Golden Jubilee Year 1940-1990

Feb. 13, 1990

Jubilee celebration takes you across the world

Every creed will have its place. That is the essence of a cultural arts festival to be hosted by Barry on Friday, February 16. The gala affair entitled "Potpourri ... a Cultural Extravaganza," will be held in front of Thompson Hall.

The day will open at 3 p.m. with a parade of flags representative of the international body on campus. Students in the parade will be dressed in traditional attire.

Berlin Wall

After the parade, the flags will be hoisted around the mall area and then the festivities will begin.

At 4 p.m. there will be a special multi-language presentation. Several students have managed to obtain a piece of the recently fallen Berlin Wall. This symbolic token will be presented to the school and will be kept in a commemorative case in the library.

Doctor Rock

There will be several cultural performances from 3:30 to 7 p.m. including the well-loved Doctor Rock and the Terminal Degrees. Other acts include a Bahamian Junkanoo parade, an African dance, a Jamaican reggae performance, Haitian folkloric dances, a Chinese fan dance, a Latin American performance and a Lebanese Dabke group. There will also be a duet by Jackie Brown and Diane Martinez as well as a performance from the Student Rock ensemble.

As a reflection of the international myriad that exist at Barry, there will be an exhibit of arts and crafts from all across the world. There will also be an international food bazaar, that will not only whet your appetite, but your imagination as well.

Dunk

Amid the festive atmosphere, there will be a delightful blend of foreign music and games. Not only will you have the opportunity to dunk your favorite professor, but also "splat" them with a pie.

So come out and join us for some fun, food, music, games, and entertainment.

Potpourri ... an intermingling of food and games, a drink of laughter, a taste of music and dance ... a dream for the future.

For more information about Potpourri contact Mr. John Beaubrun, 899-3605 or Ms. Kendra Khelawan, 758-3392 ext. 230 or 899-3456

Resident students have to be vaccinated

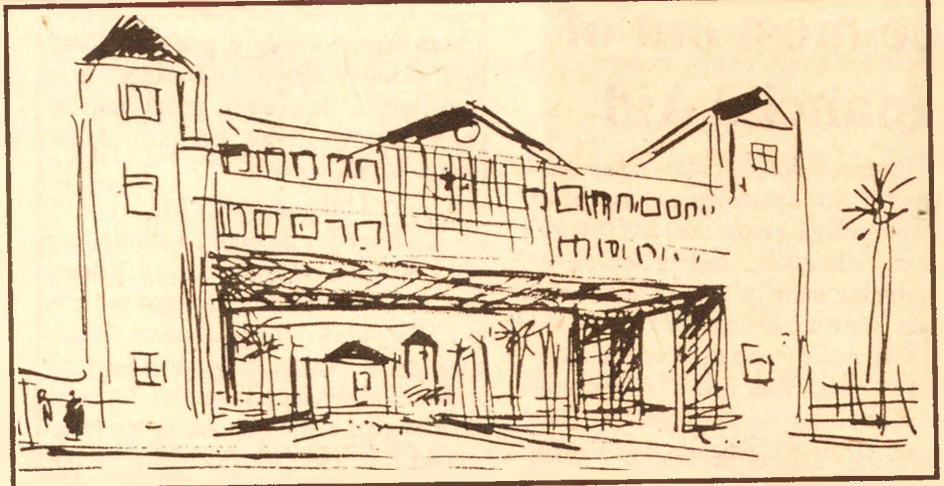

Outbreaks of measles and diphtheria cause alarm

Due to the outbreak of measles in college/university age students, HRS is requesting that all students be vaccinated. If you have had a natural case of the measles, you don't need to be revaccinated for measles.

There has also been an outbreak of diphtheria in the South Florida area. If you have not had a tetanus shot in the last ten years you must receive a diphtheria vaccination.

All campus residents will be required to show proof of immunizations by April 1990 in order to participate in the resident hall lottery.

Please call the Health Center or sign up with your Residential Advisor today. We will need to have all the names of participants by 12 noon on Tuesday, February 13th.

Artist's rendition of the new building proposal for in front of the mall.

Expansion calls for ingenious ideas for placing new buildings

by: Michelle Fulton

With three buildings currently under construction on our campus, the Institutional Advancement department is not resting on their laurels. The newest building proposal in the works is one for the School of Arts and Sciences, and administration is now awaiting approval for funding of a unique design concept.

Idea

The building proposal is "a very creative use of space," said Sister Sarah Cavanaugh, Assistant Vice President for Institutional Advancement, "but it's only an IDEA."

There is little argument that the School of Arts and Sciences needs a building. However, there is more discussion about where there is room to put the structure on campus. It seems that we are running out of space.

The foundation proposal outlines the area on campus where the structure would be placed, and sketches an overall design concept for the look of the newest addition. Many students and staff have heard about the location for the building through informal and formal channels, and there seems to be a general confusion as to the actual location proposed by the University.

Some have heard that the design proposal places the building on the actual mall area, a conception which is not true.

The idea presented in the grant proposal utilizes the space at the entrance of Barry between the road around the interior of campus and the areas between the Admissions department and Kelley Hall. This would create an archway-like building at the main entrance, and upon entering, one would see the Chapel through the building.

The design proposal has received the endorsement of Sister Jeanne, as well as the Dean of the School of Arts and Sciences, Dr. Shirley Paolini.

The Institutional Advancement Department is equally as enthusiastic about the grant proposal, but with a more reserved nature. Until the building is actually funded, which it is not, they feel that it is nothing more than a drawing.

