NEWS BRIEFS

EARN A GRANT BY VOLUNTEERING

The Adrian Dominican Service Program is a financial aid program funded by Barry University that gives undergraduate students the opportunity to perform community service in exchange for a grant. Students who have been offered this program must attend an orientation meeting, if you have not done so already. The final meeting will be on Thurs., Oct. 12 at 4:00 p.m. in the Chapel. If you are unable to attend, please contact Father Emiliano at the Campus Ministry Volunteer Center in Thompson Hall. The Financial Aid Office may also be contacted regarding eligibility criteria.

GOTTA BUCK?

Campus Ministry has established a fund to aid students, faculty and staff who are in need of a loan. The B.A.M., Buck-a-Month club, offers small, short-term loans to members of the Barry Community. As a faculty or staff person, you are asked to donate one dollar each month to this fund. At the beginning of each month, Campus Ministry will send you an envelope. Just enclose your contribution, staple the flap, and drop it in the Campus Mail.

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION WINS AWARD

A federally funded project in Barry's School of Education has been awarded exemplary project status by the Post-Secondary Planning Commission of the Florida Department of Education. The award for Project Infusion, a teacher training grant, was given to the Educational Computing and Technology Department. ## Barry's volleyball team ranks #1

by Bill Petrell
Staff Reporter

Under the leadership of fifth-year Head Coach Leonid Yelin, Barry University's volleyball team has achieved the NCAA No. 1 ranking in Division II. It is the first time a private school has sat at the top of the polls. Currently 8-1, the team is on a torrid pace, having beaten number 14th ranked University of North Florida 3-0 on Sat., Sept. 23. Barry also beat Rollins College 3-0 earlier in the week. But the biggest upset of the season came when the team beat previously No. 1 ranked Northern Michigan in three straight sets, giving the team a strong chance to earn the honor.

"The ranking didn't change the team at all, it just made the team more determined," said Yelin after the win over University of North Florida. "We want to go as far as we possibly can this year, but the team has a very tough schedule, playing many ranked opponents."

The team travels to Colorado on Sept. 28 to compete in a tournament which features top teams from across America.

"The team has certainly come a long way in the four years I've been here," said Marya Morusiewicz, Barry's senior setter. "This year I feel we have the best chance to go all the way and win the championship." Morusiewicz was named to the GTE Academic All-American team last year.

Also earning All-American honors was Mickisha Hurley. Hurley earned First Team All-American by leading NCAA Division II in hitting percentage (.437) and set a Barry record with 527 kills last season. A Second Team selection, Elvira Vakhidova, returns this year as an outside hitter.

Joining the team this year are freshmen Sonia Gubaidulina, a 6'4" outside hitter hailing from Moscow, Russia, Dana Block, a setter/defender from Independence, Missouri, will be tested in the big jump from the high school level to NCAA Division II.

Changing of the guard on Barry campus

by Dwight L. Stickler
Staff Reporter

Barry University has experienced a changing of the guard, literally. On July 17, 1995 a new security company took on the duties of policing the main campus and promoting public safety.

Wackenhut Security Company was replaced by the 50 States Security Company. A number of returning students seem oblivious to the change but Stanley Young, Director of Public Safety, insists a major improvement is under way.

"Fifty States brings a new philosophy to the issue of public safety," said Young. "As Barry continuously seeks to improve the environment of the campus for the students, staff, and surrounding community, we found that the management philosophy of 50 States falls right in line with what we are trying to do."

Young also said that the quality movement on campus is based on the idea that everyone involved with the Barry should work together to improve the environment and conditions of the campus.

These are the basic tenets of a management philosophy referred to as TQM, Total Quality Management, started by Arthur Deming in the 1950's.

Editor's Note:

Yeah, it's finally publication day! Welcome back to school and welcome to our first edition of this year's Buccaneer. Between moving our office (we're in the Library, Room #123, in case you didn't know), recruiting staff reporters and photographers, getting acquainted with the Buc, and spending hours and hours getting the first issue ready, we've all had a pretty busy month. Plus, we've even had time to make some great changes to the Buc's style and content that I hope you all like.

While getting everything prepared for the paper, one thing that really irritated me, and has set back our production rate quite a bit, is the student apathy that I've seen since I started working on the paper. (Granted, this isn't the first time I've noticed the lack of student interest at Barry.) But during rush week, it was a bit more prevalent when the Buc set up a table with the hope that we could get some writers, photographers, etc. to join our staff. But I was disappointed when only four people showed up to our meeting out of the 15 that signed up. Go figure?

Although the staff we do have now is extremely enthusiastic and interested in contributing to our "student run" newspaper, we sure could use some more help. I know that writing is not for everyone, but trust me, that's not all that goes into publishing a newspaper. There are plenty of jobs that could interest any type of student. We'd all like to make our newspaper the cr`eme de la cr`eme of all, but we need the students' assistance.

We already no longer have a yearbook due to lack of interest, let's not make the Buc the next to go. Please make the effort to stop by, write, call (899-3093), mail, or e-mail me (0677180@dominic.Barry.edu.) any suggestions that you have.

Well, I don't want to keep you in suspense any longer so, enjoy.

This page is reserved for the students, so send in your comments and address them as: letter to the editor.

Clinton writes about education cuts

From: President
William J. Clinton

Dear Student,

This is a busy time for you. But while you are choosing classes and making the decisions that will help you build a good life for yourself, the Congressional majority is working to make drastic cuts in education -- in your student loans, in national service, and even in your scholarships. And the cuts will jeopardize the future you and your generation are working toward.

I want you to know that I oppose these cuts. I will do everything in my power to fight them and to see to it that the dream of higher education remains real for all Americans. I will do this not only by defending the opportunities of those of you who are already in college, but by opening the doors further to make sure that even greater numbers of deserving Americans have the chance to stand where you stand today.

For the first time in a long time, leaders from both parties are resolved that we must balance the federal budget. From the day I took office, I've been committed to this goal -- to getting rid of the budget deficit that quadrupled our national debt in the 12 years before I came to Washington. So far, we have made great progress. In three years, we have cut the deficit nearly in half, from $290 billion to $160 billion.

Now we are ready to eliminate the deficit entirely. On this, the Congressional majority and I see eye to eye. But just how we get rid of the deficit is another matter. The majority in Congress wants to balance the budget in seven years, and do it while giving an unnecessarily large tax cut. But in order to do these things, the Congressional majority would make enormous cuts in education.

My balanced budget plan would take more years than Congress to eliminate the deficit, but that's a small price to pay to keep your scholarships, your student loans, and national service safe and well. It would also preserve our ability to protect the environment and the integrity of Medicare for our older citizens.

Balancing the budget is about more than numbers. It's about our values and our future. Education has always been the currency of the American Dream. When I was your age, it was assumed -- based on our long history -- that each generation would have a better life than the preceding one. More than anything else, a good education is the way we pass this vision on to those who come after us.

The facts speak for themselves. Earnings for those with no post-secondary education have fallen substantially in the last 15 years. The only people for whom earnings have increased steadily are people exactly like you -- those Americans with more education. Every year of higher education increases your earnings by six to twelve percent. Those years also mean a stronger overall economy and richer lives for those who have them.

Balancing the budget will be good for our economy and your future if it's done right. But simply balancing the budget won't do as much good in the long term if your generation does not have the education it needs to meet the challenges of the next century.

