of vision, and unwillingness to take on any risk. She suggest wearing a well-trained blouse, or opting for a classic-styled dress, with a jacket. "A dress and jacket can be authoritative," she said.

Don't forget your shoes. "From our experience, we've learned that unpolished shoes can signal a lack of attention to detail," said Donald Kaufman. "And that message could come through, on a subconscious level."

For men, "wing tips are always good," but any kind of basic tie shoe is acceptable. Mid-heel basic pumps should be the first choice for women, although flat shoes that are styled like pumps are okay.

The important thing to remember is the significance of your first impression on others. "As silly as it may seem, your mother was right. First impressions do count, especially if you're trying to get ahead," said Karen Kaufman.

Successful colors for interviews

- Navy, Charcoal Grey - conservative and authoritative
- Blue - calming effect
- Brown - "friendlier" color
- Tan - not as "friendly" as brown
- Red, Burgundy, Maroon - active and attention grabbing
- Black for men - funeral atmosphere
- Black for women - sophisticated, increases authority

Popcorn to the rescue

Unadulterated, low-cal, low-sodium snack that's recommended by the National Cancer Institute as a moderately high-fiber food and endorsed by the American Dental Association as a low-sugar gum-massager that won't contribute to cavities.

But that's plain popcorn made in an air popper, or with very little oil. Buy commercial microwave popcorn and you'll likely get more than 50% of your calories from fat.

A better bet: Buy a microwave popcorn popper (several manufacturers make them) and use it with regular popcorn. Pop for 4 or 5 minutes in your microwave on high: Fat 0%.

Health Day offers free advice

Our annual Health Day was held April 5. Many students, staff and faculty took advantage of free cholesterol and blood sugar tests. We also provided vision screening, blood pressures, and oral cancer examinations.

Contest

All participants were given the opportunity to enter a drawing for prizes donated by Follett Bookstore and the Athletic Department.

The winners were as follows:

- 1st prize - Michael Hubbard
- 2nd prize - Grace Barry
- 3rd prizes - Densie Negron, Judy Knowles, Deana Beran, Rhonda Eccles, Ross Reilly, Daphne Rhone.

Fascinating Facts

A typical small ladle at a salad bar holds about two tablespoons of dressing, so two ladlefuls of Italian, French, or blue cheese dressing contain about 300 calories, almost all of them derived from fat. In comparison, hot fudge has slightly fewer calories and far less fat.

Aerobics

The word "aerobics" turned 20 last year. First appearing in 1968, it entered the Oxford English Dictionary in 1986: "a method of physical exercise for producing beneficial changes in the respiratory and circulatory systems by activities which require only a modest increase in oxygen in take and so can be maintained."

Heart Smart

Each year approximately 350,000 people die of heart attack before they reach the hospital. Many of them might have been saved, says the American Heart Association, because the average victim waits three hours before seeking medical help.

Heart Disease

To reduce your risk of heart disease follow these American Heart Association dietary guidelines: keep saturated fat to less than 10 per cent of calories, total fat to less than 30 percent of calories, and cholesterol to less than 100 mg per 1000 calories (a maximum of 300 mg per day).

Heart - a - facts

In a minute, a woman's heart beats usually 7 or 8 times more than a man's. The heart rate is higher on warmer days. The heart increases after a heavy meal. On the average, the human heart beat 72 times a minute or about 100,000 times a day, or about 38,000,000 times per year.

Medical Self - Care Quiz

True or false:

1. Taking penicillin or other antibiotics will speed recovery from a cold or the flu.
2. Extra-strength pain relievers are more effective than regular-strength tablets.
3. If you're hoarse or have laryngitis, you should whisper.

Foot Health Talk

Dr. John Prior,
Assistant Professor of Podiatric
Medicine, Barry University

It is interesting to know that of all adult foot problems, 15% are due to heel pain, and 73% of all heel pain is a result of so called "heel spur syndrome."

Ankle Problems

Basically, the bottom of the foot has a broad band of tissue, similar to a ligament, that supports the arch of the foot. This tissue is called the "plantar fascia." It extends from the bottom of the heel to the ball of the foot. As the arch flattens, the plantar fascia becomes elongated and stretched, functioning similar to a bow string. Because of foot structure, and the way some people walk, the fascia becomes stretched more than it should, and inflamed and sometimes a spur is formed. It is this inflammation that causes the pain, not so much the spur itself.

Heel Pain

Not all heel pain is caused by this heel spur syndrome, but if you are experiencing pain or discomfort in that area you should have it investigated. Generally, only an x-ray can reveal the existence of heel spurs.

The majority of heel spur problems can be alleviated without surgery. Strappings with tape, physical therapy; oral anti-inflammatory medication as well as injections of antiacute pain. These treatment plans do not address the long term needs for release of stress on the plantar fascia. Frequently an orthotic device is fabricated for long term relief.