Goal

"Part of the concept of this building is to bring the students and faculty (in the School of Arts and Sciences) together in one building," said Linda Calahan, Director of Grant Programs. "There is a tremendous need for an Arts and Sciences building at Barry, and we're working toward that goal."

The difficult task facing Barry University, and especially those in Institutional Advancement, is that of determining how to meet the needs and challenges of a growing student population while considering the limitations of space and resources dictated by virtue of Barry's location.

Tips for getting the most out of Financial Aid

The cost of college tuition continues to skyrocket. Some of the nation's top universities are charging more than $85,000 for a four-year education. Landing financial aid is becoming more of a necessity than an option. Here are some simple tips on how to obtain money for a good education.

1. Contact your college financial aid office for a list of financial options. There are also credible companies, like College Financial Planning Service (CFPS), who provide lists of available grants, loans and scholarships for a small fee.

2. Analyze your financial situation honestly and apply for as many programs as you are eligible. Fill out the forms accurately.

3. After selecting a good financial aid package, negotiate improvements with your college financial aid advisor. Also, thro-ughly investigate alternative means for more support.

College Financial Planning Service has a data base of more than 180,000 listings of scholarships, fellowships, grants and loans. It offers information about donations from corporations, memorials, trusts, foundations, religious groups and other philanthropic organizations.

Unique sources

To enter the program, a student can call 1-800-346-6401 to request a "student data form." It must be completed and sent to CFPS with $45 for the research fee. In about two weeks, the student will get a personalized computer print-out of financial aid resources that match his or her background.

Many scholarships are based on academic interests, career plans, family heritage and place of residence. There are also many unique sources such as money for students who have been golf caddies or newspaper carriers.

In the words of one financial aid expert, unique opportunities for monetary support do exist, you just have to be creative and resourceful in finding them.

Scholarship Notes

The Ralph McGill Scholarship Fund offers scholarships to those who have completed at least two years of college and who have demonstrated an abiding interest in the news and editorial phase of newsprinting.

Scholarships are limited to those young men and women whose roots lie in the South.

The award is for students in their third or fourth year of college. A "B" average will be required to maintain the scholarship. Awards will be in an amount not exceeding $2,000 for the school year.

Application deadline May 1.

CLUB HOUSE

More than just debits and credits

by: Adam S. Unger
President, Accounting Association

The Barry University Accounting Association has always been committed to our members and the community. This year, with the cooperation of Mr. Priddle, Mr. Lipner, and the board of the Accounting Association, there seems to be an even stronger presence of the Association on our campus.

Commitment

Last semester, we took part in the Founders Day Carnival, at which we raised money for the Miami Project to Cure Paralysis; we held our annual Alumni Night, a forum in which accounting alumni return to Barry and share their career experiences with undergraduate student; and we also took part in preparing food baskets for the Thanksgiving Food Drive.

Clubs & Organizations are reminded to check with Student Activities to make sure that all 1989-90 requirements have been fulfilled, including membership list and community service.

Failure to verify this information could result in the inability to hold future events.

Resident students do you know ... you are in a club

by: Kris Mowery

Yes, each resident student is an automatic member of the Resident Hall Association (RHA).

RHA's main purpose is to be a voice of concerns for residents and the facilitator of some activities and events on campus. All resident students are automatic members of this club, and each hall has representatives who can voice your concerns to the right people, or help sponsor events for you on campus.

Events

Another main goal of RHA is to unite the halls, to build community spirit and to provide cohesiveness for the residents.

This coming semester RHA is planning to have several events on campus to provide interesting, cultural and educational activities and events.

Do you want to help? This is an excellent group to be involved in and make a difference in. If you are interested in join-

Our commitment has not diminished—this semester we plan to hold our annual Accounting Association Picnic at C.B. Smith Park, to contribute our time to this year's Hunger Clean Up, and sponsor the March 22nd Rathskellar.

However, the next function that the Accounting Association is proud to announce is a guest lecture, to be held on Wednesday, February 21, 1990.

Prominent

Our guest speaker will be Mr. Jeremy White, a senior auditor at Ernst and Young, a prominent accounting firm. He will discuss the application of accounting in our daily lives (in investing, our banking relationships, etc.)

The Accounting Association's Board wishes to extend to you an invitation to attend this function. It will be held in the Library, room 103 at 7:00p.m. Refreshments will be served after Mr. White's presentation.

This invitation is open to anyone who is interested; it is necessary for you to contact Mr. Priddle, the Accounting Association's faculty advisor, at ext. 509, or Adam Unger, box #240, before February 13 if you would like to attend.

ing, just come to a meeting. They're held on Monday nights at 10 p.m. in Thompson Hall (usually in the canteen or board room).

There is no limit to the amount of people who can represent each hall; the more the merrier, and the more activities for residents.

Representatives

If you feel that you can not come to the meetings, but you do have a concern, complaint, or suggestion, please feel free to talk to any representative in your hall or any hall. We are here to help you and we want to represent you to the best of our ability. All hall representatives have signs on their doors, for easy identification. If you are unable to find a representative, ask your RA and they will identify the person.

Help us help you and help the club that you are a member of while you are a resident.

P.S. We are desperately in need of representatives from Browne and Kelly Hall.

Students provide tutoring service

Tutoring services for the students of Gratigny Elementary began last week.

This project is aimed at helping children between the ages of eight and twelve with their school work.