Just think over what the Congressional majority's plan, if it went through, would do to you, your classmates, and any of the one out of two college students who receives federal aid. It would:

- Raise the cost of student loans by $10 billion over seven years by charging you interest on your loan while you are in school. This would increase the cost of a college education by as much as $3,100 for undergraduates and $9,400 for graduate students.
- Deny up to 360,000 low-income students desperately needed Pell Grants in 1996.
- Shut down Americorps, our national service initiative, which gives thousands of young people the chance to earn and save money for college while serving their country.

By contrast, my balanced budget plan builds on the national consensus that we must help people help themselves, through the power of education. It eliminates both of our deficits: our budget deficit and our education deficit. My plan cuts wasteful spending by more than $1 trillion, but it also increases investments in education by $40 billion over the next seven years.

Think over how my balanced budget plan would help guarantee your future and all the hard work you're about to put into it. It will:

- Increase funding for Pell Grants by $3.4 billion. Almost one million more students would benefit from the scholarships. And we would raise the top award to $3,128 by the year 2002.
- Expand Americorps to let even more young Americans serve their communities and go to college. Protect our direct-lending program, which makes student loans more affordable, with more repayment options, and saves taxpayers, parents, and students billions of dollars.

I just returned from Pearl Harbor, where I took part in ceremonies marking the 50th anniversary of the end of the Second World War. In the late 1940s, when the veterans we honored left their loved ones to go off and serve their country, they were the age most of you are now. When they came home, the country recognized their service and their potential, and it responded with the G.I. Bill, which guaranteed a college education to every returning veteran. Those who served weren't given a handout, and they didn't want one. They were given the opportunity they needed to take responsibility for their lives.

Your generation has its own battles to wage. You face the choice of doing something right and difficult -- or something easy and wrong.

In taking on the responsibility of educating yourselves, you have chosen the right and difficult path. You did the work you had to do to get into college. You may be working now to pay your way. And your family may have worked long hours and made great sacrifices to help you get where you are today.

You deserve the nation's support. And your future success will likely repay our common investment. I do not accept the arguments of those who condemn irresponsibility in young Americans and then seek to deny the nation's helping hand to the millions of you who are doing the right things.

I hope you'll support my efforts to protect education and balance the budget. The fight for education is the fight for your future. In my life --- and in the lives of countless Americans -- educated has meant the difference between the impossible and the possible. It should be true in your lives, too. With your help, we'll keep it that way.

Equality without love; not likely

by Dwight L. Stickler
Staff Reporter

If you have ever heard a woman complain about men, you can appreciate this. Recently, an informal, undocumented, unscientific experiment took place. It was completely unplanned and totally lacking in any sort of hypothetical foundation. It probably cannot be duplicated nor would I encourage anyone to try. The conclusions of the investigator, however, should interest anyone who is concerned with gender relations and equality.

Imagine for a moment if the traditional gender characteristics of a monogamous heterosexual couple were reversed. What if the strength and direction of the relationship was determined by the female? What if the male assumed the subordinate and weaker role? What if the female would drive the car, pay for the dates, pick the places, even open doors? What if the male would acquiesce to the whims and desires of the female, seeking to please her and make her happy?

Sounds like this might be paradise to many a woman who struggle with equality in their relationships. And it may well be. Be warned though, not everything is as easy as it looks. Being in a traditional dominant role means responsibility. If the emotional content of the relationship begins to become too strong either as perceived or experienced, you have to put on the brakes. Emotional components of a relationship can have detrimental effects on either of the participants for a number of reasons. Perhaps time is being taken from other goals. Perhaps there are other relationships in jeopardy or, even ultimately more important.

Whatever the reason, the fastest, easiest, and safest way to put the brakes on is to clam up. This could explain why so many men do. Because they can and they feel that for whatever reason they have to withdraw. The results of our experiment seem to indicate that either male or female is capable of this behavior, given the right circumstances. As the dominant participant in the relationship, our unwary subject perceived that the emotional content of the relationship was becoming too strong and so she clammed up. Starting with very slight avoidance strategies, she progressed to full blown disregard or consideration for even an impassioned plea for some explanation of her disappearance. So, if you have ever heard a woman say, "Men can be so noncommunicative and unexpressive," this might surprise you. Apparently, so can women, if they are assuming the dominant role in the relationship. This doesn't necessarily mean there is a relationship between assuming a dominant role in a relationship and being noncommunicative and unexpressive. Or does it? At the root of the issue is not who is in the dominant role or even who is not expressive or communicative enough. At the root of the issue is the idea that as long as there is something to complain about, the war can be justified by both sides.

Perhaps, a more realistic approach to equality is in order. While we are so interested in fighting a war with each other over rights, dignity, and respect, we are ignoring the higher purpose: To love one another. If we ever expect to see true equality in our societies and our cultures, we had better learn that it is love that equalizes us. Love never tramples another. Love will not disrespect or disregard. Apart from love, we will never see what many of us so long for. The day when we can know our sons and daughters will esteem themselves highly enough that they can allow others to be equal with themselves. Perhaps that is the key to equality. Letting others be equal to ourselves. Not fighting with each other just giving each other, the respect that we want for ourselves.

Barry Sputniks: Alexander the Great is Dead. Julius Caesar is dead. Genghis Khan is dead. Adolf Hitler is dead. And, comrades, Jessie Helms is no longer a young man.

The Senator from North Carolina deserves nothing less than his place among the great contributors to Western culture mentioned here.

Who will pick up the fallen torch of repression and censorship when "Our Jessie", as I affectionately refer to him, shuffles off this mortal coil and is, without question, promoted to the glory he so richly deserves? Who then will have the courage and conviction to tell the truth about AIDS? That it is not a disease, as the homosexuals and Godless agents of the Centers for Disease Control would have us believe, but a scourge sent by God to punish homosexuals, as Our Jessie has proclaimed. Who will there be to challenge that den of evil and un-American radicalism - The National Endowment for the Arts?

Will Rush Limbaugh prove equal to the task? I fear not. Although he does meet the "eat-way-too-much-while telling-the-poor-to-tighten-their-belt" chubbiness quotient and more than fulfills the "self-satisfied in an unspeakably smug way" requirement, he nevertheless lacks the necessary fervor to distinguish him from a run-of-the-mill, welfare-bashing bigot. Is he up to reinstating the House Committee on Un-American activities? I think not.

Will Pat Robertson (prevented from becoming President only by the fact that God moves in a mysterious way) return from his self imposed stint in the political wilderness to assume the mantle of the fallen warrior? Only Pat (and maybe God) can answer that question. But I somehow doubt that Pat will be politically resurrected. His willingness to hand control of the Christian Coalition to a younger man suggests that he, like Our Jessie, may not be long for this veil of tears. God wants Pat back. Pat's work on Earth is done.

Perhaps Ralph Reed (Pat's successor) will rise up in righteous wrath to rain the long overdue fire and brimstone of the chastising Ultra-Right Jihad down upon the heads of the Godless Artists, the Depraved Homosexuals, the Loathsome Whores of Babylon seeking abortions, and the sundry non-white, non-Christian Heathens by whom the U.S. is set upon. But Ralph is a long shot. He's not nearly obese enough to stand more than a faint hope of filling the ample shoes of Our Jessie.

Where, oh where, can we find another to match the fervor of Our Jessie for bigotry and narrow mindedness?

Barry Sputniks, we have only one hope. Indeed, I have seen the future of "Family Values" and his name is Newt Gingrich. "Our Newtie" is the people's choice. Mired in accusations of sexual and financial misconduct, wonderfully obese, champion of the outraged taxpayer (while simultaneously resident in one of the most heavily federally subsidized counties in America), odiously complacent, and apparently - utterly without regard for the less fortunate.