Arch Support

Orthotics are made by making a plaster mold of your foot and fabricating the device from this mold. It is a perfect fit to your arch area and for the most part is interchangeable form shoe to shoe. Orthotics function better than the so-called arch support. By controlling the foot in a good working position. By doing this they are effective in relieving general foot fatigue, aching flat feet, or those who suffer from arthritis and heel spurs. Remember, however, orthotics do not correct any de-formity, but rather support it. The end result is they alleviate the pain associated with the problem.

Surgery

A podiatrist earns the degree of Doctor of Podiatric Medicine (D.P.M.). These doctors complete four (4) years of podiatric medical school following four (4) years of undergraduate premedical course of study. In Florida the licensed podiatrist may treat disorders and perform surgery below the level of the knee.

New theories about AIDS

Although most people are aware that AIDS can be transmitted by sexual activity or sharing needles for intravenous drug use, and the pregnant women can pass the virus on to their babies, surveys conducted by the National Center for Health Statistics last year also showed that ignorance about other modes of transmission persists.

Transmission

Over half of Americans surveyed think that you may be able to get AIDS by kissing someone who has the disease, which doctors say is not true. Also, 24% erroneously believe the virus can be transmitted by mosquitoes or other insects. And 29% have the impression that AIDS can be contracted by being coughed on or sneezed on by someone who has the disease, which doctors say is impossible.

HSA continues to be an asset

submitted by HSA

As this school year comes to a close, the Honors Student Association (HSA), feels the need to evaluate the past, present, and future in order to share our accomplishments with the Barry Community. We also hope that an increased awareness of HSA activities will arouse support and encouragement in the form of tangible benefits.

Barry University's HSA has grown immensely since its foundation in the Fall of 1987.

Although the first year began slowly, it did produce significant results. In the Spring of 1988 Laura Boehm and Adam Holzman co-edited the first edition of the HSA newsletter. Also in that semester, five students attended the Southern Regional Honors Council (SRHC) conference in New Orleans, and presented a session with program director Dr. Jesus Mendez.

The Honors program gained national recognition through an appointment to the Small Colleges Honors Program Committee of the National Collegiate Honors Council, and held its first year of Freshmen Honors Seminars. Finally in that year, nine students graduated from the program.

Accomplishments

In the Fall of 1988 new officers began working with HSA. The association has been busy ever since. The accomplishments include: the revisal of the Constitution to accomodate the needs of the growing organization; participation in Rush Week, two Open Houses, and faculty sponsored receptions; the publication of the newsletter, "The Beacon"; the representation of the group on the Honors Program Council; the representation of HSA by two students who addressed the Board of trustees; the sponsorship of a pool tournament in Weber center and a volleyball tournament for the Weekenders; the co-sponsorship of a book signing and fiction reading by Brett Lott and the Salvation Army Angel Tree Project; the acquisition of our own bulletin board and t-shirts; the participation of MARC students in HSA; the interview of honors students by the Miami Herald concerning research on Overtown; and finally, the presentation by a guest speaker Professor Gary Grizzle who challenged the view of the group. To top the year off, Barry University's Honors Program presented one session at this year's National Collegiate Honors Council (NCHC) conference in Las Vegas, where Adam Holzman was appointed student editor of the NCHC newsletter Forum For Honors, and for the first time ever HSA presented two student run sessions at SRHC in Birmingham.

HSA members at Birmingham

Although HSA has been busy this year, next year looks even more active. We expect the largest group of freshman Honors Students to ever participate in the program, and the largest number of seniors to graduate.

In addition, the group hopes to attend the NCHC conference in New Orleans, and the SRHC in Richmond, to participate in campus activities, and acquire an Honors Computer as well as an Honors Center to house the computer and the association.

For more information check the Honors Board in Farrell Hall for meeting times and locations.

E.T. studies at Barry

by: Janeen Binder

Dr. George Sleek's Extra-Terrestrial Biology class has been pondering the prospects of life on other planets in our solar system and the universe.

NASA

On April 8, the class caravaned up to the Kennedy Space Center to see how the United States is trying to find concrete answers to that question. "It was great," says Don Scott, a member of the class, "we even got to see the shuttle 'Atlantis' on the launch pad." At the end of this month, "Atlantis" will launch a probe that will journey to Venus to study the planet's thick atmosphere and to collect other data.

Life on Venus

Although NASA is pretty sure Venus is void of all life, students of the ET Biology class have learned that this journey is just as important as a journey to a planet with more encouraging prospects (such as Mars or Jupiter.) "Dr. Sleek taught me that the answer to why life is not likely on Venus is influential in determining if life is possible on other planets," states Deron Wong, a Management major who took the course last year and decided to go back to the Space Center this year.