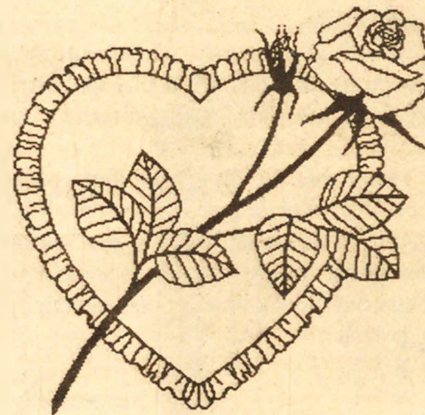

Many of the Barry students who have volunteered their time to the tutoring have found it a rewarding experience.

Interested

"It's a good feeling to know that you're helping someone and in some way... it helps me appreciate my education even more," commented one sophomore.

Every week interested students from Barry visit the eager students and help them with Math, Science, and English.

Gratigny is located on 11905 North Miami Ave., just minutes away from Barry. Interested students can meet at the school clinic at Gratigny at 3 p.m. If you are interested, but do not have any transportation, you can meet at Campus Ministry at 2:50 p.m.. If you have any questions call Heidi Firpo or Julie Mickler at Campus Ministry, ext. 341.

International myriad :- myth or reality

Barry heralds itself as an International University and no one can deny that. A simple walk through Thompson Hall would attest to this, as one will find American, Europeans, Latin Americans, Asians and Caribbean students to name a few.

On Friday, as part of its Jubilee Celebrations, Barry will be hosting a cultural extravaganza. As an organizer of the event I applaud those who have contributed their time and effort to the project. However I criticize at those who jeer at the idea.

With the greater internationalization of the world, one would have to be very ignorant if they believe that they can still live in the confines of their own personal existence without any knowledge of those around and beyond them.

Barry's unique blend of students from across the globe is a learning experience, culturally and socially, that can not be attained in any classroom. It is a lesson in life that is becoming as important and integral as being able to add and subtract.

Dream

Yet many of us exist in the Barry community without any real knowledge of those around us. Daily we go to class and share topics about economics, math and science without any significant interest in the cultures that foster these schools of thought.

To many, Idaho is just for potatoes, the Caribbean a place where people swing from trees and Africa a country where people live in huts.

Let us use this added advantage that is given to us and make the international myriad a reality ... a dream for the future.

with rude attitudes. One would think that the office that takes all your money would at least be hypocritical enough to give you service with your smile.

The disdain was not personal either, another student who simply came by to have her registration approved, was treated with hostility, when a simple answer would have sufficed.

Rebuke

On other occasions business office personnel have rebuked students, often in a loud and offensive manner, in front of crowds of people, this is very humiliating especially when the student is not the one that has erred.

While all personnel at the Business office is not like this, it is a pity that often more harm is done by the thorn than by the rose.

I hope that the impression that I got is not one that is perceived by first time visitors, if so it can certainly throw that "caring environment" image, that others try so hard to build out the window. I hope something can be done.

Respectfully,
Upset student

Business office blasts students

Dear Editor,

I often like to boast that Barry University certainly has some very genuine and caring people, living testimonies of the abstract "caring environment" concept. It is so unfortunate that this concept does not hold through for everyone at Barry. What is even more disturbing is the fact that it is not evident in some very important places.

Humiliate

At the beginning of the semester I had to give in to that dreaded business office visit - the place that consumes all my money, year after year. After all Barry is not an inexpensive university. While I do not mind paying, I at least expect the costs to be justified.

The service that I received at the business office was absolutely appalling - I was greeted by unfriendly faces and serviced

Reform needed in placement exams

Dear Editor,

I am writing you this letter to inform you and others of a problem in this school.

At the beginning of the year all new students were required to take an English placement exam. I, as an incoming freshman, took the exam and was placed in the class that the scoring people felt was appropriate. The class that they placed me in was ENG 111, a grammar class.

Degrading

Everything that was covered in the class I had known since middle school. It was insulting to my intelligence and degrading to me that somebody would require me to take a class that was below my level.

I would often not bother going to class and when I did go I generally brought a book and dedicated only a small fraction of my attention to the class.

Higher education

I truly believe that someone must look into the placement exams and try to make them more accurate. For me, the class that I was in was a waste of money, time and the little effort that I put into it.

College is supposed to be a place of higher education not a place to be held back. I am leaving this school for a number of reasons and this happens to be one of the major ones. I personally would never recommend this school to any gifted or honor students. I hope that this letter would help people realize that a change is needed.

Sincerely,
Laura Cottone

Intoxication:- a risk to your future

Dear students,

You have plans for your life - goals to achieve - a brilliant future ... So did Laura Lancaster, a doctoral candidate at the University of Maine, Orono, Maine.

In February, 1989, the drunken driver of a pickup truck struck her down as she and a classmate walked along the sidewalk in the campus community. Linda died three hours later.

Take a stand

All her goals and plans for the future were wiped out in one senseless moment of drunken violence - a violence our legislatures have yet to recognize as murder - and our courts of law waiver over justice for the victim.

You have plans for your life - but, take a moment as you walk across campus to ponder on your chances of becoming the random victim of a drunken driver. We all carry the same risk, as did Linda. But with your help we can and must keep our streets and sidewalks safe.

Take a stand. Refuse to ride with an intoxicated driver. Volunteer to drive a friend who has partied too much. Write your congressman to initiate deterrent legislation against killer drivers: no time off for good behavior - no suspending half a sentence - no plea bargaining.