The only alternatives are compassion and brotherhood, understanding and sympathy, charity and kindness! Godless Un-American values all! Some suggest that perhaps there is something wrong with a society in which the top 20% earn 44% of the total annual income, while the bottom 20% earn only 4.4% of the total. Some even advocate a redistribution of the wealth to ensure that everyone has decent housing, and plenty to eat. There are those who believe that all Americans are entitled to a share of the vast ocean of prosperity which surrounds them.

Two hundred and some years of free speech and tolerance of non-typical views have led us to where we now stand - on the very brink of the abyss. Liberal barbarians are at the very gates of our major cities!

Single mothers have the audacity to expect to be treated like regular mothers. Homosexuals dare to expect to be treated like human beings, instead of the disciples of Satan. Refugees from countries whose internal stability has collapsed actually think they are entitled to political asylum within our borders. The eternally snivelling poor stupidly blame uncaring government for their plight. The unemployed selfishly blame profit hungry big business for their jobs going overseas to more easily exploited labor forces. Even the middle class - unbelievable though it will no doubt seem to you - actually question the erosion of their income.

Beware of them Barry Sputniks!! Hound them. Vilify them. Use your Constitutionally protected handguns to root them out. They are the Communists! They must be destroyed.

We need strong leadership and a heavy hand to protect us from their vile doctrines. Now, more than ever, we need our traditional American values of hatred and persecution, our institutionalized suspicion of anyone or anything remotely different to ourselves. We need Newt Gingrich to make all of our decisions for us.

Our Newtie still believes in Mom and Apple Pie. Especially if Mom is not single or an inner city teenager. Especially if the apples were grown on land belonging to a multinational farming corporation using the latest pesticides and lots of subsidized water.

I, for one, look forward to the glorious day when all God's children (that is to say the White descendants of European ancestry) will be able to join hands with Our Newtie, and sing in the words of the old song: "Reopening the orphanages at last, reopening the orphanages at last, thank God Almighty!"

Fall '95 rush week continues to be a huge success

by SHANNON NOWER
Staff Reporter

Barry's diverse interests and activities were on display in the lobby of Thompson Hall as a wide variety of clubs and organizations recruited new members during the annual Rush Week, Sept. 12-14. Everything from the Scuba Society to sororities and fraternities to this newspaper, to cultural and ethnic groups and many more student organizations were set up to recruit in a crowd of tables, sign-ups and prizes.

For many new and returning students, Rush Week provided an opportunity to check out the various organizations and to answer some questions about membership.

According to several club officers the outlook for the upcoming semester seems to be optimistic. Catharine Dale of the Ambassadors Club said, "A lot of people came out to support us. We had over twenty-five pledges and they look like a really good group."

"We had a great rush. So many women rushed us that our membership is up to sixty-seven," said Jessica Kegler, President of Alpha Phi. This is more than double last year's members, Kegler noted.

"Rush always yields new pledges, but this year Student Activities really helped, especially Kathleen Bunting and Jay Gannon. Letting us use the display case and hosting 'Meet the Greeks' really made a difference in our success," said Kegler.

LeGrand Decius, President of the Black Students Organization said, "Even though B.S.O. doesn't really participate in Rush Week, we're expecting between thirty to fifty new members to add to our current roster of twenty-seven."

"Our club mails memos out because we want individuals who are participators, not just people passing by a table during rush week. For some clubs, rush is a good way to gain new members, but we depend on activities to draw interest," the B.S.O. president went on to say.

All in all, most groups told The Buc this was one of the best and busiest Rush Weeks in the school's history.

WSVN stops by MD for a Melrose party

by C. RYAN
Guest Reporter

On Sept. 20, students at Motrom Doss were visited by the WSVN channel 7 news team. And what was the occasion for this event? The 100th episode of Fox's television show Melrose Place and fan reaction. Entertainment reporter, Tim Sherno, was working on a story about the show and was in need of a Melrose party setting. With that in mind, Sherno phoned his summer intern, a Barry University communication student and thus, began the Melrose party.

Prior to Sherno reporting live from the Mottram Doss dorm, he was interviewed by Barry's own, Jose Suarez, communications major. The interview will be used as a television broadcasting project for Suarez and other communication students.

Sherno quickly turned the tables and began working on his assignment. Various Melrose viewers were interviewed for the ten o'clock entertainment segment of the news. At 10:20 p.m. Sherno reported live from the Barry dorm with twenty communication students and their friends seated in the background.

The broadcast occurred without much preparation, but as Suarez said, "That's how the business works. We were all sitting in class and once class was over, we were part of a live newscast."

Not only was this event an opportunity for the students to see a live broadcast, they also had the chance to represent Barry to the WSVN viewing audience.

VOLLEYBALL, cont. from pg. 1

Returning players include middle hitters Wei Liu and Michelle Heuton, two players that should help the team. Outside hitter Anita Garnett and Megan Yeomans, both juniors, will contribute to the championship run for Barry.

With all of the success of the Lady Bucs of the volleyball courts, activity on the sand courts near the pool on campus has been increasing steadily since the first day of classes. So far, there has been one student tournament, and another three man team tournament is scheduled for Nov. One player that is seen on the sand courts numerous times is Colin McCoy.

"I think the success of the volleyball team is influencing the students to go out and play volleyball once again. The sand courts make it easier because the players don't have to go to the beach and play tough opponents, lose, and not feel good about themselves. They can play at their own level and have fun, and that's what many players are doing," said McCoy after playing a set on the sand. "A lot of the players I see on the sand, I see them over at the gym, watching the girls play."

RAD teaches women the art of self-defense

KELLI MACCARONE
Staff Reporter

The scene-- fists flying, a knee to the groin, and a nun who never misses a punch. Sound crazy? This year's first RAD (Rape Aggression Defense Workshop) took place Sept. 19-21 and 26-28. RAD's aim is to educate and prevent women from becoming victims of an attack or any type of sexual assault.

The program was introduced to Barry by Jim Brittain, Crime Prevention and Training Officer. RAD is a simple, life skill program that teaches basic physical defense and stresses awareness and avoidance as its two main principles. The three night course included talks on prevention and options, lessons in striking motions and kicks, and a dynamic simulation where the students actually got to test their skills.

The course is taught by two of Barry's own. Brittain, along with Sr. Kathy Wiesneski, Campus Ministry, not only demonstrated the techniques, but acted as human targets for the students to practice their skills on an attacker.

"I am impressed with how well the techniques work even when lying down," said freshman Lynn Fowler.

Brittain hopes women will take this class and gain the confidence to say no if confronted by an attacker.

Any women interested in self-defense may contact the Public Safety Department at 899-3335. The RAD course costs $15 for a lifetime membership.

Parking woes continue to upset students and faculty

by Frank S. Alvarado
Assistant Editor

If you are a commuter student, chances are finding an empty space in the parking lot are slim to none. If you are a member of the faculty or a resident student, chances are your space has been taken by a commuter. That is the story of Barry's parking situation, more so this semester because of the rise in students this semester.

"There should be more parking by the H&S Center," said Diego Ganzosa, junior International Business major. "They should take out all those faculty spots and give it to the students."

Another solution suggested was a high-rise parking garage, similar to the one put in the University of Miami this year, but one sophomore commuter said, "Then you have to look at the downside, if that's done, then we won't have parking for a year."

Juniors Suzy Ubilla and Grace Terry suggested filling in the grass area in the commuter parking lot or behind the tennis courts.