According to Dr. Sleek, "it is important no matter what field you're in to gather as much information possible before coming to any definite conclusions."

All Walks of Life

The ET Bio course, which is open only to non-biology majors, consists of students from many different orientations, including communications, business, and psychology. This diversity of non-science majors might seem peculiar considering the topic, but NASA instructors who spoke to the students on Saturday insisted that outer-space is a field that concerns people from all walks of life. Like it or not, space is the future. The students of ET Bio 300 like it.

Students to vote on new constitution

The Student Government Association (SGA), is likely to approve a new constitution. If so the undergraduate student body will be asked to vote on it before the end of the semester.

Interest in rewriting the constitution began about two years ago when SGA faculty advisor, Dr. George Cvejanovich, noticed some contradictions and ambiguities in the constitution. When Dr. Cvejanovich suggested some changes, several SGA members had additional suggestions, so the Constitutional Revision Committee was established last year. The process continued into this academic year.

Questions

The SGA structure in the proposed constitution is similar to the current one. Thus the changes are mainly in clarification of procedure. The new constitution continues two-part Congress and an executive board (Cabinet). One part of Congress is elected according to academic class and the other part is elected at large. The Cabinet is elected from Congress by Congress.

The student body will be asked to approve or reject the new constitution the last week of classes. A copy of the current and the new constitution will be on the voting table in Thompson Hall and in the SGA office. Students are also encouraged to contact any member of SGA or Dr. Cvejanovich if they have any questions.

SGA - a job well done

Here is a summary of SGA's accomplishments.

The senior officers have worked hard this year; with fundraisers, Spring Formal and Graduation. All who attended the Formal, know that it was a job well done.

Congratulations

I would like to congratulate all of the graduates of the Class of 1989. May the world bring you all the best of luck in your future. Thank you, Chris, Jenny, Chris, and Seth (Senior Class Officers) for your hard work.

The Junior Class has also worked hard to prepare themselves to be Senior officers for 1989-1990. We have sponsored a Rat, Mardi Gras. We also worked with Friends of the Poor for the Jamaican Hurricane Relief and helped Edwarda O'Bara, a 36 year old woman who has been in a coma for 20 years. Thanks to SGA for the $200 donation, as well as Phi Kappa Tau and the Spanish Club who held an April Fool's Ball, all proceeds ($180) went to Edwarda's mother, Kaye, Alex, Marta, and Javier, a job well done.

Full Speed

The Sophomore class is full speed ahead. They started last year with a cruise and a Jazz concert. Recently they sponsored a Bud Night, and raffled tickets for Wind Surfing Lessons. A wonderful way to spend your summer.

Next year look out for free coupon books, complements of this year's Sophomore Class.

Good Luck in re-elections, Andrea, Sallie, Rachel, and John.

The Freshman Class has made a comeback under the direction of thier new president, Anna Martinez. This has been a semester of flowers for them. All girls who received beautiful carnations for Valentine's or corsages for the Formal, thank the Freshman Class. The guys are not to be forgotten with boutonnieres for thier tux. Great semester guys, keep it up. See you in the Fall Ann, Mark, John, and Victor.

Good Bye

I would like to say good-bye to our President, Andrew Tarr, and the Speaker of Senate, Beatriz Bordas who are graduating. Good Luck.

It's been a great year and I hope next year will be even better.

FACULTY PROFILE

Faculty has ties in the writing of COBOL

Dr. Edward A. Tomeski, senior professor of management in the School of Business, is the co-author of a major article entitled: "Systemy Wspomagnia Decyzji - Czy Moga Poprawic Efektywnosc Zaradzania? Sounds familiar to you? Well translated from Polish to English it means: "Decisions Support Systems - Can They Improve Management Productivity?"

The article was recently published in a journal called Nauki O Zaradzaniu (or Management Science) which is located in the University of Warsaw.

Publications

Dr. Tomeski is the author of four books and he estimates over one hundred published works over the past thirty years. One of his books was translated to a Spanish edition and another was translated to Japanese.

The book People Oriented Computer Systems was distributed through the McGraw Hill Management Book Guild as well as the McMillian Book Club. Also, it was adopted by a number of universities including Harvard University.

Predictions

His book, The Computer Revolution, was a pioneering work and was published about twenty years ago. It anticipated many of the recent technological developments including networking and personal computers. It was used widely by business executives in large companies that were just embarking in the use of computers.

About ten years ago, Tomeski wrote a textbook (Fundamentals of Computers in Business) which was widely adopted by many schools. In recent years Tomeski's research has concentrated on robotics and artificial intelligence, and decision theory. As a result, he was a frequent speaker before executive groups such as the American Management Association as well as a consultant to such organizations as Western Electric, State of New York, City of New York and the U.S. State Department.