Do something positive, if not for yourself or for a friend, then for someone who loves you.

Keep your future alive!

Sincerely,
Russell & Eleanor Nicholson

Political Science majors cross examine F. Lee Bailey

by: Michelle E. Fulton

Ask any political science major about Dr. Melody's Constitutional Law class and you will hear about the cases, briefs, readings, class preparation and discussion that are required for one of the most demanding courses offered by the esteemed professor.

Experience

You will hear these future lawyer types describe the confusion they feel when reading lengthy Supreme Court decisions, the blood, sweat and tears they shed in search of the two sentence answer Melody wants when he asks about the significance of judicial review within the American political system. You will also hear them tell you that it's all worth it.

Recently, a group of these students attended a luncheon in North Miami Beach, the guest speaker was none other than Mr. Defense Lawyer himself, F. Lee Bailey. The entire Constitutional Law class attended the lecture and was sufficiently impressed with the wealth of experience and knowledge demonstrated by the lawyer who defended Patty Hearst in the early 1970s and has made himself a household name.

Mr. Bailey spoke about the inherent weaknesses of the American judicial system. He said that the process itself is painstakingly slow, the mechanism of legal representation is too expensive, and that as a result, the rights of litigants and defendants are held in the balance waiting for final adjudication.

Computers

He advocated the introduction of computers and advanced technology for use by judges and lawyers, as well as in the actual courtroom, to manage the volumes of information and the presentation and management of evidence which currently overwhelms our judicial system. His presentation was interspersed with examples and anecdotes from his remarkable career.

"This was an excellent opportunity for our majors to be exposed to such an influential figure in American law," said Dr. Michael Melody. "First-hand experiences like these are an important supplement to the education that takes place in the classroom," continued Melody.

The students who attended the luncheon were also able to meet and talk to judges, lawyers and other leaders in the legal community, including Mr. Bailey himself.

"There are important events and opportunities that are available to you as a college student, within your discipline, that are so fundamental in reinforcing your future career and life goals," said Tom Schneiders, President of the Young Republicans and a student in Melody's Con. Law class. "After today, I am more certain of my calling to law," said Schneiders.

NATO briefing at Barry

by: David Houle

Where were you on February 5th, 1990, at about 3:00 p.m.? Well, if you weren't in the Kostka Room of Barry University, you really missed something.

On the invitation of International Studies assistant professor Dr. George Cvejnovich, representatives from The Supreme Allied Command Atlantic (SACLANT) of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) gave an international briefing to interested Barry students and faculty on NATO's current state of affairs and future, with regard to the rapidly altering nations on the other side of the now rusting Iron Curtain.

International

NATO was formed in 1949 and now consists of 16 countries: Canada, The United States, Belgium, Denmark, France, Iceland, Italy, Luxembourg, The Netherlands, Norway, Portugal, The United Kingdom, Greece, Turkey, West Germany, and Spain.

The international briefing team consisted of Captain James Eldridge of the United States Navy; Volker Leibeiner from the Federal German Navy; Lieutenant Commander Jurien Noot from the Royal Netherlands Navy; Lieutenant Commander Patricia O'Neill from the United States Navy; and Journalist Jim De Angio, also from the United States Navy.

As with most military procedures, these men (O'Neill did not speak) were very concise and to the point. A thirty minute slide presentation was conducted simultaneously with three speeches by Leibeiner, Noot and Eldridge. They discussed several topics: the history and philosophy of NATO; NATO's military strategy and mission; and how changes in Eastern Europe will affect the future of NATO.

Supply Lines

One point of interest brought up by Lt. Commander Noot was that in the case of war on the European continent, "ninety percent of the necessary military enforcements would have to come by ship." He reinforced the importance of SACLANT, which has its headquarters in Norfolk, Virginia, and is responsible for the protection of twelve million miles of North Atlantic sea and air.

Soviet Union

Captain Eldridge spoke about the plight of Communism and its dim future in Europe. He commented on how NATO has been busy keeping up with the almost daily changes in Eastern Europe and reactions to these changes. Not all changes are taking place on one side of the Wall. He pointed out that in 1992 the European Economic Community will unite to compete more efficiently with the United States and Japan.

Hawkish

Following proper "hawkish" attitude, Eldridge emphasized the point that though the Soviet Union may be in disarray, its offensive capabilities have not diminished.

After the formal presentation there was a question-answer forum and some important topics were brought up. The idea of a German re-unification was discussed. Leibeiner, being German, was more than happy to explain that he believed it would happen and that it was actually written into the West German Constitution. He also said

New building strategically placed the university across North Miami Avenue is specifically envisioned as a sports facility complex, with the playing fields and facilities necessary to support Barry's growing sports programs. The care facility opposite the main entrance of campus on Northeast Second Avenue will house elderly patients and provide Barry's nursing students an in-house facility to complete clinical training.

Goals

With these valuable exceptions, the Miami Shores community does not offer any growing room in the immediate vicinity of campus to accommodate an ever-expanding Barry University.

"The goals of the Institutional Advancement Department are an example of the creativity of our President—she's a creative and forward thinking person," said Sister Sarah Cavanaugh. "This campus has grown under her leadership."

As we embark on our next fifty years as a university, the creative leadership necessary to determine the growth and the direction of Barry University will be a challenge for our administration, and an interesting process for the Barry community to watch unfold.

it would have to be a Germany that leaned towards NATO. Another question of concern to all of us was what consequences could the fall of Gorbachev bring if it occurred? All three speakers made it clear they hoped this didn't occur but if it did they believed that the people would not revert to their former "state of dread".