Another problem is the registration cars. "We're giving an average of 25 to 35 courtesy citations and tickets on different parts of the campus daily," said Jim Brittain of the Public Safety Department, "that people need to park where they're supposed to and register their vehicles." One faculty member even received a number of tickets for not having his car registered.

Jo Lafrance, Academic Computing Lab supervisor, has found it difficult to park in the faculty parking lot by the side of the Garner building. "In the mornings I'll never find parking here. They definitely need more spaces because this school is not getting any smaller, it's growing" said Lafrance.

Senior Dan Rogers was asked how he felt about parking, and responded, "What parking? I think this school spent so much on recruiting that they didn't think about the parking situation".

"In the end it seems that the whole university is affected by the parking situation. Something definitely should be done about it," added junior Grace Terry.

What is news? What makes news? What attracts television coverage? These are some of the questions Jennifer Valoppi, WTVJ-TV co-anchor, discussed at the University Relations Hot News luncheon on Sept. 19.

The Emmy-award winning journalist and "Best TV Anchor" by New Times, spoke extemporaneously regarding: "What is news?"

The Hot News Luncheon is held annually for Barry's faculty and staff to promote better understanding of what constitutes newsworthy material. Master of Ceremonies Joe McQuay explained the University Relations staff cannot be everywhere all the time and what to do if you had a "hot news tip."

At the conclusion of the luncheon, recognition was given to those whom previously assisted with news tips.

Any "hot news" of your own? You can reach Michele Morris, director, at 899-3189.

"The TQM philosophy has given birth to COPS, Community Oriented Public Safety," said Young. "COPS is just what it says. We want everyone in the Barry community and surrounding community to pull together to create a safer environment"

Improvements have already been made regarding the mobility and number of guards on campus.

According to Brian Persons, Residential Life, the new company seems to interact more effectively with the students. Persons also added "I see 50 States around more than Wackenhut ever was."

Young concluded by saying he would rather not get involved in comparisons since it is still early to make a sound judgement, but he already sees improvement in attitude and service with this new company.

Barry's enrollment rate increases for Fall '95

by Joy Miskovich
Editor-in-Chief

At the start of every academic year, returning students are accustomed to seeing new faces. That is true even more so this year at Barry.

"The number of incoming students for the 1995 fall semester is greater than last year," said Marilyn A. Sibbles, Admissions Counselor. "This year we were shooting for 500, but we ended up with 568."

"This is a total increase of 5.6% from last year for all undergraduate admissions," said Grace Schollmeyer, Registrar.

Sibbles said the increase in numbers is partially due to Admissions reformed approach to recruiting students. Last spring Michael Backes, former Dean of Admissions, started a more efficient method of attracting new students to the Barry community by reaching a more targeted audience. They also spent less money on advertising and mailing.

According to Sibbles there were fewer applications, but those students who did apply were more interested. By narrowing the applicants, Admissions was able to focus more on those who were serious about Barry.

Greg Miller, new Dean of Admissions, is still implementing Backes techniques to continue up with the great success rate of recruitment.