When reflecting, Tomeski indicated that he "grandfathered" the computer field. In the 1950s there were few courses offered and even fewer degrees in computers. Early in his career, Professor Tomeski had the opportunity to work with some of the original authors of COBOL. Among those he worked with was Admiral Grace Murray Hopper, one of the most distinguished persons in the short history of modern computers.

portunity to work with some of the original authors of COBOL. Among those he worked with was Admiral Grace Murray Hopper, one of the most distinguished persons in the short history of modern computers.

COBOL

Tomeski is proud that his name is prominently recorded on many of the documents which record the historical development of COBOL.

Dr. Tomeski spent about 15 years with large corporations before deciding to have a career switch to the academic world. He was at the management level in Mobil Oil Corporation, ITT Corporation, Bankers Trust Company and W.R. Grace Co. These assignments allowed him to interact with many of the leaders in very large companies and get experience in strategic management.

Dr. Tomeski was in charge of a major internal training program for Mobil Oil Corporation, and this experience was helpful when Tomeski returned to academia to get his doctorate degree from New York University, and subsequently started teaching at Fordham University in New York.

About ten years ago Dr. Tomeski met Sister Trinita Flood (then president of Barry University) and he was invited to join Barry to help the fledgling Masters of Business Administration program.

At Sister Trinita's request, Tomeski served on a presidential committee (along with Drs. Fike and Nuehring of Social Work) which started the first formal computer use in Barry's academic programs. Later, Tomeski worked with Sister John Karen Frei in establishing the beginnings of Barry's formal research program. He also worked closely with former Dean Morrell in offering annual business conferences and a proposal which eventually resulted in the Andreas School of Business.

Soviet Bloc

Dr. Tomeski was suppose to spend last summer in Poland doing research at the University of Warsaw. But illness derailed those plans. He now hopes to spend the forthcoming summer there so that he can personally assess the Soviet bloc's progress in computer technology and its use for strategic planning both in government and industrial use.

In the meantime, Dr. Tomeski continues his prolific research and writing which have resulted in his receiving 11 consecutive professional achievement awards from the University's president. This too is probably some kind of record for Barry.

Happiness is not just money

by: Susan Victoria Autore

Peering through the bookstore window or just passing by, you would be sure to see a familiar face framed by curly red hair that belongs to an enthusiastic woman with a rich spirit. A hardworking grandmother, Amy Koran presently supplements her life by selling merchandise and performing public relations work for the Barry University bookstore.

Inspired

But she will be the first to tell you that a drive for wealth and materialism has never been a motivating factor in her life. Inspired deeply by Mother Teresa, Mahatma Ghandi and Leo Buscaglia, to name a few, she esteems happiness, love and selflessness as the highest human attainments possible.

In this confused, fast-paced and stressful society, Amy feels there must be something more fulfilling and more significant than the green lining in one's pocket and the expending and experiencing a lot of life as I'm getting older has given me a better insight...I've learned to be content within myself." Koran said.

Valued Member

While successfully executing her job five days a week for the past two and a half years at the bookstore, Amy, as she is commonly known, finds mingling and conversing with the students, faculty, staff and customers to be an enjoyable and fulfilling experience. She is an important and valued member of the Barry Community, she loves her job and even feels as though she is a "proxy mother" to some of the students here.

In her free time, Amy loves boating, aerobicizing, and writing poetry. After retiring, she looks forward to possibly going to school and volunteering for worthwhile organizations that need her help and caring touch.

Optimism

In her present job and in whatever she chooses to do after retirement, she will continue to bring inspiration, motivation and optimism to people with who she comes in contact.

Being serious when necessary, but never losing her sense of humor, Amy is a prize person whose words will brighten your day and whose smile will warm your heart.

How did you do ?

answers from quiz on page 8

1. False. Antibiotics, including penicillin, are effective only against bacterial infections, such as strep throat. They can do nothing for a cold or flu, which are viral infections. A recent survey found that 63% of Americans think that antibiotics kill viruses as well as bacteria.

2. False. Most extra - strength pain relievers are just larger doses of the regular strength drugs (for instance, two extra strength Tylenol tablets equal three regular tablets) and offer little, if any, additional pain relief. But they can increase the chance of adverse reaction if you're sensitive.

3. False. You should speak only when necessary, but not in a whisper. Whispering can be as bad as shouting, putting extra stress on vocal cords. So if you need to talk, do so in a soft voice.

4. True. Decongestant sprays work by constricting blood vessels, but with repeated use the vessels no longer constrict, resulting in a rebound effect - more swelling and congestion. If you use a nasal spray, do so only for a day or two, or you may be worse off than if you hadn't used one at all.

5. True. Many food, such as chocolate, ripe cheese, and freshly baked yeast products, contain a naturally occurring chemical called tyramine that can lead to headaches in susceptible individuals by causing cerebral blood vessels to dilate.