Nuclear arms

Though there were many questions to be asked, the Navy brass had to leave since their agenda was calling them to the other side of town for another presentation. They were met by a round of applause and thanks at the end of the presentation.

I personally would like to give my thanks to the NATO commanders for the fine job they did with the limited time they had. The Barry community is an internationally diverse unit. I think more briefings and presentations such as this one are necessary. I hope in the future we will hear more viewpoints (political, economic, and social) on the topic of a western response to Eastern European change.

To conclude, I would like to leave you with one very important fact brought up by Captain Eldridge. "For the first time in one thousand years, Europe has not had a major outbreak of war in over 40 years." Let us all hope this trend of peace continues way into the 21st century and beyond. Remember, you can't hug nuclear arms...

Open your eyes

by: David Capote

Life is so beautiful and so full of color, yet many times we don't notice what is around us. The images before us are gorgeous and breathtaking. This city is so warm and the sunlight is so beautiful yet we take that for granted. We become so accustomed to not being observant that we let things go by.

Reality

To be fulfilled as a human being though, it is important to notice. By being aware we can find so many new opportunities and answers to troubling questions.

In my own personal life, whenever I need help with something, or whenever I need to know (because I am extremely curious) I just start talking with people.

Curious

Communication with others can really help you to see reality. Our physical lives are wasted if we don't use our potential to feel, to touch, to see. Beauty surrounds us always—a painting, a song. Almost anything can help push us on the right path to help us discover the real "I" and experience who you really are.

Once you discover yourself, your fulfillment wish will be ineffable, but it all begins with being observant. Possibly, by being observant, we can find a special someone to share our lives with.

Annual clean up is back

by: Kristen Kapral

Planning recently began for Barry University's largest yearly community service project, and everyone's getting involved!

The 1990 Hunger Clean Up Day will be on March 31st, and the student Core Team hopes it will be the largest clean up ever.

Sponsored by Campus Ministry, and organized by Associate Campus Minister Julie Mickler, this is the fourth year for the Hunger Clean Up project.

The Hunger Clean Up Day is a nationwide community service project organized on college campuses in over 150 cities, and coordinated by the National Student Campaign Against Hunger and Homelessness. In 1988 and 1989, Barry's Hunger Clean Up ranked in the top 20 of clean ups held across America.

Problem

"Hunger and homelessness is a growing problem in our society. Students should be aware of these issues," said SGA President Christine Mica. "The Hunger Clean Up is an excellent way for students to help combat this problem and to show they care," said Mica.

The actual clean up day involves a large group of students, faculty and staff working in an area of the Miami community in great need of a large labor intensive volunteer effort. All volunteers are sponsored for their work, and the sponsorship money (combined with additional fund-raising) goes to benefit hunger and homelessness relief efforts locally, nationally and internationally.

However, a large part of the Hunger Clean Up takes place before the actual day. The main focus of the student core team is divided into four committee areas: fund-raising, publicity, recruitment, and worksite planning.

Sponsor

"The committees work very hard," said Michelle Fulton, Chair of the 1990 Hunger Clean Up. "In addition to working out the logistics of the day itself, our planning efforts include fund-raisers and events held on campus, and a large scale publicity effort designed to inform and involve Barry students and faculty."

This year, the Hunger Clean Up hopes to encourage more involvement on the part of clubs and organizations, in addition to individual students, in the events leading up to the Clean Up Day.

"The Hunger Clean Up could be more effective and efficient by having more clubs and organizations involved," said Adam Unger, President of the Accounting Association. "Each person in a club can motivate the others—the cohesiveness of a club effort then works toward the improvement of the community."

If you would like to find out more about the Hunger Clean Up, or would like to involve your club or organization in their efforts, please contact Julie Mickler or Michelle Fulton at ext. 341.

Campus deemed not safe at night

by: Robert E. Diaz

Recently, there has been a rash of crime on our campus including several assaults and harrasment.

Since the start of the semester several students have been assaulted or harrassed as they have been walking along the campus perimeter.

Beaten

Especially disturbing is the news that two students, on their way back from Circle K, were attacked and beaten. One of the students sustained injury to his ribs. This type of occurence is becoming more of a concern as more classes are scheduled from 6 - 9 p.m. Students many times have to walk to the far side of campus, to Wiegand, along empty and dark hallways by themselves.

In the past, a service was set up by Campus Security to escort students at night, but it did not meet with great success. The reasons for this are not clear.

Unfortunately, the problem still exists with regard to the safety of the student body on campus. What can be done? There are many answers to this question, but the most logical seems to be that of increasing the security force at night especially around the Wiegand complex. The time when a small security force on campus at night could provide adequate protection is sadly over.

As a Senator of your Student Government I share this concern with the other members of Congress. Presently, a committee has been put together to look into the security needs of the Barry community. Your help would be appreciated. If you have similar concerns or suggestions on this topic, please let the Student Government Association know by writing us or calling our office at ext. 225.

HSA Honor Roll to recognize faculty or staff

by: Jose Iriarte

Before all major traditions there were events, and before these, ideas and planning. This year, Barry students will be able to witness the birth of a tradition: the Honor Roll.

Beginning with this year's Honors Convocation, the Honor Student Association (HSA) will place one deserving member of the Barry faculty or staff on the Honor Roll, a "Hall of Fame" of sorts for teachers and administrators.