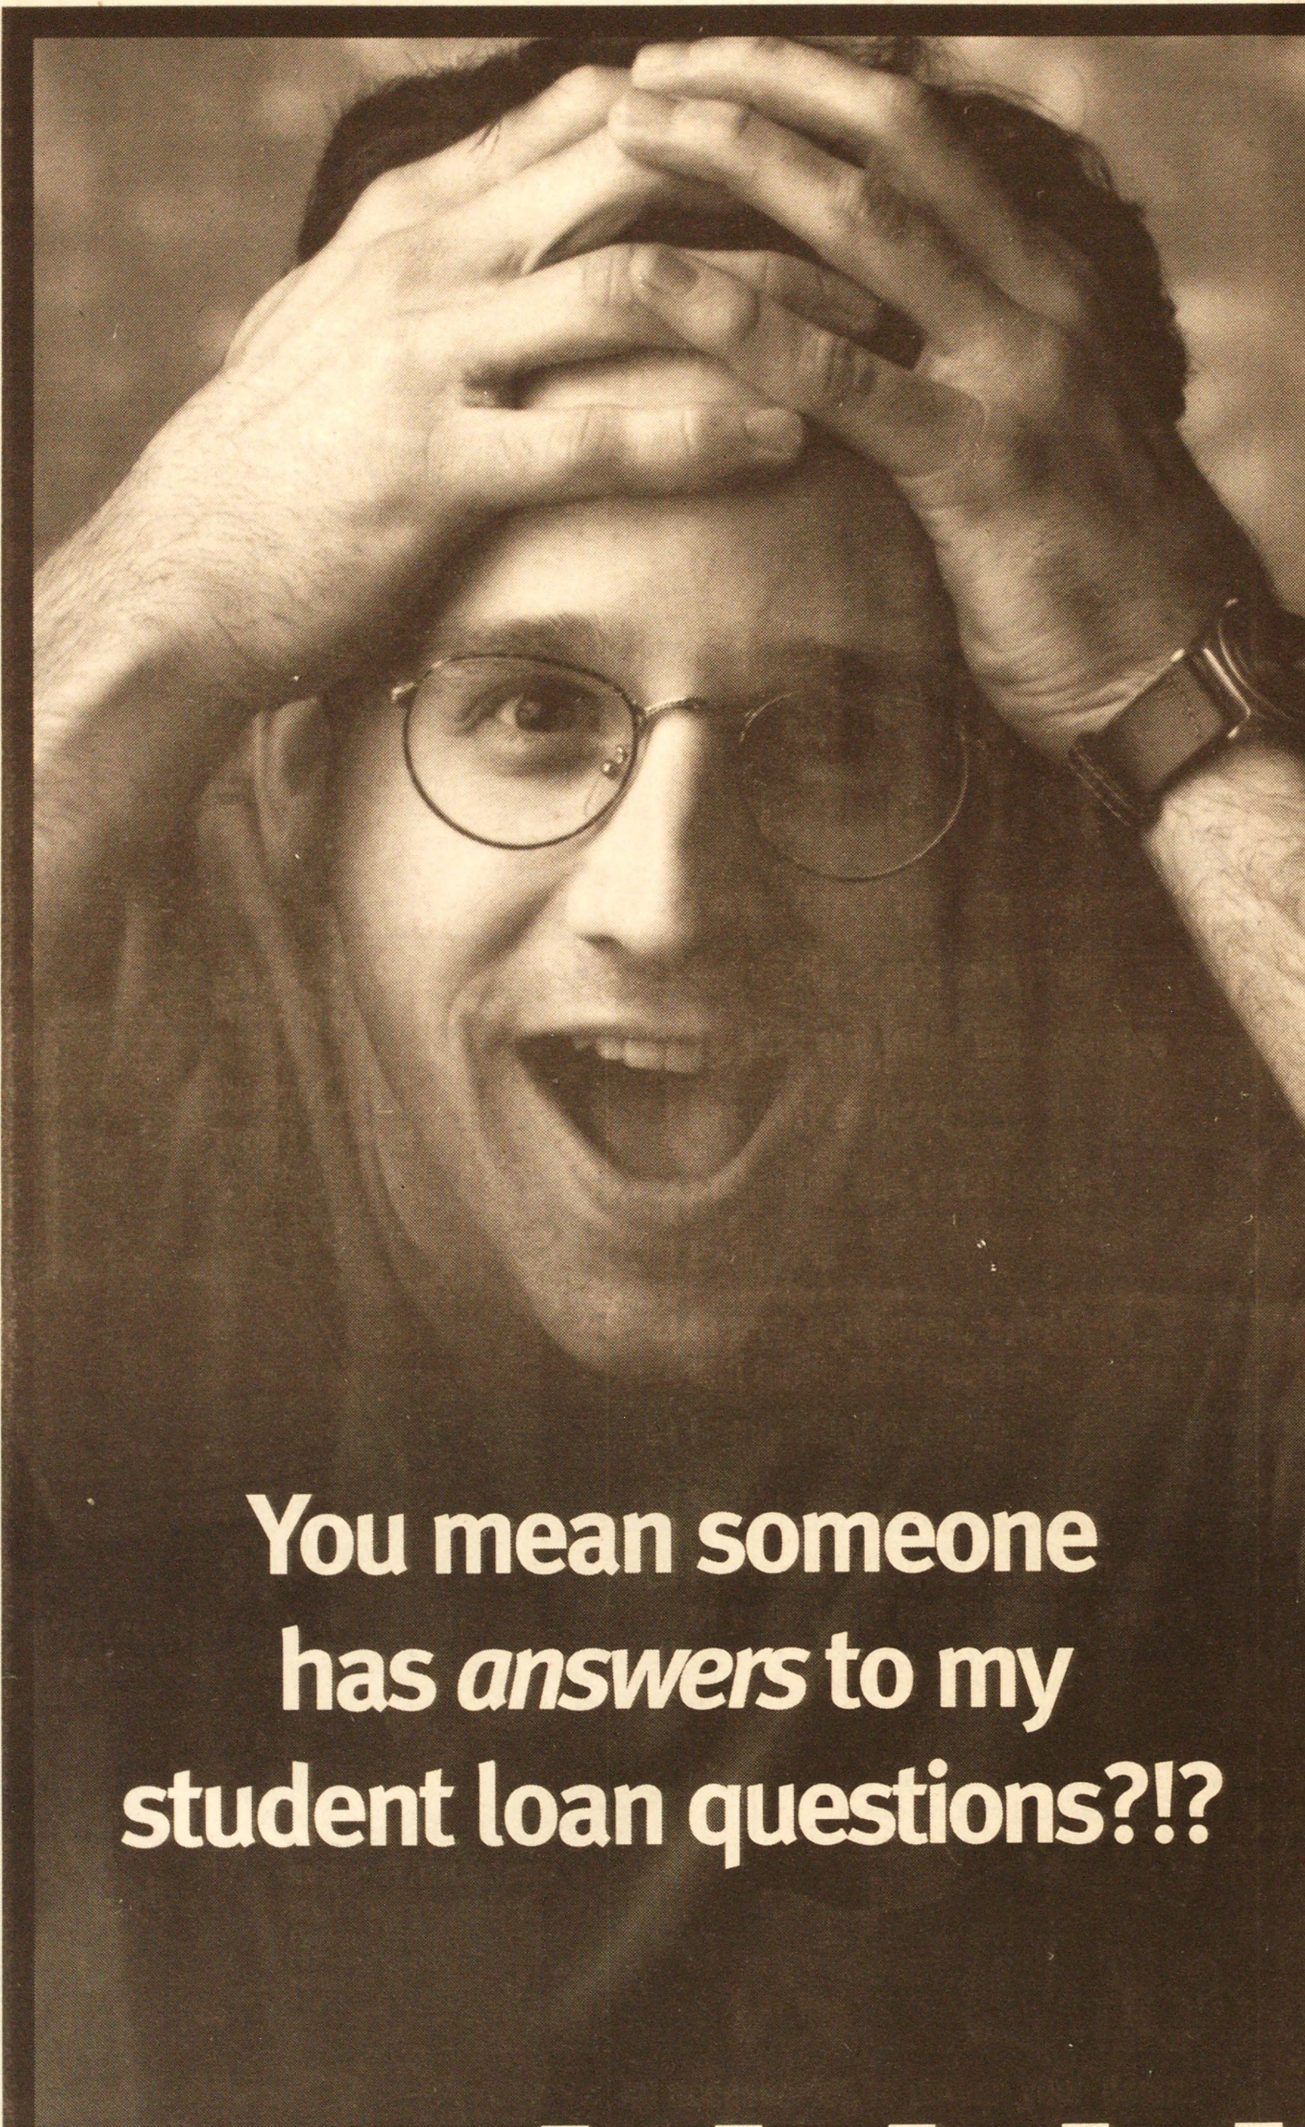

"I'm glad to see new faces at Barry," said sophomore commuter student Alfred Hued. "But it's hard to meet most of the commuter students; that's why they need to get involved in their school in order to make a difference in our school."

"I didn't understand what a big impact we have," said Sibbles. "Although Barry sells itself, a school's Admission Department can sometimes make or break a student's decision."

As Augusto Sencion, full-time sophomore resident student, put it, "It's good for Barry to have many new faces. It's also great for all students because we can make more friends, especially since we are such a small university."

Schollmeyer said exact numbers of enrollment were not determined yet since ACE, Adult and Continuing Education, students are still registering. The registrar will release the 1995-96 enrollment totals on Oct. 15.

Living Safely

by Jim Brittain
Guest Columnist

I would like to start by saying hello and welcome to all the new students, faculty and staff here this year. To the returning students, faculty and staff, Welcome back if you have been away.

For those of you who are new here at Barry or are reading this column for the first time let me tell you what it is all about. I try to focus each issue on a facet of personal or property safety and how to improve our individual safety. Like most things in life, the outcome of anyone's efforts to improve their safety depends more on them than on the efforts of others, either to assist or interfere. In other words, your safety is your responsibility.

But there are things we try and do to help. The Barry Public Safety Department (PSD) has done a few things over the summer to help you out here on campus. We have changed security companies, replaced the chains with gates at the vehicle entrances to the campus, started a Rape Prevention program called Rape Aggression Defense (RAD) and made some adjustments to the way our officers patrol the campus.

Since none of us spend all our time on campus (although it seems that way sometimes) we have some other services available. Should you have questions about crime prevention in your neighborhood we can put you in touch with the Crime Prevention Officers in your local Police Department. They have many different services available.

For organizations or interest groups the PSD has presentations available on a number of issues related to safety including Fire Safety, Personal Safety, Rape Awareness (for Men and Women), Automobile Safety, or a number of other subjects. If we do not have something available, we will assist you in locating a local resource that can help.

In closing I want to make sure that everyone is aware of how to contact

Women's Soccer

Sept. 2

Senior defender, Jennifer Strong, scored two first-half goals, including one as the half expired, then added an assist in the second-half, leading the Buccaneers to a 4-0 season-opening shutout of Nova Southern University, Sept. 2 in Davie, Fla.

Brian Dooley picked up the victory in his first game as head coach. Dooley, an assistant coach at Barry for five seasons and two national championships, became head coach in January when Mike Covone resigned to concentrate on his duties as Associate Athletic Director.

Junior forward, Kari Finnerty of Maynard, Mass., scored the first goal of the game at 9:20, putting in a seven-yard full-volley shot on a cross from Dawn Erthal. Strong then hit the nets from twelve yards out at 38:49 for a 2-0 advantage. She scored again from an acute angle just before the horn sounded to end the first half.

The Buc's final goal came from Amity Torbit on a header near the right post at 81:01. Strong completed her successful evening with an assist on the play. The Buccaneers out shot the Knights 36-1 in recording their 10th shutout in the past twelve games.

Sept. 8

The Bucs waded through 90 minutes of rain and sliced through enough of Lewis University's defense to earn a 3-0 victory.

Barry's offense clicked enough to generate 35 shots to the Riverwomen's five, but poor weather conditions limited the number of quality scoring opportunities. The driving rain and lightning stopped the game at the 41-minute mark before play resumed five minutes later.

Erin Jaeger led off with a tally at the 4:55 mark on an eight-yard dart to the lower right corner of the net. The goal was set up on a cross from Becky Oehmann of Jacksonville, Fla. Jaeger struck again from 30 yards out, assisted by Michelle Sillence, to increase the BU lead to 2-0 before the half. The final goal of the game came with a minute left, as Oehmann took a pass from Jaeger and knocked home a 30-yard goal.

Sept. 15

Rookie goalkeeper, Brandy Jones, Dallas, Texas, passed her first collegiate test in the nets with flying colors, as she made three saves and held New Hampshire at bay in Barry's 3-2 win over the No. 9 Penwomen. Jones went into action early in the first half, after starting goalkeeper, Janna Schimmels, Lakewood, Colo., collided with an NHC player while challenging for the ball. Both players left the game at the five-minute mark and did not return.

On offense the Buccaneers received second half goals by scorer Dawn Erthal, Ormond Beach, Fla., and junior, Becky Oehmann, Jacksonville, Fla., while leading scorer, Erin Jaeger, Plano, Texas, provided an assist in each half. Oehmann's goal at 73:56 gave Barry a 3-1 edge in what turned out to be the game-winner, as NHC cut the lead to 3-2 with 11:21 to play.

Kari Finnerty, Maynard, Mass., got the lone goal of the first half at the 19:34 mark, after she took a lead pass from Jaeger and slid a low shot past NHC goalkeeper, Sherri Thorp, from 10 yards out.

Sept. 16

Natalie Geeris earned a goal and an assist for the top-ranked Franklin Pierce College as the Ravens defeated second-ranked Barry, 4-0, on Sept 16. Franklin Pierce improved to 5-0 with the win. Barry fell to 4-1.

The game, which matched defending NCAA Division II national champion Franklin Pierce against 1989, 1992, and 1993 champion Barry, was scoreless at halftime. The Ravens took control of the game with two quick goals in the second half. Susanne Bergstrom scored the first goal at 54:15 assisted by Geeris. The second goal came just 1:17 later, with Geeris scoring unassisted. Franklin Pierce scored again at 76:57 on a goal by Paulina. Melissa Munro concluded the scoring on a goal with just under six minutes left.

Sept. 24

Last year, the Barry University women's soccer team, the NCAA Division II national champions in 1989, 1992, and 1993, failed to qualify for the NCAA Tournament because of a 1-0, last-second overtime loss to Presbyterian College, S.C. At a neutral field in Jacksonville, Sept. 24, the Buccaneers avenged the loss with a 6-0 rout of the Blue Hose.

All-American Amy Burrill, Newton, Mass., opened the scoring at 23:51 on a 20-yard free kick. Burrill added a penalty kick later during Barry's four goal second half.

The Bucs increased their lead to 2-0 in the final minute of the first half on a long goal by All-American midfielder Erin Jaeger, Plano, Texas. Her 27-yard shot whizzed past the Presbyterian goalkeeper who was screened on the play.

Barry also received goals from Amity Torbit, Jarrettsville, Md., Becky Oehmann, Jacksonville, Fla., and Nancy Farnsworth, Burlington, Mass. The win improved Barry, ranked #4 in NCAA Division II, to 5-1 on the season.

Presbyterian, ranked #7, fell to 5-2.

Barry goalie, Janna Schimmels, Lakewood, Colo., made four saves to record the shutout, her fourth of the season. She has not allowed a goal in 365 minutes played this year.

Men's Soccer

Sept. 5

Forward John Tovar, Davie, Fla., and defender Lenny Eterno, Davie, Fla., each recorded two goals and one assist, as Barry University overcame an early 1-0 deficit to rout Palm Beach Atlantic College, 6-1, at Brian Piccolo Park. The game ended after 72 minutes due to lightning, as Barry improved to 2-0 on the season. Palm Beach Atlantic fell to 0-2.

The scoring outburst, coupled with a 6-3 win over Wingate in the season opener, marked the first time in Barry's 12 seasons that the Bucs have scored six or more goals in consecutive games.

Barry put the game out of reach early in the second half on goals just 1:08 apart by Thomas Schertenleib, Aitendorf, Switzerland, and Eterno. Tovar scored his second goal at 65:23 to make it 5-1, and Eterno scored the final goal just 10 seconds before the referee ended play.

Sept. 13

In a game that featured a pair of lead changes and goals by seven different players, Lynn University outlasted Barry University, 4-3 in overtime, at Buccaneer Field on Sept. 13.

Lynn, a traditional NAIA power, improved to 4-1 with the win. Barry, fielding a high scoring squad that had produced 16 goals in four games, fell to 2-2.

Sept. 23

Tovar recorded a goal and an assist in Barry's 2-0 victory at St. Thomas on Sept. 23, and in the process, became Barry's all-time assist leader and moved into a tie for the all-time scoring record. Barry improved to 3-3 with the win. St. Thomas fell to 1-4-1.

Tovar, who entered the game tied with Gus Gomez (1989-93) for the assist record now has 24 career assists. Tovar has 74 career points, and is tied with Dalryle Jones (1991-94) for a spot in Barry's record book. Tovar is also closing in on Barry's career goal scoring mark. He has 28 career goals four more to tie Jones for the record.

Barry goalkeeper, Richard Rinehart, Royal Palm Beach, Fla., forced into the nets when designated starter Worden injured his hand during warm-ups, recorded his first collegiate shutout in only his second start. He made two saves.

Sept. 24

The Bucs dropped to 3-4 overall, and 0-2 in Sunshine State Conference play when they were handed a 3-0 defeat at Rollins on Sept. 23. The Tars improved to 5-2 overall, 1-1 in the SSC.

Goalkeeper, Omar Gibbs, Plantation, Fla., made six saves, while Rollins goalie Marcel Schaefer made eight saves in getting the win.

SUNSHINE STATE CONFERENCE

Sept. 23

Tovar recorded a goal and an assist in Barry's 2-0 victory at St. Thomas on Sept. 23, and in the process, became Barry's all-time assist leader and moved into a tie for the all-time scoring record Barry improved to 3-3 with the win. St. Thomas fell to 1-4-1.

Tovar, who entered the game tied with Gus Gomez (1989-93) for the assist record now has 24 career assists. Tovar has 74 career points, and is tied with Dalryle Jones (1991-94) for a spot in Barry's record book. Tovar is also closing in on Barry's career goal scoring mark. He has 28 career goals four more to tie Jones for the record.

Tovar scored the only goal of the first half on a header from eight yards out. His header went into an empty net, as St. Thomas starting goalie, Carlos Moran, misjudged the bounce on long pass from Jon Samford who assisted on the play. The score came just 11:58 into the game.

The Bucs, who took 12 shots during the second half, finally recorded an insurance goal on Schertenleib's 10-yard shot at the 82:18 mark. Tovar and Richard Dixon, Miami, Fla., assisted on the play.

Barry goalkeeper, Richard Rinehart, Royal Palm Beach, Fla., forced into the nets when designated starter Worden injured his hand during warm-ups, recorded his first collegiate shutout in only his second start. He made two saves.

Sept. 24

The Bucs dropped to 3-4 overall, and 0-2 in Sunshine State Conference play when they were handed a 3-0 defeat at Rollins on Sept. 23. The Tars improved to 5-2 overall, 1-1 in the SSC.