He or she will then be joined in the coming years by other deserving inductees.

This is an award with a twist: faculty and staff will be nominated by the students. Any student can nominate any teacher or staff member.

The Honor Roll is more than just another award; this is one of the few ways in which the students of Barry University can demonstrate their respect for members of their community.

Much has been made of the importance of the student at Barry. However, we must never forget the teachers and staff members who make it a special place for us.

Special

Certain teachers devote a great deal of their time towards helping students succeed in college and beyond. These are the teachers that HSA wants to recognize.

If the idea of the Honor Roll is to recognize service to the students by the faculty and staff, then it is obviously the task of the students to choose the recipient. For this reason, all students, regardless of whether they belong to HSA or not, may nominate a teacher or administrator for this award.

Gratitude

This is an opportunity for us, as students, to show our gratitude to someone who has made our load in some way easier to bear. For this reason, this seed cannot help but grow into a beautiful tradition at Barry.

To nominate a member of the faculty or staff for the HSA

Honor roll, obtain a form from the next edition of the HSA newsletter, the Beacon, or contact Dr. Mendez, Farrell Hall

Students able to study International Business in Geneva, Amsterdam, Paris and Israel

by: Dr. Hugo Hervitz,
Associate Professor of Economics

For the last four years Barry University has been organizing a four-week study abroad program in Europe and Israel during the month of August. The program has been growing in popularity and last summer it included 35 participants.

Registration is now open for the 1990 program which will run from July 27 to August 26 and will include Israel, France, Switzerland and Holland.

VIP treatment

The subject matter of the courses offered centers on International Business and Economics. Students in any major are allowed to participate if they meet the prerequisites. The philosophy of the program is that with the increased internationalization of the world economy it is very valuable for the students to be able to obtain a first-hand exposure to different cultures and economic systems.

Students that have participated in previous years consistently report that the program is a successful combination of having a great time and learning a great deal.

Lifestyle

One of the most interesting components of the program is the professional visits, in which the group is given VIP treatment by executives of major international companies, important government officials, well-known professors at leading universities, and functionaries of international organizations.

The Israeli segment will be based at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem, a beautiful campus on Mount Scopus overlooking the whole historical city. Sightseeing opportunities include prominent religious sites for Christians, Moslems and Jews, as well as impressive archeological remnants.

Tel-Aviv

The Tel-Aviv area features a high concentration of international business activities as well as the sea side lifestyle of a major Mediterranean city.

In Paris the students will be exposed to the great dynamism of the French economy as well as to the numerous charms of that great city. Accommodations in Paris will be at the Trianon Palace Hotel, next to Boulevard Saint Michel in the heart of the Latin Quarter.

The visit to Switzerland will be centered in Geneva. The dorms at the Cite Universitaire are located in a beautiful quiet suburb surrounded by the French Alps. (Yes, French it's not a typo, Geneva is located at the border with France). Professionally, Geneva is remarkable for being the home of numerous international organizations, several of which will be included in the professional visits.

Holland

Amsterdam is one of the most beautiful cities in Europe, and the Dutch are among the friendliest people. The group's hotel is surrounded by little streets and canals in the very center of town. In spite of its small size, Holland has a very strong economy, and it is home to several major multinational companies. Culturally, Amsterdam is home to some of the most impressive museums in Europe.

Registration for the 1990 program is open through March 15. Students must have a minimum GPA of 2.8 and satisfy other prerequisites.

The cost of the program is $2,950, which includes tuition for up to 6 credits, airfare, train transportation, accommodation and professional visits. Partial financial aid is available to qualified applicants.

Summer school in Austria offers academics as well as culture

The University of New Orleans will sponsor its 15th Annual International Summer School in Innsbruck, Austria during the summer of 1990. This educational/travel experience will involve over 250 college and university students as well as some 30 faculty/staff members.

Over 60 courses in different academic subjects are offered in the magnificent setting of the towering Tyrolean Alps in the "heart of Central Europe." Participants can earn up to ten semester hours of credit (fully transferable according to the usual rules.)

Europe

Courses offered focus on the cultural, historical, social, political and economic issues of U.S./European relations.

All courses are in English and faculty are from the Universities of New Orleans, Florida, Georgia and Innsbruck, as well as other visiting professors and distinguished political figures from the U.S. and Austria. This year's distinguished visiting professor is Dr. George McGovern, former presidential candidate, U.S. Senator and active scholar of international affairs.

During the summer, students will be housed in the Student haus at the 300 year old University of Innsbruck. The school is a short walk from the many inns, cafes, and beer gardens in the "old town" of Innsbruck. Three-day weekends offer ample time for students to ski the nearby glaciers.

"Spending the summer in Innsbruck, Austria was one of the most broadening experiences of my life, not only educationally, but socially and culturally as well," said

Meg Hanks, a former participant. Student Robert Styron stressed the learning experience of mingling with local residents, "You get to meet people and look at their perception of the United States."

The UNO-Innsbruck International Summer School runs from July 1 to August 11. Several optional pre-study tours are offered for those students who want to spend an extra month living and learning in a different and stimulating European environment.

Enrollement is limited. For a full color brochure and course descriptions write: UNO-Innsbruck

Theatre produces a Charlie Brown show

by: Laura Vendola

Barry University's Theatre Department will present the heart-warming musical comedy "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown," based on the comic strip "Peanuts" by Charles Schulz.

The show was designed with everyone in mind, both young and old; Charlie Brown has no prejudice against age.