Goalkeeper, Omar Gibbs, Plantation, Fla., made six saves, while Rollins goalie Marcel Schaefer made eight saves in getting the win.

THE INFOBAHN: The new fad for all ages young and old

by Fabio Iannelli
Guest columnist

What is making the network of networks such a trendy attraction? What kind of power or benefits will it bring to John and Jane Doe? Infobahn, or the Internet, has reached everyone's ear, from big cities in the U.S. to rural farmsides in Asia. The above mentioned questions are just a few that millions of people are asking themselves.

Internet was created originally by the U.S. military in order to enable fast communications transfer between remote locations. University research teams were added to this network, and soon enough full university-wide access was given. Today, anybody can access this information resource for as little as $10 a month.

At first, the only way people could get connected to the Net was to go to a university whose mainframe computer was connected to the Internet, and work from a terminal linked directly to this computer. Technological advances have made it possible for people at home or even on the run to log on to the Internet through a personal computer and a three essential tools- a modem, a phone line, and some sort of software that interacts with the modem.

Until recently, Internet, was unattractive to the common user because of its archaic character-based interface. Just like the invention of Microsoft's Windows and IBM's OS/2, World Wide Web (WWW) has come to be known as the graphical gateway to the Internet. WWW incorporates all the essential internet tools; telnet, FTP (File Transfer Protocol), Gopher, E-Mail, and several more. Below is a list of definitions to the common terms listed around the Internet related topics:

E-Mail: Most popular Internet facility, allows users to send messages and files to other users across the world in a matter of seconds.

Telnet: Program that allows people to connect to other host computers across the Internet.

FTP: Program that allows people to copy files from and to a remote computer. FTP Archives are computer sites where a vast assortment of software and files reside for the public to access.

WWW: a.k.a., World Wide Web, graphical interface to the Internet, program used to access homepages, a multi-media based publication for documents where a browser program is used to decode the information.

IRC: Internet Relay Chat, a real-time communication facility which allows several users to converse simultaneously on a variety of topics.

NEWS: An E-mail based forum which allows users to pick a group of people discussing a similar topic (newsgroup), and allows them to answer to messages posted, or post messages on this virtual billboard.

TALK: A simple facility that allows two users to communicate in real time.

IPHONE: A new feature, partially working, allows users to voice talk through the Internet.

There are a variety of Internet service providers that are spawning everywhere. Most people have the misconception that the Internet is a product that one gets at a computer store and buys, and a lot of companies are marketing the service in this fashion. Such names like 'Internet In a Box', MCI Internet, and the many ads by America Online, CompuServe, and Prodigy are brain washing the public.

At Barry University, the Academic Computing Center offers almost all these services to the students at no charge, with no limit on time spent 'surfing on the Net'. Almost all commercial Internet Service Providers give a specific amount of peak hour free time, and then charge on a per hour basis. There are a lot of different deals, so one should definitely go shopping before buying a service.

So, what exactly does this all bring to you? Well, there are too many benefits to list, but here are a few things that might interest just about anybody.

1) You have a friend connected to the Internet, anywhere, not necessarily in the same city or country, and long-distance phone calls can dry up anyone's bank account. Internet provides a solution : TALK, IRC, or simply E-Mail.

2) You are working on a research paper, thesis, or are just looking for information on a topic of interest to you. Internet solution: NEWS, WWW, Telnet.

3) You own a company and video conferencing or faxing between Miami and an international destination through phone companies is rather expensive. Internet solution: E-MAIL, IPHONE, FTP, or Internet Video Conferencing.

The words 'computer network', just like computers, are enough to scare a lot of people off. Yet, just like driving a car, it is something that is in everybody's reach, young and old. The evolving graphical interfaces are simplifying the use of all computers for even the most computer illiterate people, and the simple words, "Computers and I are like black and white", should definitely NOT be an excuse not to try the vehicle that will become the new form of communication for the society that is diving into the 21st century's very essence.

Greenwood resigns

by Dan Rogers
Staff Reporter

Dr. Michael Greenwood, Head Baseball Coach at Barry University the past two seasons, and the 1995 Sunshine State Conference Coach-of-the-Year, has resigned to pursue coaching opportunities closer to his home state of Illinois.

Coach Chris Cafflon will replace Greenwood this fall.

"Coach Greenwood had the opportunity to move on to the more successful Division I level in Illinois," said Mike Covone, Associate Athletic Director. "His move was a chance for him to explore new opportunities for advancement in a diverse and challenging field."

Many of the players had mixed feeling about Greenwood's resignation.

"Greenwood's resignation was in the best interest of the school," said Senior Andrew Margolick. "He didn't click with the players, he kept to himself, and he was not available to us when we needed his guidance."

Margolick also wanted to stress that the team members now want to play to impress Cafflon. Margolick said that last year Greenwood relied too much on teaching skills. But at the college level, Cafflon was always able to bring the team together to be more successful.

"I think Coach Cafflon will be very successful in that he treats his players well and with an open door policy," said Mike Maulini, junior catcher. "Whereas Coach Greenwood offered little response to players on and off the field."

"I feel Coach Cafflon is less restrictive with the players and has better accessibility," said senior secondbaseman, Ozzie Delgado.

In addition, Delgado wanted to stress that the numbers don't lie, that Greenwood was the one who initially got things going.

All three players interviewed were concerned about the team over the summer since Greenwood was not available to recruit new players for the fall season.

Greenwood guided the Buccaneers to a best ever record of 36-16 last spring, including a 12-9 record in the nationally-competitive Sunshine State Conference. Six of his players were named to the 1995 All-SSC first or second team. Barry is tied for #21 in the latest Collegiate Baseball NCAA Division II Poll released May 22.

Greenwood's overall record at Barry was 61-43 (.587). This year's squad set 14 team records and numerous individual marks, while just missing selection to the NCAA Division II Tournament. Barry's 13-12 loss to the University of Tampa in a make-up game May 10 kept the Buccaneers out of the South Regional.

"Coach Greenwood has done an outstanding job leading the Barry baseball program to national prominence in just two years," said Dr. G. Jean Cerra, Athletic Director. "It is not often that you can find someone who is successful on the field and who is also a solid faculty member. We wish him well in pursuing his new goals."

The Bucs rev up for post-season run

by Frank S. Alvarado
Assistant Editor

This year has brought some changes to Barry's sports program, and not for the worse, but for the better. On the front page reporter Bill Petrell writes about our number one ranked volleyball team, a team that began to show great promise last year when they earned Barry's first invitation for post-season volleyball play. A team that rocked its way through the always competitive SSC. A team that came back this year to claim the #1 ranking by defeating the former #1 team.

The volleyball team is not alone. They are followed by the always powerful women's soccer team, a team hungry for a return to post-season play, a team that was prevented from defending their 1993 national title, when they were denied a post-season berth for the first time in years. They are also playing without Coach Mike Covone, the man who brought the program to prominence.

Despite his departure, the Bucs have only one loss coming against Division II's #1 team and last year's national champion, Franklin Pierce College and avenged a lone loss from last year against Presbyterian College.

The shake-ups did not end there, Mike Greenwood resigned as baseball coach, but he left behind a team ranked 22 in Baseball America and that had its best finish in school history.

Janice D. Allen, former women's basketball coach at FSU, brings a winning tradition to our women's basketball team.

The Barry sports program is on the rise, and as the student body we must stop passing the Bucs, the Bucs need support at home and away, and not just from residents, but also from commuters. School spirit starts with the school, so before you laugh at our sports teams, go out and check them out, they'll surprise you. Until then, GO BUCS!

Fraternity, sorority members binge more than other students

by Sunni DeNicola
College Press Service

For 19-year-old Matt Garofalo, Big Brother Night was supposed to be among the first of many parties at the University of Iowa fraternity he had recently pledged. It was the night when Lambda Chi Alpha told new members which older ones would act as their "big brothers," the guys who would guide pledges through their first year in the house.

"The big brothers were getting the little brothers totally smashed," Kelly Hirsch, a Northwestern University student who attended the Sept. 7 party at the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity, told "The Daily Iowan."

But what was supposed to be a celebration, a new beginning for Garofalo and other members, by morning had turned tragic. Garofalo was found dead by his fraternity brothers—a victim of acute alcohol intoxication.

That same night, members of Northern Illinois University's Sigma Chi fraternity decided to celebrate after an initiation ceremony of their new members.

"They apparently had participated in a formal initiation and then later headed to a field to take part in an informal fraternity ritual under the stars," says Melanie Magara, NIU's Director of Public Affairs.

At 3:30 a.m., Michael G. Simpkins, a NIU junior, was killed when the car in which he was a passenger went off the road, into a culvert and flipped. Simpkins was thrown from the car and died a few hours later at the hospital. It was just two days before his 20th birthday.

The driver of the car, a 21-year-old Sigma Chi member, has been charged with two counts of felony DUI.

By chance, the death of both students occurred the day before Harvard University's School of Public Health and Social Behavior announced that fraternity and sorority members drink more heavily and frequently than non-Greeks, according to its nationwide survey.

The death of the two fraternity students, both on the same night and in separate incidents, served as a grim reinforcement to the Harvard study. The deaths are being investigated, and the universities have suspended both fraternities pending the results.

In Garofalo's case, toxicology tests indicate he had "acute alcoholic intoxication," with a blood alcohol level of .188, nearly twice the legal limit for driving while under the influence.

"Apparently, (Garofalo) was participating in an evening where they (pledges) were identifying who their 'big brothers' might be and after that there was some celebrating, and alcohol was consumed," says Jonathan Brant, executive vice president of the National Interfraternity Conference (NIC). Brant says his information on the incident came from a report submitted to NIC by Lambda.

"Early indications are that the chapter was following their risk reduction policy," he added. "They wouldn't let him drive home; they got him into bed and stayed up with him. Later they fell asleep and then found him the next day in that condition."

Last spring, an alleged hazing incident at the University of Texas caused the drowning death of 19-year-old Gabe Higgins. Higgins was a pledge of the Texas Cowboys, a honorary service organization known for firing "Smokey the Cannon" at UT football games.

Higgins' body was pulled from the Colorado River fully clothed, with a blood alcohol level of .21, more than twice the legal limit. The official cause of death was drowning, but according to Jeff Rusk, the attorney representing Higgins' parents in a negligence suit against the Cowboys, Higgins was a victim of hazing.

"He was in an off-campus park, participating in an organized initiation ceremony," says Rusk.

The Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission and local sheriff's office completed their investigation last week, but will not release the results until the district attorney determines if criminal charges will be filed. The University of Texas also has not made public their findings, but Rusk says "the university found they were required to do drinking games and demeaning exercises—calisthenic-type things. They also were made to eat disgusting stuff, like hot dog buns with tobacco in them."

At some point, Rusk says Higgins, who was "real intoxicated" went into the river without even removing his boots. "While we are still lacking the total details, (we believe) they noticed he was missing at 2:45 a.m., but waited over nine hours before calling police in order to clean up the evidence."

Rusk also says that hazing penalties against the Cowboys are not new. The university put the Cowboys on probation in both 1992 and again in 1994, he says. "In fact, the 1994 probation ended the day Gabe died."

Following Higgins' death, UT's dean of students, Sharon Justice, suspended the group for five years, but the Cowboys have appealed. The penalty was reduced to three years, plus one year probation. Justice has appealed the reduction of the suspension to the vice president of student affairs, James Vick. Vick, who did not respond to phone inquiries, is expected to announce his decision shortly. Many national fraternities and sororities are cracking down and would prefer their chapters go alcohol-free. The National Interfraternity Conference (NIC), with 5,500 fraternity chapters, has developed risk-management programs and moved to a non-alcoholic rush. They also are encouraging the growth of substance-free housing.

Student loans increase three times faster than college costs

by Marco Buscaglia
College Press Service

A few years ago, Anthony Rosati had every intention of becoming a full-time educator. "I wanted to teach chemistry because I know I could do it well," says Rosati. "I wanted to find a good liberal arts school and help students learn."

But after pursuing a Ph.D. in chemistry at Georgetown University, Rosati felt the weight of something far greater than his life's calling: $86,000 in student loans. And because of those loans, the Philadelphia native is rethinking what he should do with his life after college.

"I just wouldn't be able to afford to pay back my loan if I took a job teaching somewhere," said Rosati. "It would be practically impossible."

Although few students find themselves in Rosati's position, there is a growing number of college seniors who accrue debts of $10,000 to $50,000 come graduation time.

"The situation is growing completely out of control," said Ted Freeman, president of the Education Resources Institute. "Students and their families have to readjust their lives to pay off their student loans."

Freeman's organization recently released a study on college borrowing, indicating that college loans have reached a total of $24 billion nationwide.

"We are headed for a dangerous era in higher education," Freeman warned. "Students won't be able to afford their loans unless they get incredibly high-paying jobs."

The ERI report states that the rate of student borrowing has increased three borrowed in the last two years.

Freeman said the debt problems have become a growing concern for students and their families. "People don't know times as fast as college costs during the past five years. During the same period of time, the borrowed amount has increased four times as fast as personal incomes.

"Students end up with a $50,000 loan debt and a $25,000 job," Freeman said. "It's kind of hard to start your life out of school with a burden like that."

Today's college student averages $8,474 in student loans, up from $7,675 in 1990 and $2,500 in 1980. The Department of Education estimates that of the $183 billion borrowed in the student loan program since 1966, more than 22 percent of that figure was how to handle this," he said. "They're worried about their futures."

In a survey of Americans dealing with higher education costs, the ERI, together with the Institute for Higher Education Policy, found that:

- 87 percent said college costs would be "out of reach" in five years.
- 68 percent consider student loans necessary, yet a major financial hardship.
- 52 percent said any additional debt would cause "serious financial risk" for their families.
- 43 percent said student loans represented a large portion of their household debt.

- 42 percent said education was the most necessary reason to borrow money.

- 17 percent said the increasing costs of student loans have resulted in members of their families taking less classes.

Freeman said one way to help shrink student loans is to expand the Pell Grant program, which currently tops off at $2,400 per student, covering roughly 21 percent of the average annual educational costs.

"We're forcing all students to borrow more money, especially those that have the least of it," said Freeman, adding that 20 years ago, more students received grants than loans. Now the numbers are reversed. "The government needs to recognize the importance of these grants."

Freeman also criticized PLUS loans, which are available to parents of students. "There needs to be a cap of $10,000 so parents don't borrow more than they can afford to send their child to a private, expensive school," he said. As for the recent debate on direct lending, Freeman said it's insignificant. "The money is still coming from the same place so it's just a matter of delivery," he said. "What's really important is the way the loans are handed out. Students need to know exactly how much they'll owe per month when they take out money. They need to be told what the end result will be."