Through the skillful direction of Patricia Minaugh, and the dedication and hard work of the cast and crew, the expression of childhood innocence and a child's simplistic view of life is anticipated to be revealed.

It is truly fascinating how a child views life and what goes on around him/her. "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown" is a funny and touching illustration of life through a child's eyes.

So, come and enjoy, through the characters of Charlie Brown, Linus, Schroeder, Lucy, Patty, Snoopy, Marcie, Pig Pen, and Sally the daily mishaps, triumphs, and reflections of these children. This is a show that people of any age would not want to miss.

HEALTH BEAT

Take time out to examine your health, it's your life you're playing with

So you say you are concerned about your health, but you don't have the time to get to a doctor. You think you have high blood pressure and you look a bit pale. Your schedule is much tougher this semester and eating isn't part of it.

Don't fear, Health Fair '90 is here once again. This fun filled day is scheduled for February 14 (Valentine's Day), starting at 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. in Thompson Hall.

Stress

Health Fair '90, sponsored by Barry's Health Services, will provide students, faculty and staff with a variety of health exercises, lectures and tests.

Some of the topics to be discussed include Stress Management by Rita Sordellini, Eating Disorders by Rosa Estela-Flint, and Exercise for College Students by Neil Miller. Pap smears are also available by appointment from 10 to 2:30 at the Health Center.

Ten stations will be available. Participants can begin at the information station, which will supply height and weight data, and end with the summary and referral, which will review your present health status. If necessary, referrals will be given to serious cases.

Worthy

Rosa Estela-Flint, Director of Student Health Services, has been working hard to make this possible. Flint and Stella Pas, with the help of Beth Wentzel, Lisa Wertheimer, and Michelle Campos, who act as student health advisors, have pulled together a group of professionals who have volunteered their time for this worthy cause. Guests include Dr. Thomas Merrill, who will provide foot screening, and Rachel Freeman, a dietician who will provide nutritional counselling.

When asked if there is a purpose to this Health Fair, Flint replied, "to assess the health of students, faculty and staff, as well as promote education and the understanding of one's health needs."

All participants have the chance to win raffle prizes supplied by the bookstore.

So don't forget, February 14 at 10 a.m. in Thompson Hall. Your health is the key to your success this could benefit you in more ways than one.

Immunization shots for residential students will be given in the Health Center on Feb. 14, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. There is no fee for this service.

Most common cause of skin cancer is overexposure to the sun

With spring break slowly approaching no doubt many people will be frolicking off to the beach for days of sun, fun and tanning. But frequent sun bathers should take precautions so as to avoid extensive damage to one's skin and even more important prevent skin cancer.

Even though overexposure to the sun is the leading cause, it isn't necessary to give up the outdoors in order to reduce your chances of developing skin cancer. Just use good sense and simple measures whenever you work or play in the sun - repeated sunburns are particularly risky.

Cover up with a wide-brimmed hat and a bandanna for your neck; wear long sleeved shirts and pants the sun can't penetrate.

Use sunscreens to help prevent skin cancer as well as premature aging of your skin. Women can get added protection by using tinted opaque cosmetic foundation along with a sunscreen. Apply sunscreen at least an hour before going into the sun and again after swimming or perspiring a lot. Don't use indoor sun-lamps, tanning parlors or tanning pills.

Sun rays

Know the ways of the rays for your best protection. You can get burned on a cloudy day and the rays can reach down into three feet of water.

Try to stand out of the direct sun at midday, as the sun's rays are strongest between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. Also beware of high altitudes - there's less atmosphere to filter out the ultraviolet rays. Skiers should remember that snow reflects the sun's rays, too.

It is also advisable that you get to know your skin. Whatever your skin type, do a monthly self exam of your skin to note any moles, blemishes or birthmarks. Check them once a month and if you notice any changes in size, shape or color, see your physician without delay.

Pizza is healthy food

Many people will be glad to know that pizza qualifies for the top ranks of good nutrition.

According to the American Council on Science and Health, pizza is a nutritious part of a balanced diet: meat toppings provide protein; wheat in dough provides complex carbohydrates; tomato sauce and vegetable toppings are rich in vitamins; and cheese is high in calcium.

"With the health and fitness craze in full swing, Americans are eating more nutritiously and watching their caloric intake," said Harold Solomn, National Director of Research and Development at Domino's Pizza, the world's largest pizza delivery company. "Once considered a snack food, pizza is now thought of as a well-balanced meal because it provides essential nutrients and contains only about 315 calories per serving, about two slices of a 12-inch pizza."

Speak your piece

Students respond to the following statement:

"The 90s will make the 60s look like the 50s" Dennis Hopper from the movie FLASHBACK

"I disagree when it comes to students because we are students and we know what's going on. I think students will find another way, besides protest, to influence the government, like writing letters..."

Takao Naagoya, LIFE Student, Japan

"I disagree. We were more liberal and more socially and politically aware in the 60s. I see the 90s as a continuation of the 80s, the 'Me' generation."

Susan Winson, graduate student from Utah

"I hope that American students would take the example of the courage of Eastern European students and, once again, push for progressive social change. Can we offer an honorary degree to Mr. Havel?"

Dr Michael Melody, Professor, Arts & Sciences

"I agree because in the 60s America was the center of political chaos. In the 90s it's going to be a global thing."

Jacqueline Cooke, freshman, Jamaica

"I agree with the quote because things are better now, the end of the cold war, a new peace. I look forward to the unification of the European community and more global interdependence."

Kheder Armelle, LIFE student, France

"The clothes, fashion and music of the 60s are coming back, like bell-bottoms!"

Ansurd Cover

"Looking at the 50s - a decade of conservatism, and the 60s - a decade of radical behavior, the 90s will be the 'wonder decade,' with no one knowing the political or economic outcome for sure. But one thing for sure, the 90s will awaken the world."

Connie Jackson, Business management, Kentucky

"This statement is totally wrong. The 90's will be the most conservative period to date ... people will only concern themselves with political, social and environmental issues when they are on the front pages. Once the public awareness dies, people forget about the problems of today ..."

Can you hear the Calling?

A song by
 Paul O'Reilly & Beth Johnson

It was just before the dawn when I heard the dark clouds move over my head
 I began to dance for rain but the soil was so barren and dead and I tasted the sin of Mother Nature's toxic tear
 she's weeping at our feet is it too late, or can't we hear?
 (Chorus: I hear the calling, can you hear the calling?)

In a far and distant land I hear the chopping of woods, falling down and another man will die for his rights as they are taken away where the highways of greed push on in an unpromised land where the truth sounds like an enemy and progress is the demand.
 Now is forever, but not for me.
 (Chorus: I hear the calling, can you hear
 the calling?)

Injustices still wash on our shores while governments are waging policy and war
 throwing stones in the name of peace and I can't sleep at night
 how much more can I take?
 Don't wait to ask what might have been
 "on earth as it is in heaven."

Provocative?

"There can be no peace if the things we believe in are different than the things we do."

Men's B Ball team wins first tournament game during last 15 seconds

by: Bobby Lathen & Nicole Patrick

With 15 seconds left on the clock and two points needed to win their first Sunshine State Conference Game, Barry's men's basketball team showed their true plundering "Buc" power as they stole the game from St. Leo's College.

Crucial

Both Barry and St. Leo entered the crucial game with a 0-5 record in the Sunshine State Conference.

It was a close game throughout the night and Barry was up by six when Wendell "Kimo" Nibbs, forward, had a personal and technical foul called on him. St. Leo's Augustine scored a three-pointer to tie up the game.

St. Leo missed the front end of a one on one and Barry's Eider Rubio grabbed the rebound and took it upcourt where he found freshman guard Barnabas Roundtree.

Win

With one second left he fired up a three pointer and scored!

This was Barry men's basketball team first ever Conference game win during their two year participation.

Following the win over St. Leo, the Bucs improved their record to 7 - 14 and 1 - 6 in the conference.

Their next game is Saturday against Florida State on the "Mocs" home court.

Baseball season starts with memories of the past

by: Tom Abdo

The 1990 Barry University Baseball team started the new decade by remembering the past. The First Annual Baseball Alumni Game was played on Saturday, January 27th. It was a weekend that brought back old friends along with many memories.

Donna Crawford, our own Alumni Director, Chuck Sennett, alumni and many others made this Barry baseball Alumni Weekend a great success. About 28 alumni players came back to test their skills against the young Bucs. They proved they still had a thing or two (two runs to be exact). After a lot of fun, the 1990 Barry University squad beat the alumni team 5-2.

The baseball team and Alumni Association would like to thank everyone who helped and supported that memorable weekend.

The team played its first game of the season against Florida Memorial College. The Bucs handled their opponents in a decisive win 11-4. Freshman right-hander Albert Iber pitched the complete game, going seven innings. Third baseman Mike Odze supplied the big punch at the plate by hitting a 400-foot grand-slam and knocking in 5 R.B.I.s

The Bucs split the next two games with St. Thomas University. After losing the first game at St. Thomas 8-2, the team bounced right back. Ralph Franco, a freshman from North Brandford, Connecticut got a base-hit with bases loaded in the bottom of the 8th inning to score the winning runs in a 4-3 win.

The Bucs got fine pitching performances by Tod Bucy, a 6-2 junior from Akron, Ohio and Tim Boynewicz, a 6-4 sophomore. Bucy pitched 6 1/3 innings while striking out 10 and Boynewicz pitched the remaining 1 2/3 innings for the win.

National Honor

The Bucs will play the University of Miami Hurricanes on Wednesday, February 14th at 7:30 p.m. at Mark Light Stadium. Ladies get in free with a date. Come out and support your athletic teams.

Recently, the Barry University baseball field received the #1 ranking by Turf Magazine. The national honor belongs to the university, but would not have been possible without the hard work and total dedication of our grounds keeper Jerry Brown. Jerry has given our athletic complex national attention and many thanks must be given to him. From all of the athletes who have the privilege to play on such fine fields, we extend our thanks.

Lady Bucs are smokin'

The Barry University women's basketball team is smokin'! In only their second year of existence the "Lady Buccaneers" are currently 15 - 6 overall and are battling for a spot in the Sunshine State Conference Tournament in early March.

Best

The team has a number of outstanding players, in particular, All-American candidates Kaurina "Moochie" Lofton and Aletrice Thompkins.

Head coach, Dan Olson refers to Lofton as the best guard in Florida, maybe the southeast. "I am disappointed that not more people have come out to see Lofton play. They are missing the best show in town," said Olson. However fans will have to wait until next year to see "Moochie" play as she injured her knee on February 4 and will not play the remainder of the season.

Progress

Where Lofton leaves off, Thompkins begins. The 6'1" junior has destroyed the opposition during the course of February.
